STASSEN ASKS AID PLAN FOR CHINA, ASIA

Boston, April 2 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen said last night that this nation should move against Communism by "bolstering" southern China and all of Asia with a billion-dollar-a-year "MacArthur plan."

Such a move, he said, would make up for "inaction or withdrawal of aid" which "contributes to the Communist domination of China."

The 42-year-old University of Pennsylvania president shared platform honors with Winston Churchill at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology convocation of top scientists and thinkers at Boston Garden.

"We should move, and move promptly," Stassen said, "to bolster the southern half of China."

Stalin, Hitler, Alike

Stassen and the entire philosophy of Communism were attacked by the speaker who said he saw little difference between the "fuehrer principle" of Hitler's system and the "centralism of Stalin's."

The "MacArthur plan" was brought up after Stassen declared: "Clearly the Marshall plan in Europe has been the most significant single right thing we have done since the end of the war."

"It is high time that we have a parallel MacArthur plan in Asia," he said. He said, would be "not a program for Japan, a program for China, for Burma but an Asia-wide program."

He described it in this way:

"Giving due consideration to European needs and to our own total economic situation and capacity, we should regularly invest a portion of our resources in Asia for the resistance to Communism."

Billions A Year

"The amount should be a minimum of a billion dollars a year. It should be administered on an Asia-wide approach, preferably in relation to local provinces and individual projects and in underwriting private endeavor, rather than being funneled through any central, major government." It should have "the same concept of objectives and requirement of self-help as the Marshall plan."

Stassen, who appeared as a replacement for President Truman on the program, described Soviet Russia's Communist leaders as being restrained only by "their appraisal of relative force."

Bullets Down Susquehanna 3-1 In Opener On Saturday

With Ken Houtz and Bill Brown sharing the pitching assignment and permitting but three hits, the Gettysburg college baseball team opened its 19-game schedule here Saturday afternoon by defeating Susquehanna University 3-1 before a large crowd.

Houtz threw the first five innings and yielded all of the hits and an unearned run. Brown twirled no-hit ball in his four-inning stint.

Susquehanna tabbed its run in the second innings. Felker led off with a double to right center. Solomon popped to Bill Atherholt. O'Garra gained first base when Wieseand bobbled his boundary. Felk moved to third. On a double steal Felker beat the return throw to the plate.

Coach Ira Plank's lads took the lead in the third frame thanks to a two-base wild throw. Woody Huntzinger opened by drawing a base on balls. Houtz bunted and when Bob O'Garra threw into right field, Huntzinger raced all the way home and Houtz wound up on third. Ray Novak fanned but Dick Wieseand singled to right scoring Houtz. Tony Cervino walked but Atherholt skied to center and Cervino was nipped on a relay at second base.

The Bullets' final run came in the fourth frame when Ditty Jones. Walt Kirker and Woody Huntzinger singled in succession after one was out.

Susquehanna never threatened thereafter and was completely hand-cuffed by Brown's efficient mound performance in the last four rounds.

Gene Hummel's one-handed running catch of Bill Ingold's long fly to right center in the third inning was the feature defensive play of the game.

On Wednesday the Bullets play their second game when they clash with Bucknell at Lewisburg. On Saturday Dickinson will play here.

Masters Tourney Opens Thursday

Augusta, Ga., April 4 (P)—Thirty performers rehearsed today for one of the great American sports acts, the Masters Golf tournament, and some of them played good parts on their long, wide stage.

Vic Ghezzi, the tall former PGA champion from Kansas City, has covered the 6,900-yard Augusta National course twice with the best average of the rehearsal season.

Ghezzi had a four below par 68, the lowest shooting of the session, plus a 71 yesterday. Clayton Kasper of Charlotte, N. C., is second low with a 69 and 71.

Practice rounds will continue tomorrow and the dress rehearsal will be held Wednesday. The 72-hole medal play tournament begins on Thursday with rounds of 18 to be played each day through Sunday.

Charles Town Meet Opens Next Monday

Charles Town, W. Va., April 4—Post time for the Charles Town Jockey Club's 22 day meeting, which ushers in West Virginia's 1949 racing season on Monday, April 11, has been set at 1:30 p. m., by President Albert J. Boyle.

With races run at 25 minute intervals, each day's eight race program should be completed by 4:30 p. m., even though there may be delays.

E. B. BASEBALL OUTLOOK GOOD

Prospects are good for a successful baseball season at East Berlin high school where Coach Warren Zimmerman has eight veterans from last year's squad around which to build his team.

Last year the East Berlin team's only loss in the Adams county loop was at the hands of Bolling Springs. Those remaining from the 1948 squad include William Moul, pitcher; Carl Perry and Gene Hoopes, catchers; Earl Mummert, shortstop; John Myers and Ned Dettler, third basemen; Harry Moul and Rodger Murray, outfielders.

Newcomers who have been showing fine promise in pre-season drills include Burnell Grope, Donald Hinkle, Lester Murray, Kenneth and Richard Myers, Dale Reicher, Ronald Hoke, Charles Weaver, Clifford Barnes and John Wonders.

The following 10-game schedule has been arranged for the team: April 12, St. Francis, away; 14, Dillsburg, away; 19, Hanover, home; 22, Bolling Springs, home; 29, Littlestown, home; May 2, Hanover, away; 6, Biglerville, home; 12, York Springs, away; 18, Dillsburg, home; 20, New Oxford, away.

ALIQUIPPA HI DEFEATS YORK TO WIN TITLE

Philadelphia, April 4 (P)—The PIAA Class A basketball championship is back in western Pennsylvania today for the first time in five years.

Aliquippa is the team that ended the east's domination Saturday night by defeating York, 63 to 51, before a standing-room crowd of 10,000 who witnessed the 30th annual Pennsylvania interscholastic athletic association classic in Convention Hall.

A city-wide celebration awaited the victors as they stepped from their special train last night in Aliquippa. The team was taken on a triumphal parade as thousands lined the streets of the little steel town of 33,000.

Burgess Louis Fontana proclaimed today as a legal holiday and school authorities promised only a brief session. A victory dinner is scheduled for April 21.

Set New Mark The Beaver County Indians also garnered two other laurels in their impressive victory. They broke the team scoring record of 47 points set by Allentown in the 1946 title-match with Duquesne and they joined the select company of Allentown, Hazleton and Lower Merion in going undefeated to win the title.

Duquesne was the last western finalist to win in the state finals. The Dukes did it in 1944 against Hazleton for the west's ninth triumph of the series.

Mickey Zernich, Aliquippa's six foot, two inch center, took the game's scoring honors with 18 points. His 12 tallies in the first half helped give the Indians a 12-point lead they nursed for the rest of the game.

However, Bud Shaw, a six-foot, three inch forward, proved to be the key to the westerners' success with his control of rebounds from both backboards.

A total of 45 personal fouls were a big factor in the game. York made good on only 13 out of 27 attempts while Aliquippa compiled a 19 for 28.

Brown Ejected Personal fouls hurt the easterners more than the figures indicate. York's clever play-maker, Captain Lou Brown, went out via the foul route early in the third period after sparking his team in the first half.

It was up to forward Charlie Inners and guard Dave Ritter to supply the York scoring punch as the Indians bottled up Brown. Both tallied 12 points.

Meanwhile, the spotlight returns to the Class B schools tomorrow night as Ashley and Kane battle for that division's state title at Farrell in high school basketball's season finale.

Ashley boasts the same record Aliquippa took into the finals — 28 straight games. The Rockets are scheduled to leave by plane today on their 300 mile jaunt.

Kane's western champions have won 17 games while losing only to Warren and Bradford, both Class A teams.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, April 4 (P)—Dumb Dan Morgan, who frequently argues that modern boxer: don't know how to box and modern managers and trainers don't know how to teach them, has a standing offer to demonstrate 120 different moves in boxing. The catch is that Dan insists on a sizeable inducement — say a $1,000 bet-before he'll put on the demonstration. "Joe Louis," Dan says, "didn't know anything about boxing except what Jack Blackburn taught him. Blackburn taught Joe four moves, and he won the heavyweight championship."

The four moves were how to feint; how to carry the body with a jab and make it effective; how to draw a lead and counter it with either hand and how to keep an opponent moving back or hold him in the center of the ring. "Louis always made them back up until he fought Walcott. Then Walcott backed him up and Louis got licked—at least I say he was licked," Dan concludes.

THIGH-ING IT UP Like most football coaches, Harry "Blackjack" Smith, Missouri line coach, is an inveterate doodler. But there's one difference. When Smith is wearing his gym clothes—shorts and sweat shirt—he invariably props his 13's on a desk and draws his diagrams and formations on his thigh. Since Blackjack now weighs about 225 and each gain measures 27 inches in circumference, he has plenty of blackboard space. Only trouble is he has to take a shower every time he wants to use an eraser.

MONDAY MATINEE Penn relays officials have placed a limit on ten teams in any one race for this year's meet—which probably will save a few spike wounds but will spoil most of the fun in the high school races. . . . Twin brothers, Hal and Harvey Toso, have been the sparkplugs of the Santa Clara baseball team ever since 1947. Hal pitching and Harvey playing short. Now if the Broncos could find a couple of hit-o- brothers.

Training Camp Briefs

Orlando, Fla., April 4 (P)—The fans may be in for a bawling orgy when the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators open the American league season at the nation's capital April 18. In an exhibition game here yesterday the two teams poured out 30 base hits, including three doubles and two homers: the A's won 9-7. Washington registered 17 hits and the A's 13.

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates were traveling to San Antonio, Texas, today and Manager Billy Meyer was trying to figure out how to put some more punch in his team's attack. The Bucs were shut out 3-0 by the World Champion Cleveland Indians yesterday, getting only four hits.

Montgomery, Ala., April 4 (P)—Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Philadelphia Phillies, today named Southpaw Kenny Hentzelmeyer to oppose the Montgomery Rebels, of the Southeastern league, in a night exhibition. The Phils came here after two straight victories in Birmingham. They now have a spring training record of 13 wins and eight defeats.

Alaskan Huskies Going To S. America

Philadelphia, April 4 (P)—Railway expressmen in Philadelphia batted down the hatches today for the arrival of 38 huskies from the north —Alaska husky dogs.

The dogs, tightly crated to preserve fingers and other limbs of attendants, moved by rail to this city from which they'll be sent to the Argentine for military duty.

The 80-pound huskies were selected by Col. Herman Pujato, an officer in the Argentine army. He went to Alaska to handpick his recruits for duty with mountain troops in the Andes. Then they were shipped by air to Seattle, where railway expressman H. H. White said "They're just like wild animals."

After the Argentine consulate at Washington cleared the transaction, the huskies began their railroad trip here from Seattle last Friday.

POSSIBILITY OF TRUCE WITH RUSSIA CITED

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

(Foreign Affairs Analyst)

"If Russia doesn't like being out of the Atlantic Pact, why doesn't she try to get in?"

A student of foreign affairs wants me to give him an answer to that—a good question to ask but not an easy one to answer. I suppose he may have had in mind the statement in the Soviet memorandum last week that "the great powers only the Soviet Union is excluded from the parties to this treaty, which can be explained only by the fact that this treaty is directed against the Soviet Union."

Well, I think we must start from the premise that the pact is created specifically for defense against any Communist aggression in Europe. In that sense the alliance may be said to be "directed against the Soviet Union," since the Bolshevik world revolution for the spread of Communism is controlled from Moscow.

Deafened People May Now Hear Clearly

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music and friendly companionship. Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 6, 1450 West 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today.

Wouldn't Be Welcome

This being the case I think we are safe in assuming that neither would Russia be welcomed in the pact nor would she herself wish to join under conditions as they exist at this writing.

Britain's Winston Churchill made a statement apropos of this question in his Boston speech last week. He asked why the Russians have "deliberately acted so as to unite the free world against them," and then answered his own query thus: "It is because they fear the friendship of the west more than its hostility. They cannot afford to allow free and friendly intercourse to grow up between the vast area they con-troil and the civilization of the west.

The Russian people must not see what goes on outside and the world must not see what goes on inside the Soviet domain."

However, while that's the way things now stand, it is within the range of possibility that there might be a sharp change in the position. Some western statesmen like British Foreign Secretary Bevin are said to incline to the view that once the Atlantic Pact becomes effective, Moscow may decide Russia's expansion in Europe has ended and the Kremlin may seek a truce.

NEW AND OLD FACTS ABOUT MOLES

Despite the widespread damages moles cause year after year in American lawns, gardens and fields, comparatively little is written about them. The average farmer or gardener is often unable to obtain more than a few hints about how to meet the menaces this invader brings with him. Every summer the editor receives numerous inquiries from readers about how to get rid of moles. Obviously old truths about this foe should be reviewed and new facts, if any are available, should be offered.

Perhaps the first principle in mole study should be the generally unknown truth that moles are invaluable allies of man in his war against such pests as the Japanese beetle, white grub, and other dangerous crop pests which spend part of their life cycles as pupae or larvae in the ground. So far as it is practicable, therefore, moles should be left alone. Of course, when they turn enemy and begin to damage lawns and gardens they merit immediate execution.

A widespread crime laid at the mole's burrow door is that of gnawing and otherwise damaging bulbs of such plants as tulips, crocuses and other bulbous ornamentals. To his credit let it be known that the mole is rarely guilty of this charge. In almost every case investigated it has been found that the depredations were the work of ground mice following along in the mole's burrow.

Recently the editor made a trip through the South and while conversing with gardeners learned that many southern vegetable growers, orchardists and farmers actually "poison" moles. The emphasis is made because it has long been deemed throughout the north that moles cannot be successfully poisoned because they eat few baits on which poison can be distributed. However, as these animals remain active most of the winter in the extreme south, the editor saw the method working.

Corn or wheat is soaked in water in which strychnine has been dissolved. After the grains are thoroughly saturated, a few are introduced into the mole's burrow with a minimum of disturbance. For with this, as with trapping, success depends largely on not interfering much with the animal's travel route, else it will abandon the burrow and construct another highway. This remedy is widely used in mole combat and seems entirely satisfactory for keeping the pests reduced.

In latitudes north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers moles produce their young quite early in the spring, usually in April. If gardeners will keep a close check on this habit and flood the burrows with water after young are born, many colonies will be reduced to the parents and in some cases these, too, are drowned.

Where small plots are invaded, such as small city lawns or flower beds, moles may be easily barred by inserting small-mesh woven wire in the ground to a depth of two feet, or down to the subsoil. Galvanized wire lasts several years in this role. Or a permanent barrier of concrete, brick or stone may be erected for this purpose.

Digging the invaders out by patient warfare is perhaps the most reliable and certain method of extermination. Trapping, as already suggested, may be employed, providing the traps are set with a minimum of interference with the animal's burrow.

Front Yard Flower Beds Beautify Modern Houses

1-DWARF PHLOX, PINK

2-AURICULA

3-POMPOON ASTER, WHITE

From 145 to 160 days are required from date of sowing seed to maturity of the first edible fruits. Therefore, with so long a growing season required, coupled with the fact that plants should not be set out until after the soil is warm in May, means that seed should be sown in late March or early April and plants be well started under glass before final transplanting time.

Here is the most practical way to start eggplants: Sow seed in a sunny window box, coldframe or hotbed eight to nine weeks before they are to be transplanted to their growing site. After true leaves appear, move plants to individual pots or plant bands and keep them thriving in a sunny coldframe, with plenty of space to prevent spindly development. In late April and early May the frame should be ventilated when weather permits in order to harden the plants off in preparation for moving to their growing place. Make the shift without disturbing the roots. Herein is the wisdom of using plant bands or pots.

The growing soil should be fertile, sunny and well drained. Hard or shallow loams are wholly unsuited for this vegetable. Do not use fresh manure, although a liberal application of well rotted and pulverized manure is beneficial, worked into the lower rooting stratum two or three weeks before plants are set out. Too, 6-8-6 or similar strength fertilizer is recommended, broadcast and worked into the soil at the rate of 2½ to 3½ or 4 pounds per 100 square feet.

Many commercial growers side dress the plants with a high grade animal tankage about the time the first fruits begin to form.

In a choice between clay and sandy types of loam, the latter is to be preferred because it warms up earlier.

Soaking seeds for a few hours in water hastens germination.

Eggsplants should be rotated so they will not be grown on the same ground more often than once every four years. Too, it is unwise to grow this vegetable where potatoes, tomatoes or peppers have grown the previous year. Burning the plant refuse before winter reduces garden-borne disease dangers.

Fruit rot may be prevented by treating seed for 10 minutes in a 1:1000 solution of mercuric chloride before sowing. Soak seed (in a cheesecloth bag) in the solution as advised, then drain and wash for 15 minutes in cold running water. Handle this chemical with care, it is a deadly poison.

Many gardeners spray eggplants ever 10 days with 4-6-50 Bordeaux mixture as a further preventive of fruit rot, beginning before the first fruits form.

An eggplant is at its peak of edible goodness when the skin attains a full gloss. At that stage the seeds are small and scarcely noticeable. Too, if the early fruits are harvested at this stage the plants will continue to bear until fall frosts come. Irrigation in dry weather pays big dividends.

When a new home has been built without a basement, so that the floor is just a step above ground level, a different type of planting is required from the conventional "foundation planting."

The purpose of a foundation planting, which consists of a belt of shrubs or evergreens along the foundation line, is to "tie the house to the ground." It raises a green belt to the level of the floor, in effect bringing the house lower.

With the low-set new homes, now so numerous, the lawn provides the green belt, since it is so close to the floor level. There is no room for a foundation planting. If one is made, it will not improve the appearance of the house, since it will make the house, already low enough, seem lower and the shrubs and evergreens will be likely soon to grow so tall as to obscure the windows.

Keep tall trees, shrubs and evergreens at a distance from small low modern houses. Plant flowers about them, to provide an attractive frame for their simple design.

Dormant Sprays Can Get Results

Dormant sprays are a great help in the fight against various insects so tough as to require stronger concentrations of insecticides than the plants can endure during the growing season. They are used primarily against scale pests, but lime sulphur sprays also are effective against certain plant diseases of fruit trees and others.

There are two factors which must be watched in their application. First, the plants must be completely dormant and second, the spray must be applied thoroughly on a mild day when there is no prospect of freezing temperatures for twenty-four hours following the application. Study carefully and follow the directions supplied by the manufacturer of the particular brand chosen.

Whatever should be used in front, and no tall trees or shrubs near the house.

An estimated 1,688,670 major crimes occurred in 1948, the F.B.I. reports

In the illustration is shown a door-yard garden, of the fashion which is rapidly spreading over the country.

This leaves the lawn open, and increases its apparent size. Beds of flowers are planted at the angle of the walk.

Low growing flowers are used, in pink, blue and white. Dwarf phlox should be sown directly in the garden, where it will remain in flower all summer, covering the ground like a carpet, with its attractive flowers.

Pompon asters grow in low bushes, with many branches, with a flower at the end of each branch. They make excellent cut flowers, and the flowers should be cut before they fade, to prolong the blooming period.

Small evergreens are used to flank the porch entrance. These must be kept low by annual shearing. In a house of this design no shrubbery

Out Of The Past
From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times
ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
The Hon. James Cooper and family left Gettysburg today for their future home at Pottsville, Schuylkill county.

Married: On the 29th ult., by the Rev. Mr. Holland, Mr. John Brinkerhoff, to Miss Margaret Criswell, both of Straban township.

On the 22nd ult., by the Rev. Mr. Sprecher, Mr. Samuel Diehl, to Miss Mary Arb, both of Cashtown.

On the 27th ult., by the Rev. J. Ubrich, Mr. Harvey Rockey, of Cumberland county, to Miss Lydia Glass, of this county.

On the 15th ult., by the same, Mr. William Leathery, of York county, to Miss Susanna Asper, of this county.

On Thursday, by Rev. H. L. Baugher, D.D., Mr. Jesse Smysers, to Miss Elizabeth Peters, both of McAllen township.

Rev. Mr. Martz: Rev. George J. Martz, formerly of our Seminary, who was ordained some months ago as a missionary to India, is to sail Tuesday from Boston, for Madras in Hindostan, and is to join the Lutheran mission at Guntoor in that country.

Dueling: It is said that General Taylor has irrevocably determined to strike from the Army and Navy list the name of every officer who shall be engaged in a duel, and to refuse to reinstate those already cashiered for this offense. This vigorous policy will go far to render the amusement unpopular in the service; and will effectually correct the gossanading and bullying, demeror of some of the very green recipients of the privilege of wearing a gilt button.

Late from Europe: The king of Holland died on the 17th of March. SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Rev. E. J. Wolf, of Baltimore, Professor elect in the Theological Seminary, has removed to Gettysburg, and will at once enter on his professional duties.

Mr. John R. Donnell has taken charge of the old Franklin or McClellan House, in this place (center square), which has been thoroughly refitted. Mr. Donnell has had considerable experience as a landlord in York, Hanover and Westminster, and will keep a good house.

(Ad States: "A good stable, a good hostler and a careful porter."
"Katalysine Water will always be on hand, free of charge for boarders.

At a congregational meeting held in St. James Lutheran church, on Monday, a resolution was unanimously adopted extending a six months' leave of absence to their pastor, Rev. G. W. Enders. Mr. Enders has made a very favorable impression during his brief pastoral services in this place, and the action of the congregation is a grateful recognition thereof.

The first of April, with the settlements incident to it, passed off more smoothly than usual in this place. As a general thing, engagements were promptly met, and money seemed more abundant than was generally apprehended. Both banks promptly discounted all good paper presented, and with the exception of discount larger amounts had there been a demand for them. We read in all this evidence that the financial condition of the county is sound.

Married: Frook-Leader. On the 29th ult. by Rev. W. K. Zuber, D.D., Warren P. Frook, of Carbon county, Md., to Miss Rebecca F. Leader, of Adams county.

Bauman-Warren. On the 29th ult., at Arden, Pa., by Rev. H. F. Long, Mr. Samuel Bauman, to Miss Mary A. Warren, both of Monaca township, this county.

GATHERED WISDOM
"When that I was, and a little, tiny boy,"
As Shakespeare said,
I thought the world was meant for joy,
With naught to dread.

For so it seemed, since all about
Were wondrous things
And I had not discovered doubt.
With all it brings.

But soon, when wiser grown had I
With added years,
I sometimes heard my mother sigh
And saw her tears.

And then I learned that always here
Are hurt and care
And sorrows ever waiting near
For all to bear.

At last with clearer sight I see,
Best loved are they
Who bear with faith what has to be
And none can stay.

Today's Talk
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
UPLIFT COMPANIONS
Seek the companionship of him who is able to give you an upward lift. There is a tendency on the part of those who look upon themselves as fortunate to seek out those in a like condition, that there may be a blending of misfortune. The result? A worse condition for all concerned.

We should constantly search for those who give us an uplift, who will help us to wipe out the memory of our mistakes and blunders. We all need the companionship of those who are braver than ourselves.

In this game of ours we must hunt for those who are better players than we are—that we, too, may improve, and become better. Fellow brooders in misfortune give no exercise to their climbing legs that they may rise above their state of gloom. Tie to the cheerful companion and you, too, will become cheerful.

In my father's library were several books by Samuel Smiles (a good name for a man), who wrote inspirational books that had a wide circulation. He was an English writer. His books so stimulated me that I sought other books of like nature, and from them to a wider variety of books—and never have I ceased to read and be uplifted by the best writers of all time. No one can read the books of Robert Louis Stevenson without feeling himself higher up in the world.

In our daily lives we need these uplift companions to help keep us alive, hopeful, and full of cheer. If life appears too easy, we unconsciously begin to slide down and lose interest, whereas this interest should forever be on the up and up! The chap, in the schoolbook story, who climbed to carve his name highest upon the natural bridge of Virginia, did not look down.

Readers of these daily talks must have noted that I am constantly quoting from writers and thinkers who have inspired me. They, in turn, were inspired as well by others. That is the way it works. The late Bob Davis took the world as his local story; thus everything that he wrote was fresh and instructive. He talked only with those who gave something new to him, that he might give to others.

Companion with your betters and you will become better. You see more, and you will have learned more, from the top rung of the ladder!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject "Just Simple Courage"

COPS BREAK UP NEAR RIOT AT RALLY OF REDS

Pittsburgh, April 4 (AP)—Pittsburgh's police superintendent and a Communist party official were in sharp disagreement today over the manner in which police broke up a near riot after a Communist rally.

No one was injured seriously as police held a crowd of 4,000 to 5,000 at bay outside North Side Carnegie Hall Saturday night. Six persons—none of them Communists—were arrested, five charged with disorderly conduct and one with inciting to riot.

The rally had been called to protest the current trial of 12 top party leaders in New York Federal district court.

William Albertson, executive secretary of the Communist party in northwestern Pennsylvania, was bitter yesterday in his denunciation of the near riot.

Two Versions
Saying he had asked police to prevent violence, Albertson declared in a statement: "Pittsburgh had a taste last night of Fascism in action. The violent attack on the Communist rally was organized and carried through by Pittsburgh's blue-shirted Hitler-like storm troopers. . . . The police did not do their duty. The police condoned the attack, permitting the maltreatment of innocent bystanders and refused aid when called upon."

Police Superintendent Harvey J. Scott jumped to the defense of his men. Scott said Albertson's comments about the Police department "were just about what we expect from Communists," adding:

"We will continue to enforce the law and see that order is maintained at and after every public gathering, whether it's Communist-sponsored or not. . . . As far as I am concerned, the Communists should be thankful we were on hand last night."

Scott said about 250 pickets were outside the hall Saturday night along with the spectators. He said none of the pickets or Communists were among those arrested, adding "the trouble came from the spectators."

Scott identified the pickets as members of the AMVETS, the Cath-

Favors Old Age Payments At 60

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Rep. Rhodes (D-Pa.) wants Federal old age payments to begin at age 60 instead of 65.

Rhodes has introduced a bill amending the old age and survivors insurance act. In another bill, Rhodes would amend the public assistance section of the act. Here too the age for receiving benefits would be cut from 65 to 60. In addition, it would prohibit a state from denying assistance through application of the so-called means test.

Some states, including Pennsylvania, War Veterans, Catholic Trade Unions, and Local 601, CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union.

TRANSIT STRIKE HITS SCRANTON

Scranton, Pa., April 4 (AP)—The four hundred thousand residents of Pennsylvania's Lackawanna valley cast about today for detours to work as a strike of 400 bus and trolley workers choked off their principal transit facilities.

The walkout began shortly after midnight yesterday but did not take full effect until the move-to-work began this morning.

Normally, 80,000 persons ride daily over the 25-mile network of bus and

On Murder's Skirts

By Terry Adler

Chapter 16

The landlady at Paul Russell's rooming house said she thought he was upstairs in his room. She called up, "Paul, company for you."

A door was opened somewhere upstairs and a bored voice said, "Yeah, who is it?"

As Ellen and Raff mounted the steps Ellen said, "It's Ellen, Ellen Carter."

"Well, hello, beautiful. I thought you'd come around now that Old Mother Hubbard's little boy has gone by-bye. But I didn't expect you this soon." There was a note of triumph in Russell's voice and he disliked him even before he met him.

They reached the top of the stairs and Raff saw a darkly handsome boy with a cigarette dangling from his sullen mouth. He was almost as tall as Raff and he was wearing a dark robe over flamboyant pajamas.

"Who's this? A bodyguard?" Russell's voice was insolent.

"Hello, Paul. This is a friend of mine, Dr. Rafferty. Turning to Raff, "This is Paul Russell."

"How do you do," said Raff briefly. Neither made any effort to shake hands.

"Come in," Paul said. "Any friend of Ellen's is no friend of mine—male friend that is. You know how these things are." A crooked grin appeared on his lips.

They followed him into the room. In one corner on a desk stood a whiskey bottle half full. Beside it was a tumbler, also half full.

Ellen sniffed the air. "Smells like a distillery in here."

"Just trying to shake this cold," Paul said irritably.

"If it really is a cold, that stuff won't do it a bit of good," Raff said quietly.

"What do you mean if it really is a cold? What do you think I'm filling this handkerchief with—tears of sorrow?"

Paul was in an ugly mood, Ellen could see at once.

She spoke up quickly. "Dr. Rafferty is an M.D."

Paul's eyes traveled slowly over Raff and finally came to rest on the small black bag he was carrying.

"Ah, yes. I can see his badge. His tone was derisive.

Raff ignored the comment. "How long have you had this cold?"

"Got it Wednesday night."

"What were you doing on Wednesday afternoon?"

"That's none of your business," snapped Paul.

"Okay, if you say so. I'd like to examine your throat and chest."

"Would you now? Well, supposing I tell you I'm bashful?"

"Supposing you sit down and behave yourself." There was unmistakable authority in Raff's voice. Paul's eyes opened wide in surprise.

"What's the matter, Doc? Business kind of slow lately?" he taunted him.

"Sit down and shut up. Nobody's going to hurt you."

Raff took hold of Paul's shoulder and gently but firmly pushed him into a chair. He reached into the black bag for some instruments. Paul watched him in silence as he put a stethoscope to his ears.

"Okay, breathe," said Raff.

"I've been breathing for years, Doc."

"Shut up and breathe deeply."

A minute later Raff put his stethoscope away, looking very thoughtful.

"What the blazes is this all about?" Paul demanded.

"Hold your mouth wide open and don't talk."

Paul started to protest, but Raff rammed a tongue depressor into his mouth. He looked down Paul's throat for a full minute without speaking.

When he finally released him Paul blurted out, "Where'd you get this guy anyway, Ellen. He even smells stinky."

"Okay, funny boy. Relax," Raff turned to Ellen. "It's just a common cold."

"Gee, he's smart, too," Paul said sarcastically.

"The best thing for you to do Russell," Raff said to him, "is to take a couple of aspirins and get into bed."

Raff closed the little black bag with a snap.

"Another thing — you might try washing your mouth with soap," he said.

"Just any old soap, Doc, or do you want to write out a prescription?"

"For Pete's sake, Paul," Ellen interrupted, "don't be such a smart Aleck. This is serious."

"Serious!" Paul laughed. "I'm in bed for two days with a rotten cold and suddenly you two come busting in here. The Doc here taps me on the chest and tells me I have a common cold. I say it's a rotten cold. He says it's a common cold. What's so serious? Personally I don't even think it's funny."

He turned his back on them and picked up the tumbler of whiskey.

"Paul," Ellen said, "Dr. Bray is dead."

"Yeah, I know. Committed suicide." He didn't seem very concerned.

"Who told you?" Raff asked quickly.

"Holy Smokes, what is this? A doctor's orals? If it's so important to you, it was Eddie Worden. He and Bill stopped by this afternoon."

"It is important," said Raff slowly. "You see, Dr. Bray was murdered."

"Murdered!"

"Yes. He was murdered last night around midnight. I spotted the suicide, as phony as soon as I saw it. The autopsy confirmed that he was struck in the back first with a hypo full of cyanide."

Paul looked from Raff to Ellen and back again to Raff.

Littlestown

Littlestown—A special offering for World Service was received in Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, on Sunday morning. Following the services, the Girls Guild received contributions for the Holy Week and Easter flower fund, which money will be used to purchase flowers for the church and then distribute them to the sick and shut-in members following the Easter services. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Harry E. Bair, announced that the Sunday school class taught by Mervin L. Myers will be in charge of placing the electrically lighted cross in the church for the Holy Week and Easter services. The pastor, the Rev. John C. Brumbach, announced that there will be choir practice Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock instead of the Men's Chorus as previously announced. The pastor also announced the following services for Holy Week and Easter: Palm Sunday, April 10, preparatory service, 10:30 a. m.; Wednesday April 13, adult baptism and confirmation; 6:30 p. m.; Thursday, April 14, dedication of a private communion set which will be presented to the church by the Girls Guild; Good Friday, April 15, Holy Communion. The Holy Week services will be at 7:30 p. m. Easter Sunday, 10:30 a. m., Holy Communion, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the parsonage, East King street, the Rev. Mr. Brumbach baptized Nancy Christine Hiker, daughter of Walter Eugene and Delta G. (Good) Hiker. She was born in Union township, April 20, 1947.

Holy Communion will be administered in St. Luke's Reformed church, White Hall, the Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor, Palm Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The monthly meeting of the missionary society will be held Sunday morning following Sunday school with Mrs. D. C. Shanebrook as the leader.

Flowers were placed on the altar of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday by Mrs. John R. Byers and family in memory of John R. Byers, who died seven years ago on April 10, 1932.

"Should I Be Religious?" was the topic for the Christian Endeavor society of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday evening. Ray and Lou Elta Miller were the leaders. Virginia Plunkert read the scripture lesson. Next Sunday evening Gene Miller will be the leader.

Phyllis Markle was the leader of the Christian Endeavor society of Christ Reformed church on Sunday evening. Theodore Bair read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Irvin Markle offered prayer. The topic, "Long Range Strategy," was discussed by Lewis Bair. Business was in charge of the president, Mervin K. Myers. It was decided to take two additional subscriptions to the Christian Endeavor Quarterly. Mrs. LeRoy Berwager will be the leader next Sunday evening when the topic will be, "I believe in Christ's Church." The meeting closed with prayer and the Christian Endeavor benediction. A slight accident occurred Saturday evening about 9 o'clock at Center Square, when Paul Palmer, Littlestown, stopped for a light on South Queen street. John Shoemaker of Littlestown, who was following, accidentally struck Palmer. There was no damage to the Palmer car, but Shoemaker's fog lights and grille was damaged. Chief of Police Gage investigated.

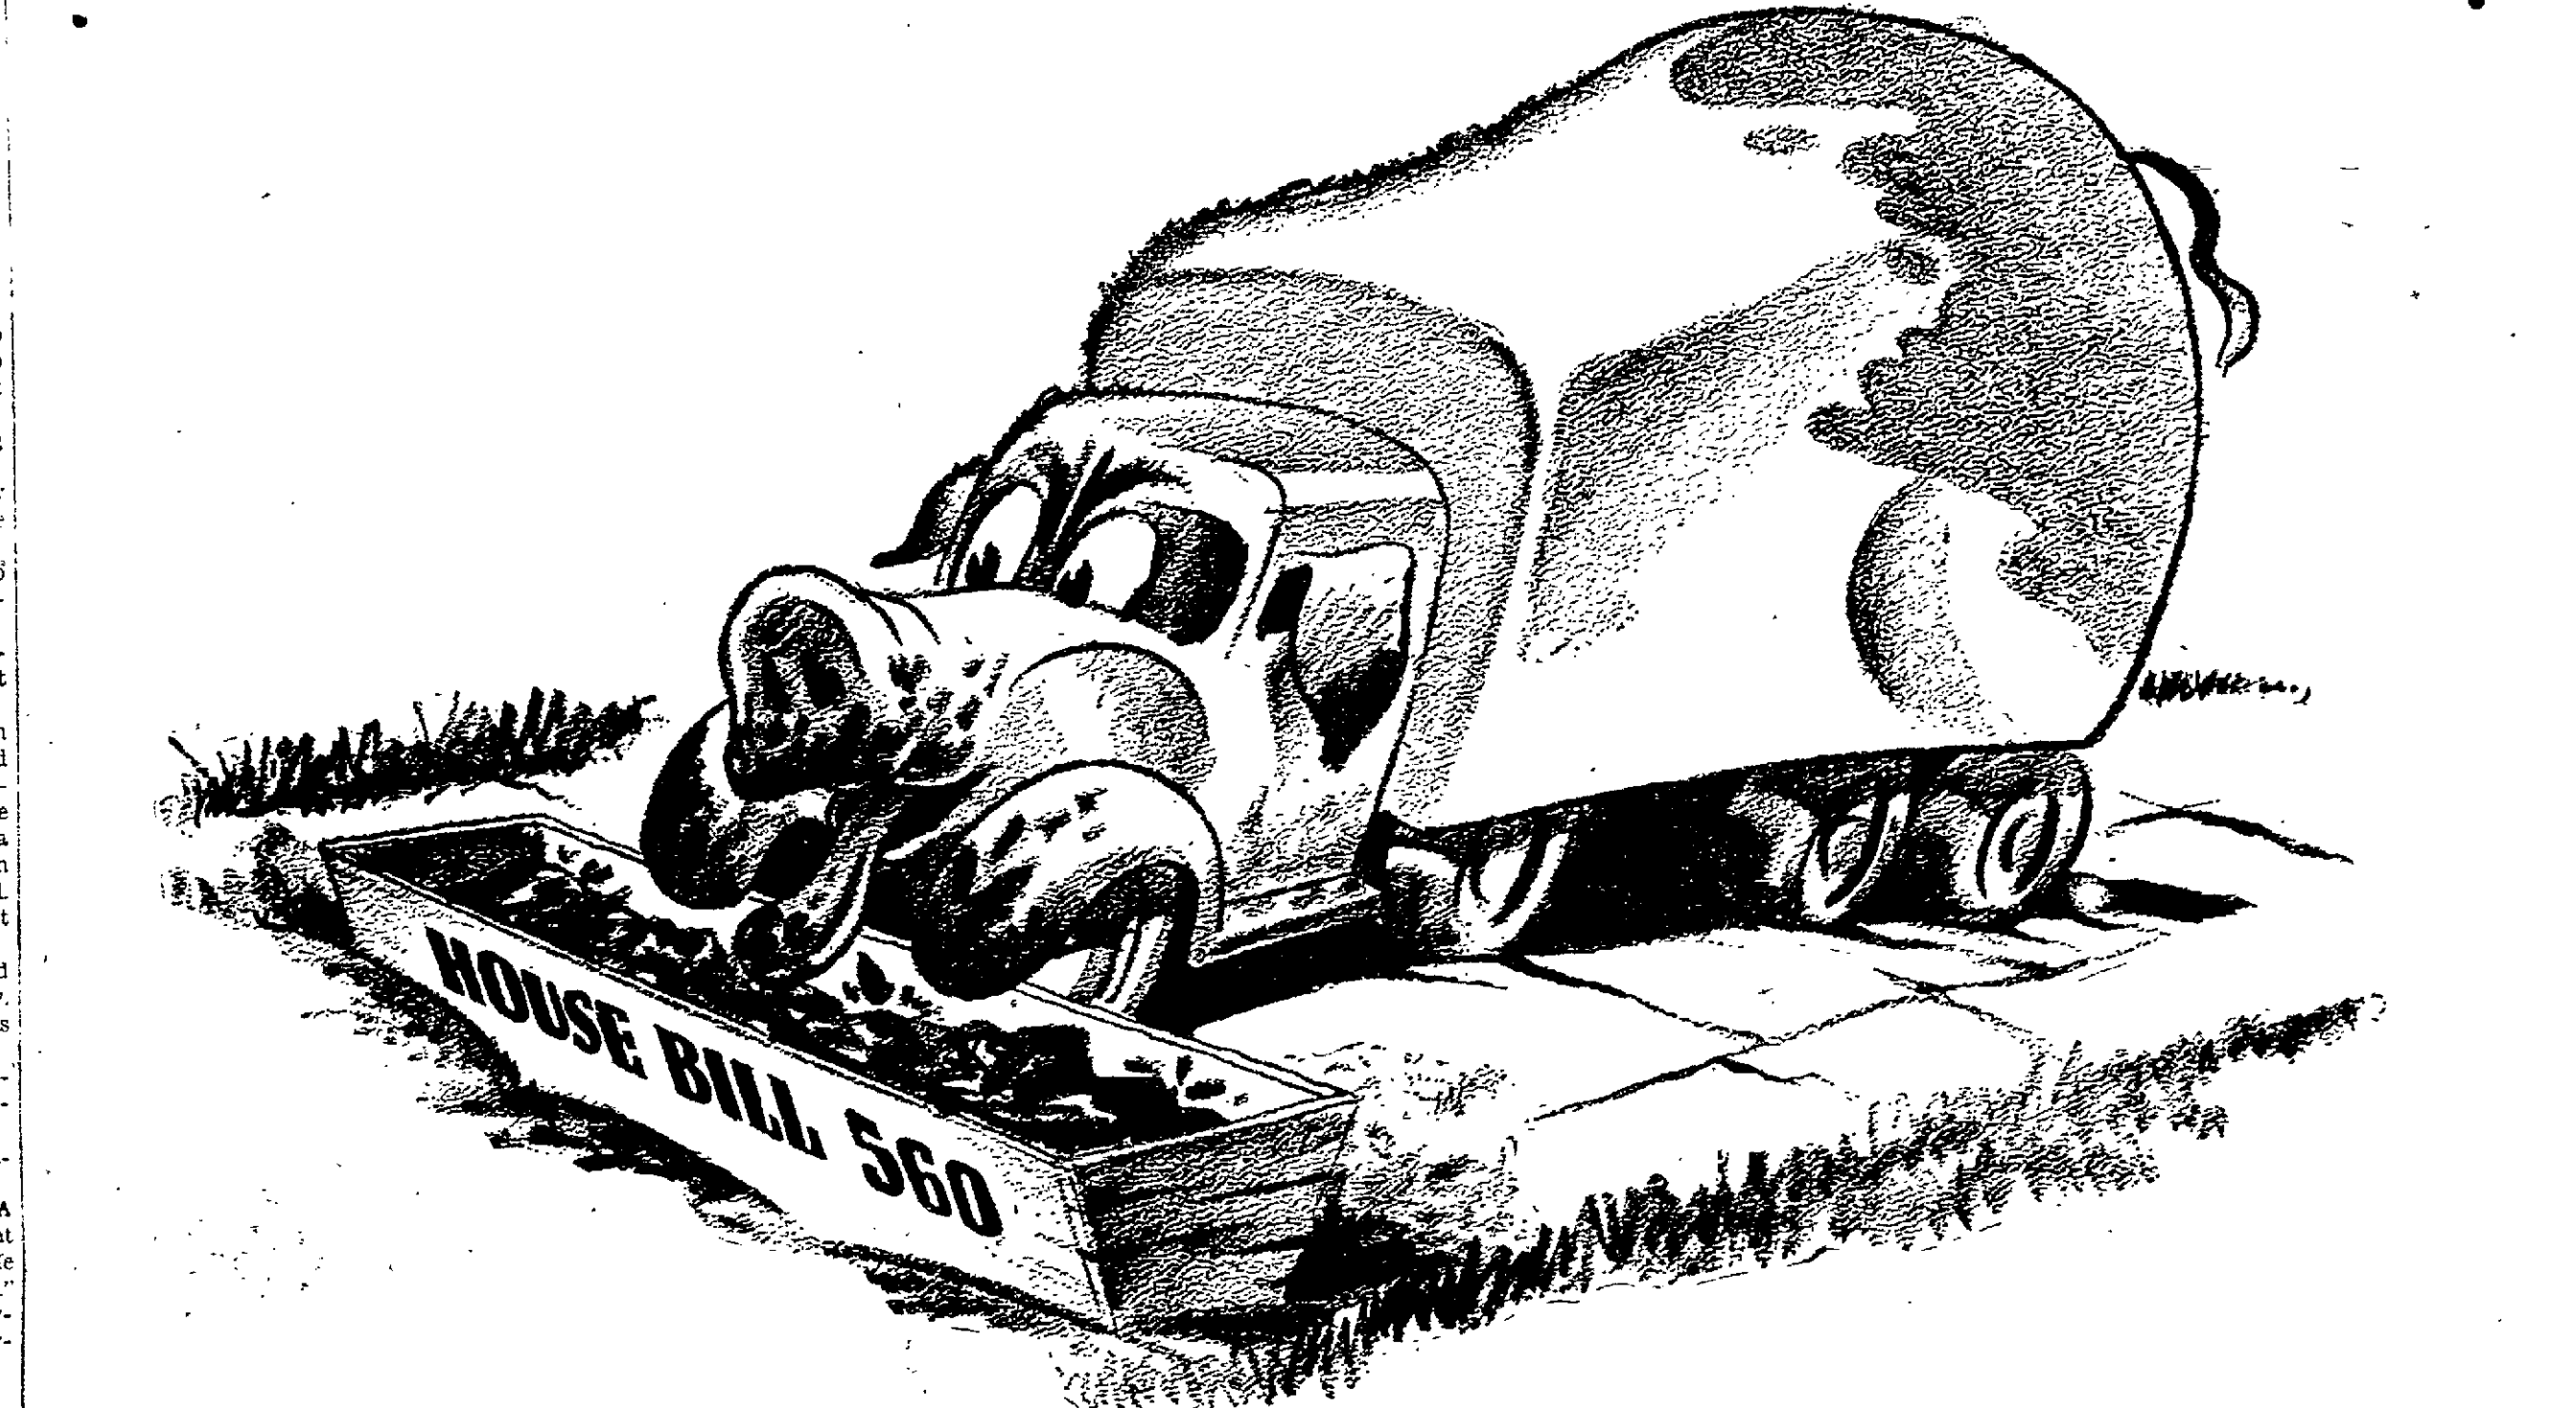

Mrs. David S. Kammer, West King street, and her son-in-law and daughter Mary Gail, of Cemetery street, spent the week-end in Philadelphia with Mrs. Kammer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chambers. Altar flowers in Redeemer's Reformed church on Sunday morning were in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Marker. They were placed there by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Derr. Bulletins for the month of April will be given by Mrs. George I. Bemiller in memory of her mother and sister, Charlotte. The pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds received Mrs. Bernard Wolf as a member at the morning service by letter of transfer from Trinity Reformed church.

Air Force Orders New Super-Bombers

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The Air Force has ordered 44 B-54 bombers, an experimental plane designed to operate at extra-high altitude. An Air Force spokesman said the Boeing bomber is a new, larger version of the B-50, which in turn is a more powerful model of the wartime B-29 Superfortress.

It already has been disclosed that a combination piston-jet engine will go into the B-54. The earlier announcement said the new engine will enable bombers to climb faster and reach altitudes "of nearly eight miles."

You Can't Satisfy a Road Hog!

BIG tractor-semi-trailer trucks are the hogs of the highways. They've been getting bigger and heavier year by year.

They'll be still heavier if House Bill 560, now before Pennsylvania's State Senate, becomes law.

BIG-truck operators behind this bill want to add another 7½ tons to the weight of these monster vehicles...the old story...a few more tons every year.

YOU are the victim.

YOU pay the taxes to fix the roads that are broken by these terrifying loads.

YOU pay for the thousands of bridges broken and weakened every year by BIG trucks.

YOU own the pleasure car and the reasonable-size commercial vehicle that is crowded off the roads. YOU have to drag along behind these iron curtains on hills.

Residents of Townships are now over-burdened with real estate taxes to repair bridges and highways. Increased BIG-truck weights will mean increased repair costs for YOU.

These are YOUR roads! YOUR bridges! And YOU CAN do something about it. YOU can let the State Senate know that YOU oppose the passage of House Bill 560. DO IT NOW.

IF HOUSE BILL 560 PASSES

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 24 tons.

CLEARED OF FRAUD

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—The head of the 105-year old German-torn fire insurance company has been cleared of a charge of acquiring more than $1,000,000 worth of the firm's stocks through "fraud and deceit." The Third Circuit Court of Appeals by a 2-1 vote ruled yesterday the stockholders' law failed to prove the charge against Arthur O. Rosenlund, chairman of the board.

The loot in the average 1948 hold-up was more than $200.

12 Powers To Sign Historic Atlantic Pact This Afternoon

Washington, April 4 (AP) — The United States, Britain, France and nine non-Communist western nations join today in signing their historic North Atlantic security treaty.

This is the next to last step in pledging a one-for-all and all-for-one defense against any attacker—a warning clearly intended for Communist Russia which has denounced the pact as "aggressive."

If and when the treaty is ratified it will establish America's defensive frontiers in the heart of Europe for at least 20 years. A two-thirds vote of approval by the Senate, plus the President's signature, is needed to seal U. S. ratification.

Opens New Era

The signing ceremony was set for 3 p. m., E.S.T., in the government's departmental auditorium on Constitution avenue, a few blocks from the White House. It opens a new and perhaps more critical era in the cold war, for the west is already wondering what Russia's counter-moves may be.

All 12 of the foreign ministers who gathered here last week to put their names on the pact were listed to speak, about five minutes each, before the actual signing got underway (about 4:30 p. m.).

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, signing for the United States, had the task of formally welcoming the visitors, and President Truman was scheduled to windup the speech-making with the day's chief address, lasting about 15 minutes.

Invited to hear the speeches and witness the signing in the high-vaulted hall were about 1,300 cabinet members and other government officials, diplomats, members of Congress and newsmen representing the world press and radio.

Bring Two War Dead Here For Interment

The bodies of two World War II armed force dead who were originally interred overseas will be brought here for interment in the National cemetery Wednesday afternoon, Vernon Lunt, superintendent of the National cemetery announced today.

The two are Pfc. William Howard O'Neill, McKeesport, who will be interred at 2 o'clock and S. 2 c Joseph Coradetti, Wilkes-Barre, who will be buried at 3 o'clock. They bring the total of re-interment of World War II dead in the local cemetery to 457 of a planned 593 burials.

Boston Theologian Speaks Twice Here

Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, professor of preaching and applied Christianity in the school of theology at Boston university, was the chapel speaker at Gettysburg college this morning.

Doctor Chalmers spoke last evening on the Methodist-Presbyterian Sunday Evening Hour in the Methodist church. His theme there was "Seeing the Visible." Mrs. Rose Lee Shroat and Prof. George R. Larkin sang a duet.

Next week the Princeton Theological seminary choir will present a concert on the M-P Sunday Evening Hour.

CAR AND TRUCK IN COLLISION AT YORK SPRINGS

A truck operated by H. S. Crother, 70, of 120 York street, and an automobile driven by Robert J. Dunmore, 29, of Baltimore, collided at the intersection of the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road and the Carlisle-Hanover road in York Springs at 7:15 o'clock this morning, according to state police of the Gettysburg substitution, who investigated the accident.

Police said Dunmore was driving east on Route 94 and failed to stop for a stop sign, colliding with the truck, which was going north on Route 15. No one was injured. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $350, and to the truck at $100.

Dunmore was charged by state police with failing to stop at the stop sign, and taken before Justice of the Peace Walter Wolfe, York Springs, where he paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Collision On Saturday

An automobile driven by W. W. Jeffries, 41, of 28 1/2 Lombard street, Littlestown, and a truck operated by Donald L. Weaver, 29, of West King street extended, Littlestown, collided on the Littlestown-Taneytown road Saturday, police reported.

The two vehicles sideswiped after Jeffries attempted to make a left turn in front of the truck, according to the report. The truck continued on and crashed into a wire fence on the property of Walter Crouse. No one was injured. Damage to the two vehicles amounted to $160.

COUNTY MAN'S BROTHER DIES IN AUTO CRASH

A 69-year-old Loganville man died Saturday night about 45 minutes after his car hit a tree on the Susquehanna trail near the northern end of Loganville, York county.

It was not known whether the man, Edgar H. Smith, died of injuries suffered in the accident or of a heart attack.

York County Coroner Lester J. Sell said an autopsy on Smith's body would be performed at York hospital by Dr. Lewis Pusch, hospital pathologist, to determine the cause of death.

State Policeman James J. Corbett, who with Officer James Deffley investigated the accident, said the Smith car was going south.

Dr. Johnson Is Now Diplomat Of ABIM

Dr. C. Harold Johnson, 52 East Broadway, received certification Saturday as a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine.

The Gettysburg physician has been taking a series of special courses for the past three years. In October he took a written examination, and the week of March 20 took an oral test at the Bellevue hospital in New York city, qualifying him for the certificate.

He was in New York city last week attending the meeting of the American College of Physicians, of which he is an associate member.

Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Gettysburg college and the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania. He served an internship of two years at the Philadelphia General hospital and was resident pathologist at the hospital for a year before returning to Gettysburg in 1938 to open his office here.

Four Involved In Assault Charges

Norman Washington, 262 South Washington street, and his wife, Alberta, arrested late Saturday afternoon by Constable Charles Smith on charges growing out of an alleged fracas at the Dorsey-Stanton post of the American Legion, West High street, Friday night, were released on their own recognizance for a hearing Tuesday night before Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore.

Margaret Nutter, 127 South Franklin street, charged Washington with assault and battery. Mrs. Hazel Saunders, also of 127 South Franklin street, filed charges of disorderly conduct and assault and battery against both Washington and his wife.

This morning Mrs. Washington appeared before Squire Baschore and filed a charge of assault and battery against Margaret Nutter and Mrs. Saunders.

REPORTS CAR CRASH

An automobile driven by Dale King, no address given, struck the automobile of B. Myers, 1226 Steinwehr avenue, at 8:49 p. m. Sunday. Myers reported to borough police.

Complete Razing Of Hotel This Week

Work of razing the old Battlefield hotel is expected to be completed this week, Arthur (not Luther) Spangler, who, with George Scott, purchased the building for $1,000 for its salvage, said today.

The contract provides that the building be torn down within 30 working days from the date of its purchase, March 15. Since that time four days of inclement weather delayed the work but Spangler said he expects that the razing will be completed this week, barring unforeseen inclement weather. Only the first floor remains to be removed.

The salvaged materials are being sold.

GUARD WILL GO ON FIELD TRIP APRIL 23, 24

Forty-three enlisted men and one officer of the local National Guard unit will take part in a week-end field trip to Indiantown Gap April 23 and 24, Capt. William G. Weaver, commanding officer, announced today.

The group will travel to the Gap in jeeps and armored vehicles of the local troop. There they will fire the 30 caliber carbine and 45 caliber sub-machine gun on the ranges for qualification.

The activities will be one of a number of pre-camp periods to be held between now and July 9 through 23 when the entire troop will be at Indiantown Gap for annual maneuvers, Captain Weaver said.

Tuesday night the troop will hold its regular drill and will begin the intensive training scheduled to precede the period in camp.

Wednesday night the guardsmen will entertain Adams countians at the annual "open house" held in connection with Army Day, April 6. The army will be open throughout the day for those who may wish to view the unit's equipment.

From 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock members of the troop will explain the various pieces of equipment including half-tracks, armored cars, 37 millimeter guns, sub-machine guns and mortars. From 8:30 to 9 p. m., a motion picture, "Mechanized Reconnaissance Team in Action" will be shown. From 9 until 11 o'clock a dance will be held. At 11 o'clock refreshments will be served.

Captain Weaver announced that Francis Arentz, Hanover R. 1 has become the most recent member of the troop, signing for a three year enlistment.

FIVE ARE FINED IN NEW OXFORD

Five young men, four of them Gettysburg college students, were arrested in New Oxford early Saturday morning and fined $10 each and the costs on disorderly conduct charges. The arrests were made by New Oxford and state police officers.

Charges against the quintet were signed before Justice of the Peace Claude S. Straley, New Oxford, by Borough Officer A. E. Maaske. Assisting him in making the arrests were Constable E. G. McNale of New Oxford and Corp. Jack Bartlett of the state police at Gettysburg.

Officer Maaske said the five were involved in a disturbance at the Park hotel there.

The defendants were listed as: George Duncan, 24, 133 North Stratley street, Gettysburg; Palmer Watkins, 20, Oxford, Pa.; Frank Whitaker, 21, who gave his address as Old Dorm, college campus; John Saurio, 21, and Peter J. Coruzzi, 22, also of the fraternity. All paid their fines when they were arraigned excepting Duncan who was taken to the county jail here for a later hearing. Later Saturday morning he pleaded guilty and paid his fine and the costs.

Duncan's costs totaled $11. Each of the others had costs of $220 each to pay.

Two Are Fined For Code Violations

George E. Kopp, South Madison street, Hanover, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace James H. Branton, Hanover R. 3, on a charge of speeding, state police of the Gettysburg substitution, who filed the charge, announced today.

I. H. Grogg, Gettysburg R. 4, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Claude S. Straley, New Oxford, for driving his car April 1 with 1948 license tags. Midnight March 31 was the deadline for using the old plates.

Special notice: N. O. Stevens, appliances and furniture, 42 Chambersburg street, will remain open until 6 o'clock each evening this week excepting Thursday for the benefit of the people who were not able to visit our store on opening day.

2 JUVENILES ARE FINED ON CODE CHARGES

Two juveniles, charged with motor code violations, were each fined $10 and costs by Judge W. C. Sheely in juvenile court Saturday and one had his operator's license suspended for 90 days.

Sergeant W. Kurt Duhrkoff, in charge of the local sub-station of state police, said one of the youths was charged with driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license and the other was accused of reckless driving. The latter had his license suspended. One resides in the eastern end of the county and the other in the northern end.

Sergeant Duhrkoff also issued a warning today against target shooting in some sections of the county which has resulted in some property damage and the killing of two ducks owned by Melvin Starnier, a farmer.

"Hereafter all those participating in promiscuous target shooting or the illegal use of firearms, whether they are juveniles or adults, will be prosecuted," the state police officer said. "We have had a number of complaints in recent weeks of target shooting, especially in the vicinity of summer cottages. There has been some property damage. This practice must be broken up and we propose to prosecute all violators. They are liable to prosecution on malicious mischief charges, illegal use of firearms or other offenses," the sergeant said.

BURGESS NAMES APRIL AS CANCER CONTROL MONTH

Burgess C. A. Heiges today proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month for Gettysburg, coinciding with a similar proclamation by President Truman setting aside the month as Cancer Control Month for the nation.

The proclamations were issued as part of the annual program of the American Cancer society and the Adams county unit of that society to interest everyone in doing all possible to fight the disease.

During the month the county group will conduct the local part of a nation wide drive to raise funds for cancer control. On a national scale most of the money will be spent for educating the public in early recognition of cancer's danger signals, and in providing funds for research into the causes and possible cure of the dread disease.

Miss Mickley attended Gettysburg high school where she was editor of the year book and a member of the National Honor society.

Says Agriculture May Get "Worse Before It's Better"

Washington, April 4 (AP) — The problems of agriculture may "become worse before they become better," the House Appropriations committee said today.

It made the comment in approving a bumper peacetime $701,122,079 money bill for the Agriculture Department.

The bill, scheduled for House debate starting tomorrow, would finance the department for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Among other things, it provides $257,043,439 for soil conservation payments, $75,000,000 for the school lunch program, $50,963,500 for the forest service and for an increase from $750 to $2,500 in the maximum amount of payments allowed individuals for soil conservation practices. There is also $350,000,000 in loan authorization for the rural electrification, which is not counted passed.

Historians To Hear Talks On Genealogy

Mrs. Edith Beard Cannon of the York County Historical society and Mrs. Victor Dutler of the Adams County society will speak on methods of genealogical research at the April meeting of the Adams county society Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the society's rooms in the court house.

President J. M. Sheads will preside at the meeting with a business session to precede the program.

LITTLESTOWN COUPLE MARKS 55TH WEDDING DAY ON SUNDAY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Stavelly, East King street, was the scene of their 55th wedding anniversary on Sunday. A wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom occupied the center of the table and refreshments were served. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stavelly are natives of Littlestown. Mrs. Stavelly was the former Rose Buddy. They were married in St. Aloysius Catholic church, April 3, 1894, by the Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Crotty. They were the recipients of many gifts. Their children, grandchildren and their families were guests.

Their children who attended this anniversary were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stavelly, Sr., Hyattsville, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Noah Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Rickrode, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kress, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Stavelly, all of town; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stavelly, Llanerch; and Miss Marcella Stavelly, Washington, D. C.

Local Girl Weds Seaman Saturday

Miss Darlene Esther Fissel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Fissel, 38 North Franklin street, became the bride of S. 1 c Donald Eugene Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Crawford, Waverly, Kan., in a single ring ceremony performed at 3:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Howard S. Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, in the church parsonage.

Members of the bride's immediate family were in attendance. The groom, who was discharged from the navy last Tuesday, wore his uniform, and the bride wore a blue street length suit, dark blue hat and black shoes and carried a black purse. They left this afternoon to make their home in Kansas.

The bride is a graduate of Gettysburg high school, class of 1946, and has been employed at the Gettysburg Throwing company. The groom spent five years in the navy, four of them in the Pacific area.

FACES CODE CHARGE

A ten-day notice will be sent by Justice of the Peace John H. Baschore to Sylvester Clark, Harrisburg, on a charge of running through a red light at Baltimore and Middle streets at 7:30 p. m. Sunday. The charge was filed by borough police.

FALLS FROM CAR

Philip G. Ridinger, Fourth street, is among the 172 students at Lehigh university, Bethlehem, who earned a place on the dean's honor list.

CROWD ENJOYS PIANO CONCERT SUNDAY NIGHT

All the attributes necessary for a successful concert were present at the Majestic theater Sunday night to insure the success of the final concert in the 1948-49 series of the Gettysburg Community Concert association.

Constance Keene, young American pianist, gave what may reasonably have been one of her best presentations in a long line of triumphs, inspired by what she said was "one of the best audiences" she has ever played for, and aided by what she again said was one of the finest musical instruments she had ever used.

The large audience found Miss Keene a thorough master of difficult technique with a keyboard fleetness and clarity which made every one of her 15 numbers a delight to hear.

"Poise and Assurance"

The winner of several music awards, including the Naumburg foundation which provided her with a Town Hall recital, she began her first number with poise and assurance and held her audience in rapt attention throughout the program. Seldom have the works of the masters that she selected been interpreted with more brilliance and feeling.

Part 1 of the program included Johannes Brahms' "Rhapsody in G Minor," and "Variations Series," by Felix Mendelssohn. The Rhapsody was No. 2 in Brahms' opus No. 2.

Part 2 consisted of four numbers, beginning with "Toccata in A Major," by Pietro Domenico Paradisi, and including a melody from "Orfeo," by Christoph Willibald Gluck, arranged by Abram Chasins; "Gavotte and Gigue," from the fifth French suite in G Major, by J. S. Bach; and "Schwanda" fantasy, by Chasins, based on two of the themes from Weinberger's "Polka."

Two light and airy arabesques by Claude Debussy, "G Major" and "E Major," opened the second half of the concert.

Three Chopin Selections

Debussy's "Goldwog's Cake Walk," revealed the composer's sense of humor in a strange and limping hymn designed to portray the clumsy doll of nursery rhymes disporting himself in dance, and Miss Keene's rendition did full justice to this odd number.

Three numbers by Frederic Chopin concluded the regular program. Liszt and Chopin were friends, (Please Turn to Page 2)

BIGLER GIRL IS VICE PRESIDENT OF STATE F.H.A.

Kathleen Starnier, Biglerville high school student, was elected first vice president of the Pennsylvania Future Homemakers of America, Saturday, at York.

The county girl was one of a number of officers named by 600 representatives from Future Home-maker units throughout the state who gathered at York for the annual state meeting. They represented 9,000 F.H.A. members in high schools throughout Pennsylvania.

Named as president was Alice Bushko, a Fleetville high school senior. Phyllis Crouse, Hanover, was elected historian.

Present Fashion Show

A highlight of the gathering was a fashion show in which 50 members of the F.H.A. took part. Included in the group was Martha Van Dyke, of Gettysburg high school, who modeled an aqua sweater, black skirt and stole and Evelyn Kuhn, Biglerville, who wore an aqua stole, white organdy dress with aqua velvet bow and flowers.

The fashion show was directed by June Hamilton Rhoades of the Institute of Hand Knitting, New York city. Other activities Saturday afternoon included music by the state F.H.A. chorus of 51 voices directed by Mrs. Margaret Gavenonis, of Milled, Sullivan county, and a "charm hour" directed by Ann Delafield, head of the Dubary Success school of New York city.

Rev. Moreland Going To Shrewsbury Pulpit

Rev. F. Elwood Moreland, pastor of Calvary Lutheran church, Greenmont, Md., was elected pastor of the Shrewsbury-Loganville Lutheran charge, at recent congregational meetings held at Christ Lutheran church, Shrewsbury, and at Christ Lutheran church, Loganville.

The new pastor will assume his duties on May 1. He succeeds the Rev. Robert J. Calhoun, who recently left for another charge at Hummelstown.

A native of Perry county, Rev. Moreland graduated from Gettysburg college in 1942, and three years later, he graduated from the Lutheran seminary.

The Greenmont charge was his first. He has a wife and two-year-old son.

TOURIST FLOW ON INCREASE

Despite the fact that many tourists seemed to make Washington mecca for their week-end travels, the Gettysburg battlefield showed an increase in visitation Saturday and Sunday over the previous week-end.

Approximately 3,900 people toured the field according to estimates prepared from the guided tours data obtained by the National Park service. That number was an increase of 400 over the estimated 3,500 who visited the battlefield during the previous week-end period.

Saturday an estimated 1,600 traveling in about 400 cars made sight-seeing visits to the field. On Sunday the number of cars was approximately 570 and the number of persons 2,300. Forty-eight cars and two buses, containing a total of 205 people, made guided tours of the field Saturday while 71 cars and two buses, a total of 373 people had guides with them when they made the rounds of the battlefield Saturday.

Roads through Gettysburg were crowded Saturday and Sunday with many visitors who appeared to be heading to and from Washington. Those visiting Washington reported traffic as "terrific" as a result of the cherry blossom spectacle. One local motorist reported it took him more than an hour to drive through Frederick alone due to the tourist visitation to the national capital.

Wins Alternate Contest Award

Miss Doris A. Stetler, Pittsburgh, senior at Gettysburg college, was named alternate winner of the Henry Ward Church memorial scholarship, in a nation-wide competition sponsored by the Phi Sigma Iota. Romance language honor society. Miss Stetler majors in Spanish and has a minor in French. John A. Thompson, national president of Phi Sigma Iota, advised Prof. Angelo Franco, adviser to the local chapter of Miss Stetler's honor.

Miss Rubi E. Michael, Hazleton, graduate of the college last year, won first prize in the essay contest on "Modern Interpretation of Spanish Don Juan." She won first prize in the contest at the college. She majored in Spanish.

Daylight Time Starts April 24

Daylight Saving time will go into effect in Gettysburg at 2 a. m. Sunday, April 24, and continue until 2 a. m. Sunday, September 25, following a custom prevailing here for several years.

Clocks will be turned ahead one hour at 2 a. m. April 24 to give local residents an extra hour of daylight time for the next six months. Timepieces will be turned back one hour at 2 a. m. September 25.

Industrial plants, schools, banks, churches and others in the community have been observing the Daylight time for several years.

12 COUNTIANS AT SCOUT MEET

Twelve women represented Adams county at the Section 1, Region 3, Girl Scout conference held in Hershey Saturday. 236 were registered for the sessions. The theme was "Strengthening the Girl Scout Program."

During the morning a symposium on the Girl Scout program as seen by people from the outside, including parents, churches, schools, leaders, business men and professional scouts, was held with the speakers telling of the benefits of the program and how it can be improved.

In the afternoon leaders of the Brownies, Intermediates and Seniors held group discussions. Miss Marian Tupper, Adams county executive director was in charge of the Senior group discussion.

In addition to Miss Tupper those from the county attending were Mrs. Ivan Taylor and Mr. Romaine Pettit, York Springs; Mrs. Mervin Bream, Mrs. Fred Faber, Jr., Mrs. Raymond Unks, Mrs. J. Walter Coleman and Mrs. John Roberts, Gettysburg; Mrs. Leon Gase, Mrs. Ray Barner, Miss Betty Crouse and Mrs. Ethel Helwig, Littlestown.

COURT APPROVES BONDS

COURT GRANTS NEW TRIAL OF DAMAGE SUITS

Judge W. C. Sheely Saturday handed down an opinion granting a new trial in six actions in trespass brought as a result of a collision December 1, 1947, between a car driven by Lester L. Wise, Wells-ville R. 1, and a parked truck operated by Wilford C. Sober, Lemoyne.

The accident occurred two miles north of York Springs on the Harrisburg road. A jury last November heard the cases and found in favor of Wise and the occupants of his truck, Norman L. Thumma, Franklinton; Bruce E. and Ruth-etta R. Wise, Wellsville; Clyde Eichelberger and Shirley D. Wise, Lewisberry. All of the occupants of the car had brought suit against Sober. Sober and the occupants of his truck, Archie C. and Nelson A. Sober, Lemoyne, and the owner of the truck, R. W. Sawyer, Sr., Lemoyne, had brought suit against Lester Wise. All were seeking damages as a result of the accident.

"Contrary To Evidence"

After the November jury returned its verdict finding for Wise and his group against Sober, claiming Sober to have been negligent and the proximate cause of the accident, Sober's attorneys filed motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and also filed motions for a new trial. The opinion handed down Saturday was on those two motions and refused "judgment n. o. v." while granting the new trials.

The court said in its opinion that the new trials were granted because "the findings of the jury were contrary to the weight of the evidence," and pointed out that a new trial will permit evidence to show such things as the length of time Wise was blinded by the lights of an on-coming truck, the distance at which his lights will reveal objects, and to what extent he reduced the speed of his car after he was blinded by the approaching lights.

In previous testimony Wise said he was blinded by the lights of an approaching truck while going south on the highway and ran into the rear of the Sober truck, which he claimed was parked on the highway. The court held that the weight of the evidence showed the truck to have been pulled off the highway, at least part way.

GEORGE JULIUS EXPIRES AT 92

George R. Julius, 92, formerly of Littlestown, died Saturday at 5 p. m. at the Hanes Convalescent home, York. Mr. Julius, who was a retired cigar box manufacturer, had been failing in health for some time. He was a son of the late John and Susan (Schwartz) Julius.

The deceased was twice married, and was preceded in death by both wives. His first wife was the former Laura Gutelius of Littlestown and his second wife was the former Alverta Thoman, York county. He is survived by two children from the first marriage, Mrs. Lea Mehring, Lumber street, Littlestown, and Mrs. Charles R. Brown, York; eleven grandchildren; ten great grandchildren; also two sisters and one brother, Mrs. Laura Hammie, York; Mrs. Michael Myers, York; and Reuben E. Julius, York R. D.

Mr. Julius was a member and an elder of Redeemer's Reformed church, Littlestown. He was also a charter member of Washington camp, No. 386, P.O.S. of A., Littlestown.

Funeral services Tuesday at 2 p. m. and the J. W. Little and son, funeral home, Littlestown, in charge of his pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds. Interment in the Mt. Carmel cemetery, Littlestown. Friends and relatives may call at the Little funeral home tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock.

12 Powers To Sign Historic Atlantic Pact This Afternoon

Washington, April 4 (AP) — The United States, Britain, France and nine non-Communist western nations join today in signing their historic North Atlantic security treaty.

This is the next to last step in pledging a one-for-all and all-for-one defense against any attacker—a warning clearly intended for Communist Russia which has denounced the pact as "aggressive."

If and when the treaty is ratified it will establish America's defensive frontiers in the heart of Europe for at least 20 years. A two-thirds vote of approval by the Senate, plus the President's signature, is needed to seal U. S. ratification.

Opens New Era
The signing ceremony was set for 3 p. m., E.S.T., in the government's departmental auditorium on Constitution avenue, a few blocks from the White House. It opens a new and perhaps more critical era in the cold war, for the west is already wondering what Russia's counter-moves may be.

All 12 of the foreign ministers who gathered here last week to put their names on the pact were listed to speak, about five minutes each, before the actual signing got underway (about 4:30 p. m.).

Secretary of State Dean Acheson, signing for the United States, had the task of formally welcoming the visitors, and President Truman was scheduled to windup the speech-making with the day's chief address, lasting about 15 minutes.

Invited to hear the speeches and witness the signing in the high-vaulted hall were about 1,300 cabinet members and other government officials, diplomats, members of Congress and newsmen representing the world press and radio.

Bring Two War Dead Here For Interment

The bodies of two World War II armed force dead who were originally interred overseas will be brought here for interment in the National cemetery Wednesday afternoon, Vernon Lunt, superintendent of the National cemetery announced today.

The two are Pfc. William Howard O'Neill, McKeesport, who will be interred at 2 o'clock and S 2 c Joseph Coradetti, Wilkes-Barre, who will be buried at 3 o'clock. They bring the total of re-interment of World War II dead in the local cemetery to 457 of a planned 593 burials.

Boston Theologian Speaks Twice Here

Dr. Allan Knight Chalmers, professor of preaching and applied Christianity in the school of theology at Boston university, was the chapel speaker at Gettysburg college this morning.

Doctor Chalmers spoke last evening on the Methodist-Presbyterian Sunday Evening Hour in the Methodist church. His theme there was "Seeing the Visible." Mrs. Rose Lee Shrout and Prof. George R. Larkin sang a duet.

Next week the Princeton Theological seminary choir will present a concert on the M-P Sunday Evening Hour.

CAR AND TRUCK IN COLLISION AT YORK SPRINGS

A truck operated by H. S. Crofner, 70, of 126 York street, and an automobile driven by Robert J. Dunmore, 29, of Baltimore, collided at the intersection of the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road and the Carlisle-Hanover road in York Springs at 7:15 o'clock this morning, according to state police of the Gettysburg substation, who investigated the accident.

Police said Dunmore was driving east on Route 94 and failed to stop for a stop sign, colliding with the truck, which was going north on Route 15. No one was injured. Damage to the automobile was estimated at $350, and to the truck at $100.

Dunmore was charged by state police with failing to stop at the stop sign, and taken before Justice of the Peace Walter Wolfe, York Springs, where he paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Collision On Saturday
An automobile driven by W. W. Jefferies, 41, of 28 1/2 Lombard street, Littlestown, and a truck operated by Donald L. Weaver, 29, of West King street extended, Littlestown, collided on the Littlestown-Taneytown road Saturday, police reported.

The two vehicles sideswiped after Jefferies attempted to make a left turn in front of the truck, according to the report. The truck continued on and crashed into a wire fence on the property of Walter Crouse. No one was injured. Damage to the two vehicles amounted to $160.

COUNTY MAN'S BROTHER DIES IN AUTO CRASH

A 69-year-old Loganville man died Saturday night about 45 minutes after his car hit a tree on the Susquehanna trail near the northern end of Loganville, York county.

It was not known whether the man, Edgar H. Smith, died of injuries suffered in the accident or of a heart attack.

York County Coroner Lester J. Sell said an autopsy on Smith's body would be performed at York hospital by Dr. Lewis Pusch, hospital pathologist, to determine the cause of death.

State Policeman James J. Corbett, who with Officer James Deffley investigated the accident, said the Smith car was going south.

Dr. Johnson Is Now Diplomat Of ABIM

Dr. C. Harold Johnson, 52 East Broadway, received certification Saturday as a diplomate of the American Board of Internal Medicine.

The Gettysburg physician has been taking a series of special courses for the past three years. In October he took a written examination, and the week of March 20 took an oral test at the Bellevue hospital in New York city, qualifying him for the certificate.

He was in New York city last week attending the meeting of the American College of Physicians, of which he is an associate member.

Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Gettysburg college and the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania. He served an internship of two years at the Philadelphia General hospital and was resident pathologist at the hospital for a year before returning to Gettysburg in 1938 to open his office here.

Complete Razing Of Hotel This Week

Work of razing the old Battlefield hotel is expected to be completed this week, Arthur (not Luther) Spangler, who, with George Scott, purchased the building for $1,000 for its salvage, said today.

The contract provides that the building be torn down within 30 working days from the date of its purchase, March 15. Since that time four days of inclement weather delayed the work but Spangler said he expects that the razing will be completed this week, barring unforeseen inclement weather. Only the first floor remains to be removed. The salvaged materials are being sold.

GUARD WILL GO ON FIELD TRIP APRIL 23, 24

Forty-three enlisted men and one officer of the local National Guard unit will take part in a week-end field trip to Indiantown Gap April 23 and 24, Capt. William G. Weaver, commanding officer, announced today.

The group will travel to the Gap in jeeps and armored vehicles of the local troop. There they will fire the 30 caliber carbine and 45 caliber sub-machine gun on the ranges for qualification.

The activities will be one of a number of pre-camp periods to be held between now and July 9 through 23 when the entire troop will be at Indiantown Gap for annual maneuvers, Captain Weaver said.

Tuesday night the troop will hold its regular drill and will begin the intensive training scheduled to precede the period in camp.

Wednesday night the guardsmen will entertain Adams countians at the annual "open house" held in connection with Army Day, April 6. The army will be open throughout the day for those who may wish to view the unit's equipment.

From 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock members of the troop will explain the various pieces of equipment including half-tracks, armored cars, 37 millimeter guns, sub-machine guns and mortars. From 8:30 to 9 p. m. a motion picture, "Mechanized Reconnaissance Team in Action" will be shown. From 9 until 11 o'clock a dance will be held. At 11 o'clock refreshments will be served.

Captain Weaver announced that Francis Arentz, Hanover R. 1 has become the most recent member of the troop, signing for a three year enlistment.

FIVE ARE FINED IN NEW OXFORD

Five young men, four of them Gettysburg college students, were arrested in New Oxford early Saturday morning and fined $10 each and the costs on disorderly conduct charges. The arrests were made by New Oxford and state police officers.

Charges against the quintet were signed before Justice of the Peace Claude S. Straley, New Oxford, by Borough Officer A. E. Maaske. Assisting him in making the arrests were Constable E. G. McNamee of New Oxford and Corp. Jack Bartlett of the state police at Gettysburg.

Officer Maaske said the five were involved in a disturbance at the Park hotel there.

The defendants were listed as: George Duncan, 24, 133 North Stratley street, Gettysburg; Palmer Watkins, 20, Oxford, Pa.; Frank Whitaker, 21, who gave his address as Old Dorm, college campus; John Saur, 21, and Peter J. Corrucci, 22, also of the fraternity. All paid their fines when they were arraigned excepting Duncan who was taken to the county jail here for a later hearing. Later Saturday morning he pleaded guilty and paid his fine and the costs.

Duncan's costs totaled $11. Each of the others had costs of $2.20 each to pay.

Two Are Fined For Code Violations

George E. Kopp, South Madison street, Hanover, paid a fine of $10 and costs to Justice of the Peace James H. Brinton, Hanover R. 3, on a charge of speeding, state police of the Gettysburg substation, who filed the charge, announced today.

I. H. Gregg, Gettysburg R. 4, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Claude S. Straley, New Oxford, for driving his car April 1 with 1948 license tags. Midnight March 31 was the deadline for using the old plates.

Special notice! N. O. Sixes, appliances and furniture, 62 Chambersburg street, will remain open until 9 o'clock each evening this week excepting Thursday for the benefit of the people who were not able to visit our store on opening day.

Watch, clock and jewelry repairing, Hughes, 240 Chambersburg street.

2 JUVENILES ARE FINED ON CODE CHARGES

Two juveniles, charged with motor code violations, were each fined $10 and costs by Judge W. C. Sheely in juvenile court Saturday and one had his operator's license suspended for 90 days.

Sergeant W. Kurt Duhrkoff, in charge of the local sub-station of state police, said one of the youths was charged with driving a motor vehicle without an operator's license and the other was accused of reckless driving. The latter had his license suspended. One resides in the eastern end of the county and the other in the northern end.

Sergeant Duhrkoff also issued a warning today against target shooting in some sections of the county which has resulted in some property damage and the killing of two ducks owned by Melvin Starnier, a farmer.

"Hereafter all those participating in promiscuous target shooting or the illegal use of firearms, whether they are juveniles or adults, will be prosecuted," the state police officer said. "We have had a number of complaints in recent weeks of target shooting, especially in the vicinity of summer cottages. There has been some property damage. This practice must be broken up and we propose to prosecute all violators. They are liable to prosecution on malicious mischief charges, illegal use of firearms or other offenses," the sergeant said.

BURGESS NAMES APRIL AS CANCER CONTROL MONTH

Burgess C. A. Heiges today proclaimed April as Cancer Control Month for Gettysburg, coinciding with a similar proclamation by President Truman setting aside the month as Cancer Control Month for the nation.

The proclamations were issued as part of the annual program of the American Cancer society and the Adams county unit of that society to interest everyone in doing all possible to fight the disease.

During the month the county group will conduct the local part of a nation wide drive to raise funds for cancer control. On a national scale most of the money will be spent for educating the public in early recognition of cancer's danger signals, and in providing funds for research into the causes and possible cure of the dread disease.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

A party in celebration of the ninth birthday anniversary of Sidney Steinhour was held Saturday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Steinhour, 243 North Washington street. Those attending were Richard Cook, Richard Dracha, Ken Lowe, Wayne Schutt, Richard Sites, Rodney Sterner and Sidney Steinhour.

JOINS SORORITY

Miss Marguerite Mickley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Mickley, Cashtown, was recently initiated into the Beta Lambda chapter of the Delta Gamma sorority at Gettysburg college where she is a freshman. Miss Mickley attended Gettysburg high school where she was editor of the year book and a member of the National Honor society.

Says Agriculture May Get "Worse Before It's Better"

Washington, April 4 (AP) — The problems of agriculture may "become worse before they become better," the House Appropriations committee said today.

It made the comment in approving a bumper peacetime $701,122,079 money bill for the Agriculture Department.

The bill, scheduled for House debate starting tomorrow, would finance the department for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

Among other things, it provides $257,043,439 for soil conservation payments, $75,000,000 for the school lunch program, $50,963,500 for the forest service and for an increase from $750 to $2,500 in the maximum amount of payments allowed individuals for soil conservation practices. There is also $350,000,000 in loan authorization for the rural electrification, which is not counted

Historians To Hear Talks On Genealogy

Mrs. Edith Beard Cannon of the York County Historical society and Mrs. Victor Dutera of the Adams County society will speak on methods of genealogical research at the April meeting of the Adams county society Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the society's rooms in the court house.

President J. M. Sheads will preside at the meeting with a business session to precede the program.

LITTLESTOWN

COUPLE MARKS 55TH WEDDING DAY ON SUNDAY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Stavelly, East King street, was the scene of their 55th wedding anniversary on Sunday. A wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom occupied the center of the table and refreshments were served. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stavelly are natives of Littlestown. Mrs. Stavelly was the former Rose Buddy. They were married in St. Aloysius Catholic church, April 3, 1894, by the Rev. Fr. Thomas J. Crotty. They were the recipients of many gifts. Their children, grandchildren and their families were guests.

Their children who attended this anniversary were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stavelly, Sr., Hyattsville, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Noah Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Krickrode, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kress, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Stavelly, all of town; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stavelly, Llanerch; and Miss Marcella Stavelly, Washington, D. C.

Local Girl Weds Seaman Saturday

Miss Darlene Esther Fissel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Fissel, 38 North Franklin street, became the bride of S. L. Donald Eugene Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Crawford, Waverly, Kan., in a single rhytm designed to portray the clumsy doll of nursery rhymes divorcing himself in dance, and Mrs. Keene's rendition did full justice to this odd number.

TOURIST FLOW ON INCREASE

Despite the fact that many tourists seemed to make Washington mecca for their week-end travels, the Gettysburg battlefield showed an increase in visitation Saturday and Sunday over the previous week-end.

Approximately 3,900 people toured the field according to estimates prepared from the guided tours data obtained by the National Park service. That number was an increase of 400 over the estimated 3,500 who visited the battlefield during the previous week-end period.

Saturday an estimated 1,600 traveling in about 400 cars made sight-seeing visits to the field. On Sunday the number of cars was approximately 570 and the number of persons 2,360. Forty-eight cars and two buses, containing a total of 205 people, made guided tours of the field Saturday while 71 cars and two buses, a total of 373 people had guides with them when they made the rounds of the battlefield Saturday.

Roads through Gettysburg were crowded Saturday and Sunday with many visitors who appeared to be heading to and from Washington. Those visiting Washington reported traffic as "terrific" as a result of the cherry blossom spectacle. One local motorist reported it took him more than an hour to drive through Frederick alone due to the tourist visitation to the national capital.

WINS ALTERNATE CONTEST AWARD

Miss Doris A. Stetler, Pittsburg, senior at Gettysburg college, was named alternate winner of the Henry Ward Church memorial scholarship, in a nation-wide competition sponsored by the Phi Sigma Iota, Romance language honor society. Miss Stetler majors in Spanish and has a minor in French. John A. Thompson, national president of Phi Sigma Iota, advised Prof. Angel Franco, adviser to the local chapter, of Miss Stetler's honor.

Miss Ruby E. Michael, Hazleton, graduate of the college last year, won first prize in the essay contest on "Modern Interpretation of Spanish Don Juan." She won first prize in the contest at the college. She majored in Spanish.

CROWD ENJOYS PIANO CONCERT SUNDAY NIGHT

All the attributes necessary for a successful concert were present at the Majestic theater Sunday night to insure the success of the final concert in the 1948-49 series of the Gettysburg Community Concert association.

Constance Keene, young American pianist, gave what may reasonably have been one of her best presentations in a long line of triumphs, inspired by what she said was "one of the best audiences" she has ever played for, and aided by what she again said was one of the finest musical instruments she had ever used.

The large audience found Miss Keene a thorough master of difficult technique with a keyboard finesse and clarity which made every one of her 15 numbers a delight to hear.

"Poise and Assurance"

The winner of several music awards, including the Naumburg foundation which provided her with a Town Hall recital, she began her first number with poise and assurance and held her audience in rapt attention throughout the program. Seldom have the works of the masters that she selected been interpreted with more brilliance and feeling.

Part 1 of the program included Johannes Brahms' "Rhapsody in G Minor," and "Variations Serieuses," by Felix Mendelssohn. The Rhapsody was No. 2 in Brahms' opus No. 2.

Part 2 consisted of four numbers, beginning with "Toccata in A Major," by Pietro Domenico Paradisi, and including a melody from "Orfeo," by Christoph Willibald Gluck, arranged by Abram Chasins; "Gavotte and Gigue," from the fifth French suite in G Major, by J. S. Bach; and "Schwanda" fantasy, by Chasins, based on two of the themes from Weinberger's "Polka."

Two light and airy arabesques by Claude Debussy, "G Major" and "E Major," opened the second half of the concert.

Debussy's "Goliwog's Cake Walk," revealed the composer's sense of humor in a strange and limping rhytm designed to portray the clumsy doll of nursery rhymes divorcing himself in dance, and Mrs. Keene's rendition did full justice to this odd number.

Daylight Time Starts April 24

Daylight Saving time will go into effect in Gettysburg at 2 a. m. Sunday, April 24, and continue until 2 a. m. Sunday, September 25, following a custom prevailing here for several years.

Clocks will be turned ahead one hour at 2 a. m. April 24 to give local residents an extra hour of daylight time for the next six months. Timepieces will be turned back one hour at 2 a. m. September 25.

Industrial plants, schools, banks, churches and others in the community have been observing the Daylight time for several years.

BIGLER GIRL IS VICE PRESIDENT OF STATE F.H.A.

Kathleen Starnier, Biglerville high school student, was elected first vice president of the Pennsylvania Future Homemakers of America, Saturday, at York.

The county girl was one of a number of officers named by 600 representatives from Future Homemaker units throughout the state who gathered at York for the annual state meeting. They represented 9,000 FHA members in high schools throughout Pennsylvania.

Named as president was Alice Bushko, a Fleetville high school senior. Phyllis Crouse, Hanover, was elected historian.

Present Fashion Show

A highlight of the gathering was a fashion show in which 50 members of the PHA took part. Included in the group was Martha Van Dyke, of Gettysburg high school, who modeled an aqua sweater, black dirndl and stole and Evelyn Kuhn, Biglerville, who wore an aqua stole, white organdy dress with aqua velvet bow and flowers.

The fashion show was directed by June Hamilton Rhoades of the Institute of Hand Knitting, New York city. Other activities Saturday afternoon included music by the state PHA chorus of 51 voices directed by Mrs. Margaret Gavenonis, of Mildred, Sullivan county, and a "charm hour" directed by Ann Delafield, head of the Dubarry Success school of New York city.

Rev. Moreland Going To Shrewsbury Pulpit

Rev. F. Elwood Moreland, pastor of Calvary Lutheran church, Greenmont, Md., was elected pastor of the Shrewsbury-Loganville Lutheran charge, at recent congregational meetings held at Christ Lutheran church, Shrewsbury, and at Christ Lutheran church, Loganville.

The new pastor will assume his duties on May 1. He succeeds the Rev. Robert J. Calhoun, who recently left for another charge at Hummelstown.

A native of Perry county, Rev. Moreland graduated from Gettysburg college in 1942, and three years later, he graduated from the Lutheran seminary.

The Greenmont charge was his first. He has a wife and two-year-old son.

12 COUNTIANS AT SCOUT MEET

Twelve women represented Adams county at the Section 7, Region 3, Girl Scout conference held in Hershey Saturday. 236 were registered for the sessions. The theme was, "Strengthening the Girl Scout Program."

During the morning a symposium on the Girl Scout program as seen by people from the outside, including parents, churches, schools, leaders, business men and professional scouters, was held with the speakers telling of the benefits of the program and how it can be improved.

In the afternoon leaders of the Brownies, Intermediates and Seniors held group discussions. Miss Marian Tipper, Adams county executive director, was in charge of the Senior group discussion.

In addition to Miss Tipper those from the county attending were Mrs. Ivan Taylor and Mrs. Romaine Pittenturf, York Springs; Mrs. Mervin Bream, Mrs. Fred Faber, Jr., Mrs. Raymond Unks, Mrs. J. Walter Coleman and Mrs. John Roberts, Gettysburg; Mrs. Leon Gage, Mrs. Ray Harner, Miss Betty Crouse and Mrs. Ethel Helwig, Littlestown.

COURT APPROVES BONDS

COURT GRANTS NEW TRIAL OF DAMAGE SUITS

Judge W. C. Sheely Saturday handed down an opinion granting a new trial in six actions in trespass brought as a result of a collision December 1, 1947, between a car driven by Lester L. Wise, Wells-ville R. 1, and a parked truck operated by Wilford C. Sober, Lemoyne.

The accident occurred two miles north of York Springs on the Harrisburg road. A jury last November heard the cases and found in favor of Wise and the occupants of his car, Norman L. Thumma, Franklinton; Bruce E. and Ruth-etta R. Wise, Wellsville; Clyde Eichelberger and Shirley D. Wise, Lewisberry. All of the occupants of the car had brought suit against Sober. Sober and the occupants of his truck, Archie C. and Nelson A. Sober, Lemoyne, and the owner of the truck, R. W. Sawyer, Sr., Lemoyne, had brought suit against Lester Wise. All were seeking damages as a result of the accident.

"Contrary To Evidence"

After the November jury returned its verdict finding for Wise and his group against Sober, claiming Sober to have been negligent and the proximate cause of the accident. Sober's attorneys filed motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and also filed motions for a new trial. The opinion handed down Saturday was on those two motions and refused "judgment n. o. v." while granting the new trials.

PA. ACCIDENTS ARE FATAL TO 20 OVER WEEK-END

(By The Associated Press)
Twenty persons were killed in Pennsylvania in week-end accidents—nine of them as a result of highway crashes.

On the Bethlehem pike near Sellersville a car and a light pickup truck collided head-on, killing 60-year-old William H. Rohrbach of Hazleton and the truck driver, John Yorch, 36, Perkasie.

A 27-year-old Shippensburg woman was killed by a hit-run car near Chambersburg. She was struck while holding a flashlight for her escort, Charles Wetzel, Jr., Waynesboro, while he repaired a flat tire. Wetzel also was injured.

Don E. Davies, 33, of Franklin, was killed and two others hurt in a head-on collision on Route 322, near Conchran.

Other Traffic Victims
Henry S. Graver, 34, Bethlehem, and James A. Boyle, 21, Cleveland, Ohio, were killed in a crash at Leithsville, near Easton. Police said Graver, who was driving, lost control of his car and it crashed into a tree. Charles P. Harlor, 27, Bethlehem, was injured.

A collision between a jeep and a slag truck in West Mifflin, near McKeesport, killed Joseph R. McConnell, 23, a passenger in the jeep. Two others were hurt seriously.

Two boys drowned when they tumbled from an improvised raft into a lake on the grounds of the Malvern preparatory school in the Philadelphia suburbs. The boys—Raymond Wilson, 13, and Charles Wallace, 9, both of Malvern, were fishing at the time of the accident.

John R. Bradley of Boothwyn was killed when he was wedged under a freight car while working with a shifting crew in Pennsylvania railroad yards.

Fires Fatal To Six
Charles Pronishon, 32, former West Mahony City fire chief, and James Krupo, Jr., 11, died in a fire that destroyed a two-story frame house at Lost Creek, near Shenandoah.

Israel Drazen, 67, retired Philadelphia clothing worker, suffered fatal burns when he tried to put out a blaze in a dining room closet of his home.

Frank Gordon, 75, of Norrisville, Crawford county, died in a fire at his home. He was convalescing from a stroke when he had caught fire.

A 15-year-old farm wife, Mrs. George Horner of State College, died.

PREDICTS CUT IN PRESIDENT'S HOUSING PLAN

Washington, April 4 (AP)—A Democratic senator predicted privately today that President Truman's program for construction of 1,050,000 public housing units in seven years faces a new cut in Congress.

The Senate Banking committee already approved a bill which whittles the program to 810,000 units to be built over a six-year period.

When the bill comes up soon for Senate debate there will be a drive to trim the figure to 600,000 units for construction over six years.

The Senate Democrat who predicted that drive will succeed asked that his name not be used because he is a sponsor of the bill providing for 810,000 units and expects to fight for it.

"I know for sure from a sampling of the opinion around here," the senator said, "that we haven't got a chance of getting the 810,000-unit bill through as it stands. That means the President's figure of 1,050,000 units is just out."

Seek Slum Clearance

On the other hand, Senator Ellender (D-La.), chief sponsor of the bill calling for 810,000 dwellings, told a reporter he believes the chances are better than fair that a program of that size will clear both the Senate and the House.

The prospect now is that the bill will be called up for action in the Senate after it disposes of the European Aid bill, a supplemental appropriation measure and the reciprocal trade bill. There has been some talk, however, of putting housing ahead of reciprocal trade. In that

Waynesboro Man Is Held In Hit-Run Case

Chambersburg, Pa., April 4 (AP)—A 31-year-old Waynesboro man today faced a hit-run charge in the auto death of Lorraine McManus, 27, of Shippensburg.

Henry D. Lyles, manager of a loan service office was committed to the Franklin county jail in default of $1,000 bail following an arraignment Saturday night before Justice of the Peace S. J. Zarger.

Miss McManus was run down, state police said, when she held a flashlight for her escort, Charles Wetzel, Jr., Waynesboro. The accident took place early Saturday on the Lincoln highway, a mile and a half east of Chambersburg. Wetzel was injured in the crash and is reported to be in a fair condition at the Chambersburg hospital.

MOTORISTS ROBBED

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—A bandit got away with $4,065 last night forcing his way at gunpoint into an automobile and making its operator drive more than six miles.

Detective Joseph Foley reported. Foley said the money was taken from two passengers in the car, who said they were en route to Reading, Pa. Foley said Raymond Trainger lost $4,000 and the remainder was taken from Harry Silverstein.

Besides public housing, the bill provides for slum clearance, a housing research program designed to cut building costs and spur construction, and a four-year farm home program.

QUELL COSTA RICA REVOLT

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 4 (AP)—Costa Rica's second revolt in four months has been crushed by Jose Figueres, head of the military junta governing the tiny republic.

The rebellion broke out late Saturday and was all over yesterday morning.

Figueres' war minister, Edgar Cardona, seized two army barracks and demanded the cancellation of laws nationalizing banks and imposing a 10 per cent tax on capital. He also demanded the resignation of the ministers of finance and labor.

Cardona surrendered the artillery barracks when his revolt was only a few hours old. The other rebel stronghold, the Bellavista barracks, were given up shortly after dawn Sunday when government mortars registered seven direct hits on the rebels.

Many killed and wounded were carried from Bellavista.

The Figueres group said the entire country was quiet and that the people had rallied to the support of Figueres and Otilio Ulate Blanco, the president-elect.

Pope Says Mass To Expiate Enemies' Sins

Make Surveys To Fix U.S.-Red Zone

Berlin, April 4 (AP)—The Americans and Russians sent out surveying teams today to determine who controls what in divided Berlin. The action followed three boundary disputes last night and today.

Involved are slivers of land claimed by both the Americans and Russians. Surveyors were told to check the boundary between Soviet-occupied territory and the American sector.

The disputes stemmed from sharp-edged Russian efforts to tighten their blockade against western Berlin by such means as trenches, road blocks and border police patrols.

A couple of dozen German policemen, at least two Russian officers and several soldiers, some representatives of the American military government's public safety branch and a number of agitated German civilians got into the quarrels. No one was hurt.

on Feb. 12, shortly after Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary was sentenced to life imprisonment by a Hungarian court which convicted him of treason.

Informed prelates said the special mass of expiation was the first of its kind celebrated in the ancient basilica.

A few minutes earlier, the pope led a regular Passion Sunday mass. In saying it he celebrated the 50th anniversary of his priesthood, which was Saturday.

"Plans to distribute 10,000 copies of a pamphlet listing the danger signals of cancer were being worked out by representatives of the county cancer group and Boy and Girl Scout leaders. The scout troops have agreed to distribute the folders to every home in the county during April.

"May Lengthen Your Life"

John A. Hauser, president of the county unit, pointed out that cancer will cause more than 200,000 deaths in this country during the coming year. "Some 18 million people now living will die of cancer if the present death rate continues. This figure indicates that half the home in America will know the tragedy of a cancer death. No one can determine where or whom it will strike. As a result we should do all we can to support the drive to fight cancer. You may be contributing to a cause that will lengthen your own life. You certainly are contributing to the cause that will help many of your friends and loved ones."

The Adams Advertising agency has volunteered use of two out-of-town in the county in order to remind everyone of the need to support cancer research.

Coin boxes are being distributed to many stores and business establishments in the county.

SEEK CLUES IN CAR THEFT RING AFTER SLAYING

New York, April 4 (AP)—Police and FBI agents delved into the interstate operations of auto stealing rings today seeking clues in the slaying of a convicted car thief who had been sought by the FBI.

The bullet-riddled body of Joseph Frank Miranda, Sr., 35, of New York and Mt. Bethel, Pa., was found yesterday in a stolen car parked in Astoria, Queens.

FBI Special Agent Scheidt issued a statement last night saying news reports that Miranda "was in the process of being contacted by Federal agents are absolutely untrue."

Published reports speculated that Miranda might have been slain to prevent him from making revelations to the FBI. Discounting this, Scheidt said the FBI had been "actively seeking" the victim.

Under $1,000 Bail
Miranda was listed as being under $1,000 bail in Louisville, Ky., the FBI said, and it had instructions to arrest him here if sighted. The arrest orders did not say whether he was considered to have jumped bail or was wanted for some other reason, the FBI said.

The FBI said a bench warrant for Miranda's arrest, issued March 16 by the U. S. District Court of the western district of Kentucky, charged him with interstate transportation of a stolen car from New York city to Louisville.

Up-to-date records of the case at Louisville were not immediately available.

Miranda's body, with four bullet holes in the head and one in the chest, was found slumped in the seat of the stolen car. The car, reported stolen from a parking lot in Philadelphia last week, is owned by Abe Goldman, of Laurel Springs, N. J.

Accused Of Desertion
At Mt. Bethel, Justice of the Peace Clifford Sebring said he had issued a warrant last February 15 charging Miranda with desertion and non-support of his wife, Josephine, 35, and their two sons, Robert John, five, and Joseph, three.

Sebring said Miranda and his family formerly lived on Long Island, N. Y., and moved to Mt. Bethel several years ago. The wife and sons have been living in a small "shack" a mile outside Mt. Bethel, the justice of the peace said.

To Be Sales Manager At Maring's Store

A. Raymond Unks, South street, has been named as sales manager for Maring's (Weishaar Brothers), Glenn Weishaar announced today.

Unks began his duties this morning. The local man was district sales representative for the calendar and specialty firm of Shaw Barton, Coshocton, Ohio, before accepting the post with Maring's. Part of his work was devoted to the training of sales representatives in various parts of the country. Prior to 1942 he was assistant sales manager for the Globe Slicing Machine company of Pittsburgh.

Weishaar also announced plans to increase the service department of the store.

OIL SHARES UP

New York, April 4 (AP)—Oil shares moved higher in active trading in the stock market today. Gains ran from fractions to more than two points among the leaders with the high priced Superior Oil of California adding as much as four points. Industry reports indicated others would follow the lead of Socony-Vacuum in raising the price of gasoline 1½ cent a gallon.

'SLAVS RENEW TITO LOYALTY

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 4 (AP)—Yugoslavia proclaimed their loyalty to Premier Marshal Tito yesterday with a full dress parade through the streets of Belgrade.

The demonstration followed publication Saturday of a speech by Tito in which he accused both the Cominform—the Association of Eastern Communist nations—and the Western "capitalistic" countries of lies and slander against Yugoslavia.

Tito has been denounced by the Soviet-dominated Cominform for allegedly deviating from the Marxist-Leninist brand of Communism. The premier declared he was "laughing" at the campaign against his government.

The anti-Yugoslav propaganda will not bother us," he said, "nor will it make us digress from the road which we are following." Yugoslavia meanwhile today opened the trial of a group accused of being sent into the country to ferret out military and economic secrets for neighboring Communist-run Hungary.

The opening of the trial was reported by the Communist party newspaper Borba. The paper did not disclose the total number of those arrested but seven names were listed in the story. Borba said the trial would disclose "the methods used by a people's democracy (the Communist name for Eastern European Communist states) to harm a neighboring Socialist country."

12 Airlines Face Anti-Trust Action
Washington, April 4 (AP)—A $1,500,000 anti-trust suit was filed in federal court today against 12 major airlines and two air associations.

The suit was brought by a corporation designated as S.S.W., Inc., of Concord, Calif.

In addition to the 12 major airlines named as defendants, 20 other airlines were named as alleged co-conspirators.

The suit charges that the 14 defendants and the 20 lines named as co-conspirators made contracts to "directly and unreasonably restrain and (entered a) combination and conspiracy to monopolize the air-borne transportation, trade and commerce of the United States."

New York, April 4 (AP)—Composer Dmitri Shostakovich, carrying a bundle of phonograph records, left by plane last night for Russia with a single comment that he was "glad to be returning home."

Cartons of cigarettes were among the luggage of six other Russian delegates who started home after attending the recent "World Peace" conference here.

and Lester B. Zimmerman, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Abraham M. Hoover
Abraham Montgomery Hoover, 79, Chambersburg, died unexpectedly Saturday morning at 2:30 o'clock at his home following a heart attack which he suffered on Friday morning. He had been in ill health for eleven years.

He was born on March 20, 1870, in Letterkenny township, a son of the late Abram S. and Agnes Hershey Hoover. He was a member of the King Street United Brethren church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Hoover; a daughter, Mrs. Esther R. Adelman, of South Mountaintown; two sons, Roy M., of Hyattsville, Md., and Guy V., of Chambersburg; three sisters, Mrs. Mary C. Clappadde, of Waynesboro; Miss Minnie A. Hoover, of Chambersburg, and Mrs. J. Arthur Phell, of Gettysburg.

Funeral services were held today at 2:30 p. m. at the Sellers funeral home, Chambersburg, with the Rev. Dr. Clyde W. Meadows officiating. Burial in the Salem cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira H. Coulson, of Biglerville, attended a presentation of "The Messiah" at St. James Lutheran church, Northumberland, Sunday evening. End Union Vespers
The closing union vesper service of the present series by the Littlestown ministerium was held Sunday evening in St. Paul's Lutheran church, the Rev. David S. Kammerer, host pastor, with a very large audience present. Instead of a guest minister, the Littlestown Men's chorus presented a service of sacred songs. The Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church, was in charge of the service. L. Robert Snyder directed the chorus and Miss Shirley M. Hawk served as pianist.

The following program was presented: prelude, "A Lenten Supplication," Dittich by Roy Hoover, church organist; opening devotions by the Rev. Mr. Brumbach. The chorus then presented the first part of the program as follows: "Send Out Thy Light" Gounod; "Were You There?" Negro spiritual, a Waring arrangement with Stewart N. Long, soloist; "All through the Night" by Owen; "This Is My Father's World" by Babcock; "Let My People Go," Negro spiritual, a Waring arrangement, with Stewart N. Long, soloist; "Deep River," spiritual, a Waring arrangement (first public performance of this number by the chorus); and "Holy, Holy, Holy" by Dykes.

During the offering, Roy Hoover, organist, played as an offertory, "Andante Religioso" by Halling. The second portion of the program by the chorus was: "Steal Away," spiritual; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Steffe, a Waring arrangement; "Abide with Me," Lyte; "Massa Dear," Dvorak from the second movement of "New World" Symphony; "Now the Day is Over" by Barnby; and "Onward Christian Soldiers," Sullivan, a Waring arrangement (first public appearance of this number by the chorus). The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Brumbach.

and in "The Maiden's Wish," Liszt has taken one of the rare songs from the Polish composer's pen and imparted his characteristic pianistic style. "Nocturne in E Major," Opus 62, No. 2, and "Polonaise in A Flat, Opus 53," were Chopin's two other numbers played by Miss Keene. Miss Keene gave to this latter number all the warmth, the pomp and the splendor that Chopin wrote into it.

Miss Keene was generously applauded after each of her numbers, and at the conclusion of the regular program the audience was unwilling to let her go. She favored them with three encores, "Claire de Lune," by Debussy; "Minute Waltz," by Chopin, and "Rush Hour in Hong Kong," by Chasins.

Use of the theater was provided free of charge by Warner Brothers, through the cooperation of Sydney J. Poppay, manager. The Steinway was obtained from J. H. Troup in Harrisburg.

Bullets Down Susquehanna 3-1 In Opener On Saturday

With Ken Houtz and Bill Brown sharing the pitching assignment and permitting but three hits, the Gettysburg college baseball team opened its 19-game schedule here Saturday afternoon by defeating Susquehanna on a 3-1 score before a large crowd.

Houtz hurled the first five innings and yielded all of the hits and an unearned run. Brown twirled the last four innings.

Susquehanna tabbed its run in the second inning. Felker led off with a double to right center. Solomon popped to Bill Atherholt. O'Garra gained first base when Wiand bled his bounder. Felk moving to third on a double steal Felker beat the return throw to the plate.

Coach Ira Plank's lads took the lead in the third frame thanks to a two-base wild throw. Woody Huntzinger opened by drawing a base on balls. Houtz bunted and when Bob O'Garra threw into right field, Huntzinger raced all the way home and Houtz wound up on third Ray Novak fanned but Dick Wiand singled to right scoring Houtz. Tony Cervino walked but Atherholt skied to center and Cervino was nipped on a relay at second base.

The Bullets' final run came in the fourth frame when Ditty Jones Walt Kirker and Woody Huntzinger singled in succession after one was out.

Susquehanna never threatened thereafter and was completely hand-cuffed by Brown's efficient mound performance in the last four rounds.

Gene Hummel's one-handed running catch of Bill Ingold's long fly to right center in the third inning was the feature defensive play of the game.

On Wednesday the Bullets play their second game when they clash with Bucknell at Lewisburg. On Saturday Dickinson will play here.

Masters Tourney Opens Thursday

Augusta, Ga., April 4 (AP)—Thirty performers rehearsed today for one of the great American sports acts, the Masters Golf tournament, and some of them played good parts on their long, wide stage.

Vic Ghezzi, the tall former PGA champion from Kansas City, has covered the 6,900-yard Augusta National course twice with the best average of the rehearsal season.

Ghezzi had a four below-par-68, the lowest shooting of the session, plus a 71 yesterday. Clayton Haefer of Charlotte, N. C., is second low with a 69 and 71.

Practice rounds will continue tomorrow and the dress rehearsal will be held Wednesday. The 72-hole medal play tournament begins on Thursday with rounds of 18 to be played each day through Sunday.

ALIQUIPPA HI DEFEATS YORK TO WIN TITLE

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—The PIAA Class A basketball championship is back in western Pennsylvania today for the first time in five years.

Aliquippa is the team that ended the east's domination Saturday night by defeating York, 63 to 51, before a standing-room crowd of 10,000 who witnessed the 30th annual Pennsylvania interscholastic athletic association classic in Convention Hall.

A city-wide celebration awaited the victors as they stepped from their special team last night in Aliquippa. The team was taken on a triumphal parade as thousands lined the streets of the little steel town of 33,000.

Burgess Louis Fontana proclaimed today as a legal holiday and school authorities promised only a brief session. A victory dinner is scheduled for April 21.

Set New Mark
The Beaver County Indians also garnered two other laurels in their impressive victory. They broke the team scoring record of 47 points set by Allentown in the 1946 title-match with Duquesne and they joined the select company of Allentown, Hazleton and Lower Merion in going undefeated to win the title.

Duquesne was the last western quarter to win in the state finals. The Dukes did it in 1944 against Hazleton for the west's ninth triumph of the series.

Mickey Zernich, Aliquippa's six foot, two inch center, took the game's scoring honors with 18 points. His 12 tallies in the first half helped give the Indians a 12-point lead they nursed for the rest of the game.

However, Bud Snow, a six-foot, three inch forward, proved to be the key to the westerners' success with his control of rebounds from both backboards.

A total of 45 personal fouls were a big factor in the game. York made good on only 13 out of 27 attempts while Aliquippa compiled a 19 for 28.

Brown Ejected
Personal fouls hurt the easterners more than the figures indicate. York's clever play-maker, Captain Lou Brown, went out via the foul route early in the third period after sparking plugging his team in the first half.

It was up to forward Charlie Innerners and guard Dave Rutter to supply the York scoring punch as the Indians bottled up Brown. Both tallied 12 points.

Meanwhile, the spotlight returns to the Class B schools tomorrow night as Ashley and Kane battle for that division's state title at Farrell in high school basketball's season finale.

Ashley boasts the same record Aliquippa took into the finals—28 straight games. The Rockets are scheduled to leave by plane today on their 300 mile jaunt.

Kane's western champions have won 17 games while losing only to Warren and Bradford, both Class A teams.

Weekend Sports In Brief

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, April 4 (AP)—Dumb Dan Morgan who frequently argues that modern boxers don't know how to box and modern managers and trainers don't know how to teach them has a standing offer to demonstrate 120 different moves in boxing. The catch is that Dan insists on a sizeable inducement—say a $1,000 bet—before he'll put on the demonstration. "Joe Louis" Dan says "didn't know anything about boxing except what Jack Blackburn taught him. Blackburn taught Joe four moves and he won the heavyweight championship."

The four moves were how to feint, how to carry the body with a jab and make it effective, how to draw a lead and counter it with either hand and how to keep an opponent moving back or hold him in the center of the ring. "Louis always made them back up until he fought Walcott. Then Walcott backed him up and Louis got licked—at least I say he was licked," Dan concludes.

THIGHS-ING IT UP
Like most football coaches, Harby "Blackjack" Smith, Missouri line coach is an inveterate doodler. But there's one difference. When Smith is wearing his gym clothes—shorts and sweat shirt—he invariably props his 13's on a desk and draws his diagrams and formations on his thigh.

Since Blackjack now weighs about 225 and each gam measures 27 inches in circumference, he has plenty of blackboard space. Only trouble is he has to take a shower every time he wants to use an eraser.

MONDAY MATINEE
Penn relays officials have placed a limit on ten teams in any one race for this year's meet—which probably will save a few spike wounds but will spoil most of the fun in the high school races.

Twin brothers, Hal and Harvey Toso, have been the sparkplugs of the Santa Clara baseball team ever since 1947. Hal pitching and Harvey playing short. Now if the Broncos could find a couple of hit-o'-brothers.

Training Camp Briefs

Orlando, Fla., April 4 (AP)—The fans may be in for a battling one when the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators open the American League season at the nation's capital April 18. In an exhibition game here yesterday the two teams pounded out 30 base hits, including nine doubles and two home runs as the A's won 9-7. Washington registered 17 hits and the A's 13.

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—The Princeton Indians, the tie clinching San Antonio Texas today and Miami's Bill Meyer was trying to figure out how to put some more punch in his team's attack. The Buckeye shut out 3-0 by the World Champion Cleveland Indians yesterday getting only four hits.

Montgomery, Ala., April 4 (AP)—Major Edgar Sawyer of the Philadelphia Phillies today named Souja Kemp Hentzelman to oppose the Montgomery Rebels of the Southeastern league in a night exhibition. The Phils came here after two straight victories in Birmingham. They now have a spring training record of 13 wins and eight defeats.

Alaskan Huskies Going To S. America
Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—Railway expressmen in Philadelphia batted down the hatches today for the arrival of 38 invaders from the north—Alaska husky dogs.

The dogs tightly crated to preserve fingers and other limbs of attendants, moved by rail to this city from which they'll be sent to the Argentine for military duty.

The 80-pound huskies were selected by Col. Herman Pujato, an officer in the Argentine army. He went to Alaska to handpick his recruits for duty with mountain troops in the Andes. Then they were shipped by air to Seattle, where railway expressman H. H. White said "They're just like wild animals."

After the Argentine consulate at Washington cleared the transaction, the huskies began their railroad trip here from Seattle last Friday.

POSSIBILITY OF TRUCE WITH RUSSIA CITED

(Foreign Affairs Analyst)
If Russia doesn't like being out of the Atlantic Pact why doesn't she try to get in?

A student of foreign affairs wants me to give him an answer to that—good question to ask but not an easy one to answer. I suppose he may have had in mind the statement in the Soviet memorandum last week that of the great powers only the Soviet Union is excluded from the pact to this treaty which can be explained only by the fact that this treaty is directed against the Soviet Union.

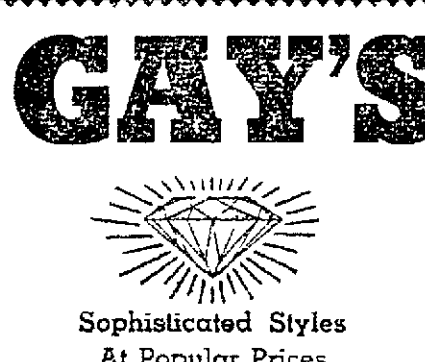

Well I think we must start from the premise that the pact is created specifically for defense against any Communist aggression in Europe. In that sense the alliance may be said to be directed against the Soviet Union since the Bolshevik world revolution for the spread of Communism is controlled from Moscow.

Wouldn't Be Welcome
This being the case I think we are safe in assuming that neither would Russia be welcomed in the pact nor would she herself wish to join under conditions as they exist at this writing.

Britain's Winston Churchill made a statement apropos of this question in his Boston speech last week. He asked why the Russians have deliberately acted so as to unite the free world against them and then answered his own query thus: "It is because they fear the friendship of the west more than its hostility. They cannot afford to allow free and friendly intercourse to grow up between the vast area they control and the civilization of the west. The Russian people must not see what goes on outside and the world must not see what goes on inside the Soviet domain."

However, while that's the way things now stand, it is within the range of possibility that there might be a sharp change in the position. Some western statesmen like British Foreign Secretary Bevin are said to incline to the view that once the Atlantic Pact becomes effective, Moscow may decide Russia's expansion in Europe has ended and the Kremlin may seek a truce.

Bullets Down Susquehanna 3-1 In Opener On Saturday

With Ken Houtz and Bill Brown sharing the pitching assignment and permitting but three hits, the Gettysburg college baseball team opened its 19-game schedule here Saturday afternoon by defeating Susquehanna university 3-1 before a large crowd.

Houtz hurled the first five innings and yielded all of the hits and an unearned run. Brown twirled the last four innings.

Susquehanna tabbed its run in the second inning. Felker led off with a double to right center. Solomon popped to Bill Atherholt. O'Gara gained first base when Wicand bobbled his bounder. Felk moving to third. On a double steal Felker beat the return throw to the plate.

Coach Ira Plank's lads took the lead in the third frame thanks to a two-base wild throw. Woody Huntzinger opened by drawing a base on balls. Houtz bunted and when Bob O'Gara threw into right field, Huntzinger raced all the way home and Houtz wound up on third. Ray Novak fanned but Dick Wicand singled to right scoring Houtz. Tony Cervino walked but Atherholt scolded to center and Cervino was nipped on a relay at second base.

The Bullets' final run came in the fourth frame when Ditty Jones, Walt Kirker and Woody Huntzinger singled in succession after one was out.

Susquehanna never threatened thereafter and was completely hand-cuffed by Brown's efficient mound performance in the last four rounds.

Gene Hummel's one-handed running catch of Bill Ingold's long fly to right center in the third inning was the feature defensive play of the game.

On Wednesday the Bullets play their second game when they clash with Bucknell at Lewisburg. On Saturday Dickinson will play here.

E. B. BASEBALL OUTLOOK GOOD

Prospects are good for a successful baseball season at East Berlin high school where Coach Warren Zimmerman has eight veterans from last year's squad around which to build his team.

Last year the East Berlin team's only loss in the Adams county loop was at the hands of Bolling Springs. Those remaining from the 1948 squad include William Moul, pitcher; Carl Perry and Gene Hoopes, catchers; Earl Mummert, shortstop; John Myers and Ned Dettler, third basemen; Harry Moul and Rodger Murray, outfielders.

Newcomers who have been showing fine promise in pre-season drills include Burnell Groupe, Donald Hinkle, Lester Murray, Kenneth and Richard Myers, Dale Reichert, Ronald Hoke, Charles Weaver, Clifford Barnes and John Wonders.

The following 10-game schedule has been arranged for the team: April 12, St. Francis, away; 14, Dillsburg, away; 19, Hanover, home; 22, Bolling Springs, home; 29, Littlestown, home; May 2, Hanover, away; 6, Biglerville, home; 12, York Springs, away; 18, Dillsburg, home; 20, New Oxford, away.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, April 4 (AP)—Dumb Dan Morgan, who frequently argues that modern boxers don't know how to box and modern managers and trainers don't know how to teach them, has a standing offer to demonstrate 120 different moves in boxing.

The catch is that Dan insists on a sizeable inducement — say a $1,000 bet-before he'll put on the demonstration. "Joe Louis," Dan says, "didn't know anything about boxing except what Jack Blackburn taught him."

Blackburn taught Joe four moves and he won the heavyweight championship. "The four moves were how to feint; how to carry the body with a jab and make it effective; how to draw a lead and counter it with either hand and how to keep an opponent moving back or hold him in the center of the ring."

"Louis always made them back up until he fought Walcott. Then Walcott backed him up and Louis got licked—at least I say he was licked," Dan concludes.

THIGH-ING IT UP
Like most football coaches, Harty "Blackjack" Smith, Missouri line coach, is an inveterate doodler.

But there's one difference. When Smith is wearing his gym clothes—shorts and sweat shirt—he invariably props his 13's on a desk and draws his diagrams and formations on his thigh.

Since Blackjack now weighs about 225 and each gam measures 27 inches in circumference, he has plenty of blackboard space.

Only trouble is he has to take a shower every time he wants to use an eraser.

MONDAY MATINEE
Penn relays officials have placed a limit on ten teams in any one race for this year's meet—which probably will save a few spike wounds but will spoil most of the fun in the high school races.

Twin brothers, Hal and Harvey Toso, have been the sparkplugs of the Santa Clara baseball team ever since 1947. Hal pitching and Harvey playing short. Now if the Broncos could find a couple of hit-o- brothers.

Training Camp Briefs
Orlando, Fla., April 4 (AP)—The fans may be in for a batting orgy when the Philadelphia Athletics and the Washington Senators open the American league season at the nation's capital April 18. In an exhibition game here yesterday the two teams pounded out 30 base hits, including three doubles and two homers, as the A's won 9-7. Washington registered 17 hits and the A's 13.

Tucson, Ariz., April 4 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates were traveling to San Antonio, Texas, today and Manager Billy Meyer was trying to figure out how to put some more punch in his team's attack. The Bucs were shut out 3-0 by the World Champion Cleveland Indians yesterday, getting only four hits.

Montgomery, Ala., April 4 (AP)—Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Philadelphia Phillies today named Southpaw Kenny Heintzelman to oppose the Montgomery Rebels, of the Southeastern league, in a night exhibition. The Phils came here after two straight victories in Birmingham. They now have a spring training record of 13 wins and eight defeats.

Alaskan Huskies Going To S. America
Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—Railway expressmen in Philadelphia batted down the hatches today for the arrival of 38 invaders from the north — Alaska husky dogs.

The dogs, tightly crated to preserve fingers and other limbs of attendants, moved by rail to this city from which they'll be sent to the Argentine for military duty.

The 80-pound huskies were selected by Col. Herman Pujato, an officer in the Argentine army. He went to Alaska to handpick his recruits for duty with mountain troops in the Andes. Then they were shipped by air to Seattle, where railway expressman H. H. White said "They're just like wild animals."

After the Argentine consulate at Washington cleared the transaction, the huskies began their railroad trip here from Seattle last Friday.

"If Russia doesn't like being out of the Atlantic Pact, why doesn't she try to get in?"

A student of foreign affairs wants me to give him an answer to that—a good question to ask but not an easy one to answer. I suppose he may have had in mind the statement in the Soviet memorandum last week that "of the great powers only the Soviet Union is excluded from the parties to this treaty, which can be explained only by the fact that this treaty is directed against the Soviet Union."

Well, I think we must start from the premise that the pact is created specifically for defense against any Communist aggression in Europe. In that sense the alliance may be said to be "directed against the Soviet Union," since the Bolshevik revolution for the spread of Communism is controlled from Moscow.

This being the case I think we are safe in assuming that neither would Russia be welcomed in the pact nor would she herself wish to join under conditions as they exist at this writing.

Britain's Winston Churchill made a statement apropos of this question in his Boston speech last week. He asked why the Russians have "deliberately acted so as to unite the free world against them," and then answered his own query thus: "It is because they fear the friendship of the west more than its hostility. They cannot afford to allow free and friendly intercourse to grow up between the vast area, they control and the civilization of the west."

The Russian people must not see what goes on outside and the world must not see what goes on inside the Soviet domain."

However, while that's the way things now stand, it is within the range of possibility that there might be a sharp change in the position. Some western statesmen like British Foreign Secretary Bevin are said to incline to the view that once the Atlantic Pact becomes effective, Moscow may decide Russia's expansion in Europe has ended and the Kremlin may seek a truce.

SEEK CLUES IN CAR THEFT RING AFTER SLAYING

New York, April 4 (AP)—Police and FBI agents delved into the interstate operations of auto-stealing rings today seeking clues in the slaying of a convicted car thief who had been sought by the FBI.

The bullet-riddled body of Joseph Frank Miranda, Sr., 35, of New York and Mt. Bethel, Pa., was found yesterday in a stolen car parked in Astoria, Queens.

FBI Special Agent Scheidt issued a statement last night saying news reports that Miranda "was in the process of being contacted by Federal agents are absolutely untrue."

Published reports speculated that Miranda might have been slain to prevent him from making revelations to the FBI. Discounting this, Scheidt said the FBI had been "actively seeking" the victim.

Under $1,000 Bail
Miranda was listed as being under $1,000 bail in Louisville, Ky., the FBI said, and it had instructions to arrest him here if sighted. The arrest orders did not say whether he was considered to have jumped bail or was wanted for some other reason, the FBI said.

The FBI said a bench warrant for Miranda's arrest, issued March 16 by the U. S. District Court of the western district of Kentucky, charged him with interstate transportation of a stolen car from New York city to Louisville.

Up-to-date records of the case at Louisville were not immediately available.
Miranda's body, with four bullet holes in the head and one in the chest, was found slumped in the seat of the stolen car. The car, reported stolen from a parking lot in Philadelphia last week, is owned by Abe Goldman, of Laurel Springs, N. J.

Accused Of Desertion

At Mt. Bethel, Justice of the Peace Clifford Sebring said he had issued a warrant last February 15 charging Miranda with desertion and non-support of his wife, Josephine, 35, and their two sons, Robert John, five, and Joseph, three.

Sebring said Miranda and his family formerly lived on Long Island, N. Y., and moved to Mt. Bethel several years ago. The wife and sons have been living in a small "shack" a mile outside Mt. Bethel, the justice of the peace said.

'SLAVS RENEW TITO LOYALTY

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, April 4 (AP)—Yugoslavia proclaimed their loyalty to Premier Marshal Tito yesterday with a full dress parade through the streets of Belgrade.

The demonstration followed publication Saturday of a speech by Tito in which he accused both the Cominform—the Association of Eastern Communist nations—and the Western "capitalistic" countries of lies and slander against Yugoslavia. Tito has been denounced by the Soviet-dominated Cominform for allegedly deviating from the Marxist-Leninist brand of Communism. The premier declared he was "laughing" at the campaign against his government.

"The anti-Yugoslav propaganda will not bother us," he said, "nor will it make us digress from the road which we are following." Yugoslavia, meanwhile today opened the trial of a group accused of being sent into the country to ferret out military and economic secrets for neighboring Communist-run Hungary.

The opening of the trial was reported by the Communist party newspaper Borba. The paper did not disclose the total number of those arrested but seven names were listed in the story. Borba said the trial would disclose "the methods used by a people's democracy (the Communist name for Eastern European Communist states) to harm a neighboring Socialist country."

12 Airlines Face Anti-Trust Action

Washington, April 4 (AP)—A $1,500,000 anti-trust suit was filed in federal court today against 12 major airlines and two air associations.

The suit was brought by a corporation designated as S.S.W., Inc., of Concord, Calif.

In addition to the 12 major airlines named as defendants, 20 other airlines were named as alleged co-conspirators.

The suit charges that the 14 defendants and the 20 lines named as co-conspirators made contracts to "directly and unreasonably restrain and (entered a) combination and conspiracy to monopolize the air-borne transportation, trade and commerce of the United States."

New York, April 4 (AP)—Composer Dmitri Shostakovich, carrying a bundle of phonograph records, left by plane last night for Russia with a single comment that he was "glad to be returning home."

Cartons of cigarettes were among the luggage of six other Russian delegates who started home after attending the recent "World Peace" conference here.

Flock, head of the vocal department of the conservatory of music of Susquehanna university.

Defy "13 Jinx" At Pact Signing Today

Washington, April 4 (AP)—President Truman will defy superstition by being the 13th speaker at the signing of the Atlantic Defense Alliance today.

The President was scheduled to speak last on the program, after the 11 Foreign Ministers and Secretary of State Acheson made their brief addresses.

State Department officials who arranged the ceremony said they disregarded the 13 "jinx" in arranging the signing ceremonies.

Kress, Jr., Mary Louise Kress, Robert Kress, Dolores Kress, Patricia Kress, James Kress and Thomas Stavelly, all of town. Great grandchildren attending were: Harry Stavelly, III, Maria Elena Rickrode and Deborah Jane Stavelly. Also present were E. Lorraine Myers and John Hull.

End Union Vespers
The closing union vesper service of the present series by the Littlestown ministerium was held Sunday evening in St. Paul's Lutheran church. The Rev. David S. Kammerer, host pastor, with a very large audience present. Instead of a guest minister, the Littlestown Men's chorus presented a service of sacred songs. The Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor of Christ Reformed church, was in charge of the service. L. Robert Snyder directed the chorus and Miss Shirley M. Hawk served as pianist.

The following program was presented: prelude, "A Lenten Supplication," Dietrich by Roy Hoover, church organist; opening devotions by the Rev. Mr. Brumbach. The chorus then presented the first part of the program as follows: "Send Out Thy Light" Gounod; "Were You There?" Negro spiritual, a Waring arrangement with Stewart N. Long, soloist; "All through the Night" by Owen; "This Is My Father's World" by Babcock; "Let My People Go," Negro spiritual, a Waring arrangement, with Stewart N. Long, soloist; "Deep River," spiritual, a Waring arrangement (first public performance of this number by the chorus); and "Holy, Holy, Holy" by Dykes.

During the offering, Roy Hoover, organist, played as an offertory, "Andante Religioso" by Hailey. The second portion of the program by the chorus was: "Steal Away," spiritual; "Battle Hymn of the Republic," Steffe, a Waring arrangement; "Abide with Me," Lyte; "Massa Dear," Dvorak from the second movement of "New World" Symphony; "Now the Day is Over" by Barnby; and "Onward Christian Soldiers," Sullivan, a Waring arrangement (first public appearance of this number by the chorus). The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Mr. Brumbach.

Eagles Nominate
Announcement was made on Sunday morning in St. Aloysius Catholic church that the quarterly meeting of the southern regional Holy Name Union will be held Sunday, April 10, at 2 p. m. in St. Vincent's church, Hanover.

The quarterly meeting of the Friendship Circle Sunday school class of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Mechanicsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Humbert, teacher, will be held Monday, April 18 at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Ivan Riley near town.

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles B. Robert, West King street, entertained the former's nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Weikert and daughter, Phyllis, Hanover on Sunday in honor of Mr. Weikert's birthday. A birthday cake with candles occupied the center of the table. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Kester Nuli and daughter, Jean, and Mrs. Edward Manger, Westminster R. 2, and the Rev. and Mrs. Dr. F. P. Seibel and son, Donald, Silver Run.

At a stated meeting of Littlestown Aerie No. 2226, Fraternal Order of Eagles on Thursday evening, the following members were nominated for officers: Worthy president, Claude Olinger and Donald Harner; Worthy vice president, Robert Myers; Chaplain, Roscoe Bowers; treasurer, Edward Loeffel; conductor, Fred Gerick; inside guard, Samuel Smeltzer; outside guard, George Fowler; trustee, Monroe Stavelly, James Slick and Gordon Coates. Elections will be held Thursday, April 7 from 6 to 9 p. m. with Robert Koontz and Robert Beverhour serving as tellers. Delegates to the state convention at Pittsburgh in June will be elected at the regular meeting Thursday evening. Aerie secretary, John W. Duttra has been appointed by the chief auditor for another term of three years to run until June, 1952.

Miss Keene gave to this latter number all the warmth, the pomp and the splendor that Chopin wrote into it. Miss Keene was generously applauded after each of her numbers and at the conclusion of the regular program the audience was unwilling to let her go. She favored them with three encores, "Clair de Lune," by Debussy; "Minute Waltz" by Chopin, and "Rush Hour in Hong Kong," by Chasins.

Use of the theater was provided free of charge by Warner Brothers, through the cooperation of Sydney J. Poppay, manager. The Steinway was obtained from J. H. Troup in Harrisburg.

Cumberland, who was headed north, told the officers Smith's car appeared to be edging toward the side of the road when he came abreast of it. Moments later, Fetrow heard a crash. He turned his car around and headed down the road. He found Smith injured in his automobile which had hit a tree about three yards off the west side of the road. Summons Police
Fetrow left immediately to telephone the York state police post. Afterward, he returned to give Smith first aid only to find he already had been removed from the badly damaged automobile. Corbett said Richard Krout, York, took Smith to York hospital in his car. Smith died at 11:51 p. m. The accident occurred about 11:10. Coroner Seil said Sunday he was uncertain whether an inquest would be held. Corbett said Smith had been in York to visit his son, Lee K. Smith, earlier Saturday, but had left for Loganville between 7:30 p. m. and 8 p. m. The deceased is survived by one other son, Jesse E. Smith, Windsor, and a daughter, Hilda Smith Osterdorf, Loganville. Also three brothers, Clarence G. Smith, McSherrystown, Jesse B. Smith, Shrewsbury, and Leroy Smith, New Freedom R. 1. He leaves three grandchildren, Jesse E. Smith, II, of Windsor, and David L. and Gary L. Smith, York. Funeral services Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Wagner Funeral home, Shrewsbury. Rev. J. H. Fleckenstein, pastor of Trinity EUB church, York, will officiate. Burial in the Lutheran cemetery, Shrewsbury.

Out Of The Past

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
The Hon. James Cooper and family left Gettysburg today for their future home at Pottsville, Schuylkill county.

Married: On the 29th ult., by the Rev. Mr. Holland, Mr. John Brinkerhoff, to Miss Margaret Criswell, both of Straban township.

On the 22nd ult., by the Rev. Mr. Sprecher, Mr. Samuel Diehl, to Miss Mary Arb, both of Cashtown.

On the 27th ult., by the Rev. J. Ubrich, Mr. Harvey Rockey, of Cumberland county, to Miss Lydia Glass, of this county.

On the 15th ult., by the same, Mr. William Leathery, of York county, to Miss Susanna Asper, of this county.

On Thursday, by Rev. H. L. Baugher, D.D., Mr. Jesse Smysers, to Miss Elizabeth Peters, both of Menallen township.

Rev. Mr. Martz: Rev. George J. Martz, formerly of our Seminary, who was ordained some months ago as a missionary to India, is to sail Tuesday from Boston, for Madras in Hindostan, and is to join the Lutheran mission at Guntoor in that country.

Dueling: It is said that General Taylor has irrevocably determined to strike from the Army and Navy list the name of every officer who shall be engaged in a duel, and to refuse to reinstate those already cashiered for this offense. This vigorous policy will go far to render the amusement unpopular in the service; and will effectually correct the goading and bullying, demeanor of some of the very green recruits of the privilege of wearing a gilt button.

Late from Europe: The king of Holland died on the 17th of March.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Rev. E. J. Wolf, of Baltimore, Professor elect in the Theological Seminary, has removed to Gettysburg, and will at once enter on his professional duties.

Mr. John R. Donnell has taken charge of the old Franklin or McClellan House, in this place (center square), which has been thoroughly refitted. Mr. Donnell has had considerable experience as a landlord in York, Hanover and Westminster, and will keep a good house.

[Ad States:] "A good stable, a good hostler and a careful porter." "Katalysine Water will always be on hand, free of charge for boarders."

At a congregational meeting held in St. James Lutheran church, on Monday, a resolution was unanimously adopted extending a six months leave of absence to their pastor, Rev. G. W. Enders. Mr. Enders has made a very favorable impression during his brief pastoral services in this place, and the action of the congregation is a graceful recognition thereof.

The first of April, with the settlements incident to it, passed off more smoothly than usual in this place. As a general thing, engagements were promptly met, and money seemed more abundant than was generally apprehended. Both banks promptly discounted all good paper presented, and were prepared to discount larger amounts had there been a demand for them. We read in all this evidence that the financial condition of the county is sound.

Married: Frock-Leister. On the 29th ult., by Rev. W. K. Zeiber, D.D., Werten P. Frock, of Carroll county, Md., to Miss Rebecca E. Lister, of Adams county.

Baldwin-Warren: On the 2nd inst., at Arendtsville, by Rev. H. P. Long, Mr. Samuel Baldwin to Miss Mary A. Warren, both of Menallen township, this county.

Ferry-Rife. On the 19th ult., at East Berlin, by Rev. Deininger, Mr. John B. Ferry, of Heidelberg township, York county to Miss Kate S.

GATHERED WISDOM
"When that I was, and a little, tiny boy,"
As Shakespeare said,
I thought the world was meant for joy.
With naught to dread.

For so it seemed, since all about
Were wondrous things
And I had not discovered doubt,
With all it brings.

But soon, when wiser grown had I
With added years,
I sometimes heard my mother sigh
And saw her tears.

And then I learned that always here
Are hurt and care
And sorrows ever waiting near
For all to bear.

At last with clearer sight I see,
Best loved are they
Who bear with faith what has to be
And none can stay.

UPLIFT COMPANIONS

Seek the companionship of him who is able to give you an upward lift. There is a tendency on the part of those who look upon themselves as fortunate to seek out those in a like condition, that there may be a blending of misfortune. The result? A worse condition for all concerned. We should constantly search for those who give us an uplift, who will help us to wipe out the memory of our mistakes and blunders. We all need the companionship of those who are braver than ourselves.

In this game of ours we must hunt for those who are better players than we are—that we, too, may improve and become better. Fellow brooders in misfortune give no exercise to their climbing legs that they may rise above their state of gloom. Tie to the cheerful companion and you, too, will become cheerful.

In my father's library were several books by Samuel Smiles (a good name for a man), who wrote inspirational books that had a wide circulation. He was an English writer. His books so stimulated me that I sought other books of like nature, and from them to a wider variety of books—and never have I ceased to read and be uplifted by the best writers of all time. No one can read the books of Robert Louis Stevenson without feeling himself higher up in the world.

In our daily lives we need these uplift companions to help keep us alive, hopeful, and full of cheer. If life appears too easy, we unconsciously begin to slide down and lose interest, whereas this interest should forever be on the up and up! The chap, in the schoolbook story, who climbed to carve his name highest upon the natural bridge of Virginia, did not look down.

Readers of these daily talks must have noted that I am constantly quoting from writers and thinkers who have inspired me. They, in turn, were inspired as well by others. That is the way it works. The late Bob Davis took the world as his local story; thus everything that he wrote was fresh and instructive. He talked only with those who gave something new to him, that he might give to others.

Companion with your betters and you will become better. You see more, and you will have learned more, from the top rung of the ladder!

COPS BREAK UP NEAR RIOT AT RALLY OF REDS

Pittsburgh, April 4 (P)—Pittsburgh's police superintendent and a Communist party official were in sharp disagreement today over the manner in which police broke up a near riot after a Communist rally. No one was injured seriously as police held a crowd of 4,000 to 5,000 at bay outside North Side Carnegie Hall Saturday night. Six persons—none of them Communists—were arrested, five charged with disorderly conduct and one with inciting to riot.

The rally had been called to protest the current trial of 12 top party leaders in New York Federal district court.

William Albertson, executive secretary of the Communist party in northwestern Pennsylvania, was bitter yesterday in his denunciation of the near riot.

Two Versions
Saying he had asked police to prevent violence, Albertson declared in a statement:

"Pittsburgh had a taste last night of Fascism in action. The violent attack on the Communist rally was organized and carried through by Pittsburgh's blue-shirted Hitler-like storm troopers. . . . The police did not do their duty. The police condoned the attack, permitting the maltreatment of innocent bystanders and refused aid when called upon."

Police Superintendent Harvey J. Scott jumped to the defense of his men. Scott said Albertson's comments about the Police department "were just about what we expect from Communists," adding:

179 at Rally

"We will continue to enforce the law and see that order is maintained at and after every public gathering, whether it's Communist-sponsored or not. . . . As far as I am concerned, the Communists should be thankful we were on hand last night."

Scott said about 250 pickets were outside the hall Saturday night along with the spectators. He said none of the pickets or Communists were among those arrested, adding "the trouble came from the spectators."

Scott identified the pickets as members of the AMVETS, the Cath-

Favors Old Age
Payments At 60

Washington, April 4 (P)—Rep. Rhodes (D-Pa.) wants Federal old age payments to begin at age 60 instead of 65.

Rhodes has introduced a bill amending the old age and survivors insurance act. In another bill, Rhodes would amend the public assistance section of the act. Here too the age for receiving benefits would be cut from 65 to 60. In addition, it would prohibit a state from denying assistance through application of the so-called means test.

Some states, including Pennsylvania, do not provide aid to a person who has a relative able to help support him even if that relative refuses to do so.

The police official said only 179 persons attended the rally at which, Scott said, the principal speaker was Henry Winston, one of the top Communists now on trial in New York.

Scranton, Pa., April 4 (P)—The four hundred thousand residents of Pennsylvania's Lackawanna Valley cast about today for detours to work as a strike of 400 bus and trolley workers choked off their principal transit facilities.

The walkout began shortly after midnight yesterday but did not take full effect until the move-to-work began this morning.

Normally, 80,000 persons ride daily over the 25-mile network of bus and and hour while mechanics receive from $1.27 to $1.42.

It was the second transit strike in this hard coal belt in five years. The union struck for 21 days in 1945 and the walkout ended only when the office of defense transportation took over the company.

NEW AND OLD FACTS ABOUT MOLES

Despite the widespread damages moles cause year after year in American lawns, gardens and fields, comparatively little is written about them. The average farmer or gardener is often unable to obtain more than a few hints about how to meet the menaces this invader brings with him. Every summer the editor receives numerous inquiries from readers about how to get rid of moles. Obviously old truths about this foe should be reviewed and new facts, if any are available, should be offered.

Perhaps the first principle in mole study should be the generally unknown truth that moles are invaluable allies of man in his war against such pests as the Japanese beetle, white grub, and other dangerous crop pests which spend part of their life cycles as pupae or larvae in the ground. So far as it is practicable, therefore, moles should be left alone. Of course, when they turn enemy and begin to damage lawns and gardens they merit immediate execution.

A widespread crime laid at the mole's burrow door is that of gnawing and otherwise damaging bulbs of such plants as tulips, crocuses and other bulbous ornamentals. To his credit let it be known that the mole is rarely guilty of this charge. In almost every case investigated it has been found that the depredations were the work of ground mice following along in the mole's burrow.

Recently the editor made a trip through the South and while conversing with gardeners learned that many southern vegetable growers, orchardists and farmers actually "poison" moles. The emphasis is made because it has long been deemed throughout the north that moles cannot be successfully poisoned because they eat few baits on which poison can be distributed. However, as these animals remain active most of the winter in the extreme south, the editor saw the method working.

Corn or wheat is soaked in water in which strychnine has been dissolved. After the grains are thoroughly saturated, a few are introduced into the mole's burrow with a minimum of disturbance. For with this, as with trapping success depends largely on not interfering much with the animal's travel route, else it will abandon the burrow and construct another highway. This remedy is widely used in mole combat and seems entirely satisfactory for keeping the pests reduced.

In latitudes north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers moles produce their young quite early in the spring, usually in April. If gardeners will keep a close check on this habit and flood the burrows with water after young are born many colonies will be reduced to the parents and in some cases these, too, are drowned.

Where small plots are invaded, such as small city lawns or flower beds, moles may be easily barred by inserting small-mesh woven wire in the ground to a depth of two feet or down to the sills of galvanized wire lasts several years in this role. Or a permanent barrier of concrete, brick or stone may be erected for this purpose.

Digging the invaders out by patient warfare is perhaps the most reliable and certain method of extermination. Trapping as already suggested, may be employed, providing the traps are set with a minimum of interference with the animal's burrow.

GROWING EGGPLANTS

Eggplants are making slow progress in winning a place in the home garden. Yet this is a hardy vegetable, highly productive, and a fine addition to the late summer fall and early winter food supply. There are several tasty ways to prepare and serve eggplant.

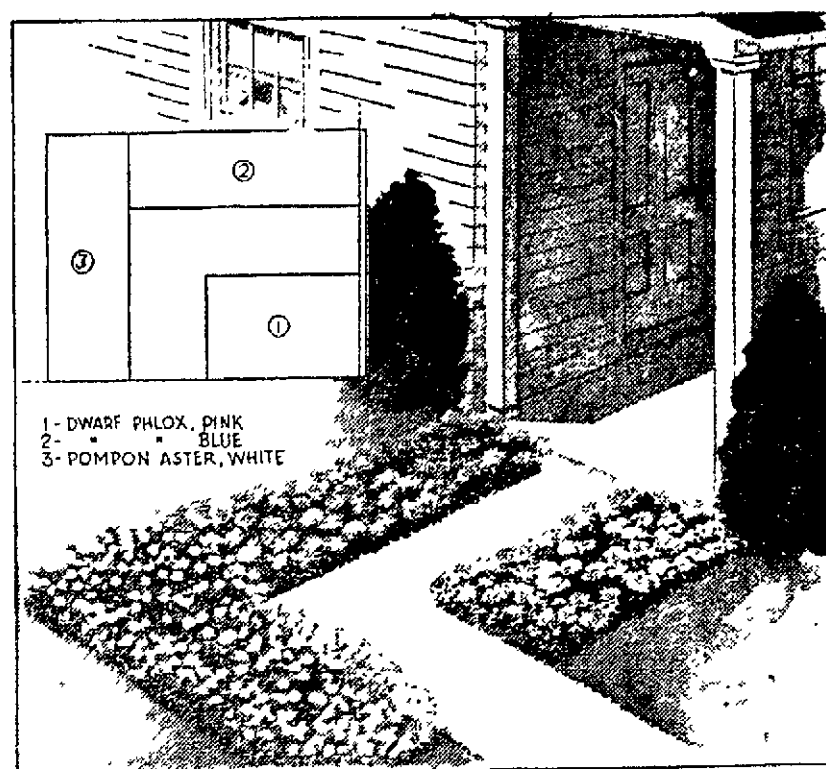

From 145 to 160 days are required from date of sowing seed to maturity of the first edible fruits. Therefore, with so long a growing season required, coupled with the fact that plants should not be set out until after the soil is warm in May, means that seed should be sown in late March or early April and plants be well started under glass before final transplanting time.

Here is the most practical way to start eggplants: Sow seed in a sunny window box, coldframe or hotbed eight to nine weeks before they are to be transplanted to their growing site. After true leaves appear, move plants to individual pots or plant bands and keep them thriving in a sunny coldframe, with plenty of space to prevent spindly development. In late April and early May the frame should be ventilated when weather permits in order to harden the plants off in preparation for moving to their growing place. Make the shift without disturbing the roots. Herein is the wisdom of using plant bands or pots.

The growing soil should be fertile, sunny and well drained. Hard or shallow loams are wholly unsuited for this vegetable. Do not use fresh manure, although a liberal application of well rotted and pulverized manure is beneficial, worked into the lower rooting stratum two or three weeks before plants are set out. Too, 4-8-8 or similar strength fertilizer is recommended, broadcast and worked into the soil at the rate of 2½ to 3½ or 4 pounds per 100 square feet.

Many commercial growers side dress the plants with a high grade animal tankage about the time the first fruits begin to form. In a choice between clay and sandy types of loam, the latter is to be preferred because it warms up

Soaking seeds for a few hours in water hastens germination.

Eggplants should be rotated so they will not be grown on the same ground more often than once every four years. Too, it is unwise to grow this vegetable where potatoes, tomatoes or peppers have grown the previous year. Burning the plant refuse before winter reduces garden-borne disease dangers.

Fruit rot may be prevented by treating seed for 10 minutes in a 1:1000 solution of mercuric chloride before sowing. Soak seed (in a cheesecloth bag) in the solution as advised, then drain and wash for 15 minutes in cold running water. Handle this chemical with care, it is a deadly poison.

Many gardeners spray eggplants over 10 days with 4-6-50 Bordeaux mixture as a further preventive of fruit rot beginning before the first fruits form.

An eggplant is at its peak of edibility when the skin attains a full gloss. At that stage the seeds are small and scarcely noticeable. Too, if the early fruits are harvested at this stage the plants will continue to bear until fall frosts come. Irrigation in dry weather pays big dividends.

When a new home has been built without a basement, so that the floor is just a step above ground level, a different type of planting is required from the conventional "foundation planting."

The purpose of a foundation planting, which consists of a belt of shrubs or evergreens along the foundation line, is to "tie the house to the ground. It raises a green belt to the level of the floor, in effect bumping the house lower.

With the low-set new homes, now so numerous, the lawn provides the green belt, since it is so close to the floor level. There is no room for a foundation planting. If one is made, it will not improve the appearance of the house, since it will make the house, already low enough, seem lower and the shrubs and evergreens will be likely soon to grow so tall as to obscure the windows.

Keep tall trees, shrubs and evergreens at a distance from small low modern houses. Plant flowers about them, to provide an attractive frame for their simple design.

In the illustration is shown a doorway garden, of the fashion which is rapidly spreading over the country.

The entrance walk, instead of dividing the front lawn, is placed at one side of the lot, and leads to a side entrance to the front porch. This leaves the lawn open, and increases its apparent size. Beds of flowers are planted at the angle of the walk.

Low growing flowers are used, in pink, blue and white. Dwarf phlox should be sown directly in the garden, where it will remain in flower all summer, covering the ground like a carpet, with its attractive flowers. Pompon asters grow in low bushes, with many branches with a flower at the end of each branch. They make excellent cut flowers, and the flowers should be cut before they fade to prolong the blooming period.

Small evergreens are used to flank the porch entrance. These must be kept low by annual shearing. In a house of this design no shrubby reports

Dormant Sprays Can Get Results

Dormant sprays are a great help in the fight against various insects so tough as to require stronger concentrations of insecticides than the plants can endure during the growing season. They are used primarily against scale pests but lime sulphur sprays also are effective against certain plant diseases of fruit trees and others.

There are two factors which must be watched in their application. First, the plants must be completely dormant and second, the spray must be applied thoroughly on a mild day when there is no prospect of freezing temperatures for twenty-four hours following the application. Study carefully and follow the directions supplied by the manufacturer of the particular brand chosen.

NEW AND OLD FACTS ABOUT MOLES

Despite the widespread damages moles cause year after year in American lawns, gardens and fields, comparatively little is written about them. The average farmer or gardener is often unable to obtain more than a few hints about how to meet the menaces this invader brings with him. Every summer the editor receives numerous inquiries from readers about how to get rid of moles. Obviously old truths about this foe should be reviewed and new facts, if any are available, should be offered.

Perhaps the first principle in mole study should be the generally unknown truth that moles are invaluable allies of man in his war against such pests as the Japanese beetle, white grub, and other dangerous crop pests which spend part of their life cycles as pupae or larvae in the ground. So far as it is practicable, therefore, moles should be left alone. Of course, when they turn enemy and begin to damage lawns and gardens they merit immediate execution.

A widespread crime laid at the mole's burrow door is that of gnawing and otherwise damaging bulbs of such plants as tulips, crocuses and other bulbous ornamentals. To his credit let it be known that the mole is rarely guilty of this charge. In almost every case investigated it has been found that the depredations were the work of ground mice following along in the mole's burrow.

Recently the editor made a trip through the South and while conversing with gardeners learned that many southern vegetable growers, orchardists and farmers actually "poison" moles. The emphasis is made because it has long been deemed throughout the north that moles cannot be successfully poisoned because they eat few baits on which poison can be distributed. However, as these animals remain active most of the winter in the extreme south, the editor saw the method working.

Corn or wheat is soaked in water in which strychnine has been dissolved. After the grains are thoroughly saturated, a few are introduced into the mole's burrow with this, as with trapping, success depends largely on not interfering much with the animal's travel route, else it will abandon the burrow and construct another highway. This remedy is widely used in mole combat and seems entirely satisfactory for keeping the pests reduced.

In latitudes north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers moles produce their young quite early in the spring, usually in April. If gardeners will keep a close check on this habit and flood the burrows with water after young are born, many colonies will be reduced to the parents and in some cases these, too, are drowned.

Where small plots are invaded, such as small city lawns or flower beds, moles may be easily barred by inserting small-mesh woven wire in the ground to a depth of two feet or down to the subsoil. Galvanized wire lasts several years in this role. Or a permanent barrier of concrete, brick or stone may be erected for this purpose.

Digging the invaders out by patient warfare is perhaps the most reliable and certain method of extermination. Trapping, as already suggested, may be employed, providing the traps are set with a minimum of interference with the animal's burrow.

Front Yard Flower Beds Beautify Modern Houses

When a new home has been built without a basement, so that the floor is just a step above ground level, a different type of planting is required from the conventional "foundation planting."

The purpose of a foundation planting, which consists of a belt of shrubs or evergreens along the foundation line, is to "tie the house to the ground." It raises a green belt to the level of the floor, in effect bringing the house lower.

With the low-set new homes, now so numerous, the lawn provides the green belt, since it is so close to the floor level. There is no room for a foundation planting. If one is made, it will not improve the appearance of the house, since it will make the house, already low enough, seem lower and the shrubs and evergreens will be likely soon to grow so tall as to obscure the windows.

Keep tall trees, shrubs and evergreens at a distance from small low modern houses. Plant flowers about them, to provide an attractive frame for their simple design.

Many gardeners spray eggplants ever 10 days with 4-6-50 Bordeaux mixture as a further preventive of fruit rot, beginning before the first fruits form.

An eggplant is at its peak of edible goodness when the skin attains a full gloss. At that stage the seeds are small and scarcely noticeable. Too, if the early fruits are harvested at this stage the plants will continue to bear until fall frosts come. Irrigation in dry weather pays big dividends.

In the illustration is shown a doorway garden, of the fashion which is rapidly spreading over the country.

The entrance walk, instead of dividing the front lawn, is placed at one side of the lot, and leads to a side entrance to the front porch. This leaves the lawn open, and increases its apparent size. Beds of flowers are planted at the angle of the walk.

GATHERED WISDOM

"When that I was, and a little, tiny boy,"
As Shakespeare said,
I thought the world was meant for joy,
With naught to dread.

For so it seemed, since all about
Were wondrous things
And I had not discovered doubt,
With all it brings.

But soon, when wiser grown had I
With added years,
I sometimes heard my mother sigh
And saw her tears.

And then I learned that always here
Are hurt and care
And sorrows ever waiting near
For all to bear.

At last with clearer sight I see,
Best loved are they
Who bear with faith what has to be
And none can stay.

COPS BREAK UP
NEAR RIOT AT RALLY OF REDS

Pittsburgh, April 4 (AP)—Pittsburgh's police superintendent and a Communist party official were in sharp disagreement today over the manner in which police broke up a near riot after a Communist rally.

No one was injured seriously as police held a crowd of 4,000 to 5,000 at bay outside North Side Carnegie Hall Saturday night. Six persons—none of them Communists—were arrested, five charged with disorderly conduct and one with inciting to riot.

The rally had been called to protest the current trial of 12 top party leaders in New York Federal district court.

William Albertson, executive secretary of the Communist party in northwestern Pennsylvania, was bitter yesterday in his denunciation of the near riot.

Two Versions
Saying he had asked police to prevent violence, Albertson declared in a statement:

"Pittsburgh had a taste last night of Fascism in action. The violent attack on the Communist rally was organized and carried through by Pittsburgh's blue-shirted Hitler-like storm troopers. . . . The police did not do their duty. The police condoned the attack, permitting the maltreatment of innocent bystanders and refused aid when called upon."

Police Superintendent Harvey J. Scott jumped to the defense of his men. Scott said Albertson's comments about the Police department "were just about what we expect from Communists," adding:

179 at Rally
"We will continue to enforce the law and see that order is maintained at and after every public gathering, whether it's Communist-sponsored or not. . . . As far as I am concerned, the Communists should be thankful we were on hand last night."

Scott said about 250 pickets were outside the hall Saturday night along with the spectators. He said none of the pickets or Communists were among those arrested, adding "the trouble came from the spectators."

Scott identified the pickets as members of the AMVETS, the Cath-

Favors Old Age

Washington, April 4 (AP)—Rep. Rhodes (D-Pa.) wants Federal old age payments to begin at age 60 instead of 65.

Rhodes has introduced a bill amending the old age and survivors insurance act. In another bill, Rhodes would amend the public assistance section of the act. Here too the age for receiving benefits would be cut from 65 to 60. In addition, it would prohibit a state from denying assistance through application of the so-called means test.

TRANSIT STRIKE HITS SCRANTON

Scranton, Pa., April 4 (AP)—The four hundred thousand residents of Pennsylvania's Lackawanna Valley cast about today for detours to work as a strike of 400 bus and trolley workers choked off their principal transit facilities.

The walkout began shortly after midnight yesterday but did not take full effect until the move-to-work began this morning.

Normally, 80,000 persons ride daily over the 25-mile network of bus and trolley routes operated by the Scranton Transit company. Industrial and business firms began mobilized car pools in advance of the morning rush hours.

The workers, members of Local 168, AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, are demanding a wage boost of 29 cents hourly for operators, and 35 cents for mechanics. Operators now make $1.21 an hour while mechanics receive from $1.27 to $1.42.

It was the second transit strike in this hard coal belt in five years. The union struck for 21 days, in 1945 and the walkout ended only when the office of defense transportation took over the company.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

The Hon. James Cooper and family left Gettysburg today for their future home at Pottsville, Schuylkill county.

Married: On the 29th ult., by the Rev. Mr. Holland, Mr. John Brinkerhoff, to Miss Margaret Criswell, both of Straban township.

On the 22nd ult., by the Rev. Mr. Sprecher, Mr. Samuel Diehl, to Miss Mary Arb, both of Cashtown.

On the 27th ult., by the Rev. J. Ubrich, Mr. Harvey Rokey, of Cumberland county, to Miss Lydia Glass, of this county.

On the 15th ult., by the same, Mr. William Leathery, of York county, to Miss Susanna Asper, of this county.

On Thursday, by Rev. H. L. Baugher, D.D., Mr. Jesse Snysers, to Miss Elizabeth Peters, both of Menallen township.

Rev. Mr. Martz: Rev. George J. Martz, formerly of our Seminary, who was ordained some months ago as a missionary to India, is to sail Tuesday from Boston, for Madras in Hindostan, and is to join the Lutheran mission at Guntour in that country.

Dueling: It is said that General Taylor has irrevocably determined to strike from the Army and Navy list the name of every officer who shall be engaged in a duel, and to refuse to reinstate those already cashiered for this offense. This vigorous policy will go far to render the amusement unpopular in the service; and will effectually correct the gosconading and bullying, demeanor of some of the very green recipients of the privilege of wearing a gilt button.

Late from Europe: The king of Holland died on the 17th of March.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Rev. E. J. Wolf, of Baltimore, Professor elect in the Theological Seminary, has removed to Gettysburg, and will at once enter on his professional duties.

Mr. John R. Donnell has taken charge of the old Franklin or McClellan House, in this place (center square), which has been thoroughly refitted. Mr. Donnell has had considerable experience as a landlord in York, Hanover and Westminster, and will keep a good house.

[Ad States: "A good stable, a good hostler and a careful porter." . . . "Katalysine Water will always be on hand, free of charge for boarders."

At a congregational meeting held in St. James Lutheran church, on Monday, a resolution was unanimously adopted extending a six months leave of absence to their pastor, Rev. G. W. Enders. Mr. Enders has made a very favorable impression during his brief pastoral services in this place, and the action of the congregation is a graceful recognition thereof.

The first of April, with the settlements incident to it, passed off more smoothly than usual in this place. As a general thing, engagements were promptly met, and money seemed more abundant than was generally apprehended. Both banks promptly discounted all good paper presented, and were prepared to discount larger amounts had there been a demand for them. We read in all this evidence that the financial condition of the county is sound.

Married: Frock-Lester. On the 29th ult., by Rev. W. K. Zieher, D.D. Werten P. Frock, of Carroll county, Md., to Miss Rebecca E. Lester, of Adams county.

Baldwin-Warren: On the 2nd inst., at Arendtsville, by Rev. H. F. Long, Mr. Samuel Baldwin, to Miss Mary A. Warren, both of Menallen township, this county.

Forry-Berlin. On the 18th ult., at East Berlin, by Rev. Deninger, Mr. John B. Forry, of Heidelberg township, York county, to Miss Kate S.

UPLIFT COMPANIONS

Seek the companionship of him who is able to give you an upward lift. There is a tendency on the part of those who look upon themselves as fortunate to seek out those in a like condition, that there may be a blending of misfortune. The result? A worse condition for all concerned.

We should constantly search for those who give us an uplift, who will help us to wipe out the memory of our mistakes and blunders. We all need the companionship of those who are braver than ourselves.

In this game of ours we must hunt for those who are better players than we are—that we, too, may improve and become better. Fellow brooders in misfortune give no exercise to their climbing legs that they may rise above their state of gloom. To the cheerful companion and you, too, will become cheerful.

In my father's library were several books by Samuel Smiles (a good name for a man), who wrote inspirational books that had a wide circulation. He was an English writer. His books so stimulate me that I sought other books of like nature, and from them to a wider variety of books—and never have I ceased to read and be uplifted by the best writers of all time. No one can read the books of Robert Louis Stevenson without feeling himself higher up in the world.

In our daily lives we need these uplift companions to help keep us alive, hopeful, and full of cheer. If life appears too easy, we unconsciously begin to slide down and lose interest, whereas this interest should forever be on the up and up! The chap, in the schoolbook story, who climbed to carve his name highest upon the natural bridge of Virginia, did not look down.

Readers of these daily talks must have noted that I am constantly quoting from writers and thinkers who have inspired me. They, in turn, were inspired as well by others. That is the way it works. The late Bob Davis took the world as his local story; thus everything that he wrote was fresh and instructive. He talked only with those who gave something new to him, that he might give to others.

Companion with your betters and you will become better. You see more, and you will have learned more, from the top rung of the ladder!

BREAD AT ITS BEST!

AMERICA'S FINEST MEN
Choose U.S. Army Careers!

Here's why 191,910 civilians selected Army careers — why 75,082 soldiers re-enlisted — in 1948

- 1 Unlimited advancement. A new system of rewards and promotions based on your initiative and ability.
- 2 Free technical training. The Army maintains the world's greatest schooling system, with over 200 courses.
- 3 Regular promotions, better pay. You can qualify for automatic advances in the lower grades and world-wide pooling of top grade vacancies means a more certain future in the career Army.
- 4 Liberal retirement benefits. Twenty years' service means optional retirement at ½ pay — 30 years' at ¾ pay. And 30 days paid vacation every year!
- 5 Exciting travel and adventure. Peace-time overseas duty among age-old cultures in colorful and historic lands.
- 6 Sports and recreation. Benefit from the Army's splendid conditioning program and the Army's emphasis on team competition.
- 7 A proud profession. A great esprit de corps, a hearty pride and loyalty, characterize the soldiers of today's Army.

NOW! The Highest Standards in Army History!

To win a place in America's new career Army, you must "have what it takes." Call today and find out your chances.

On Murder's Skirts

By Terry Adler

Chapter 16

The landlady at Paul Russell's rooming house said she thought he was upstairs in his room. She called up, "Paul, company for you?"

A door was opened somewhere upstairs and a bored voice said, "Yeah, who is it?"

As Ellen and Raff mounted the steps Ellen said, "It's Ellen, Ellen Carter."

"Well, hello, beautiful. I thought you'd come around now that Old Mother Hubbard's little boy has come bye-bye. But I didn't expect you this soon." There was a note of triumph in Russell's voice and he smiled at her even before he saw him.

They reached the top of the stairs and Raff saw a darkly handsome boy with a cigarette dangling from a sullen mouth. He was almost as tall as Raff and he was wearing a dark robe over flamboyant pajamas.

"Who's this? A bodyguard?" Russell's voice was insolent.

"Hello, Paul. This is a friend of mine, Dr. Rafferty." Turning to Raff, "This is Paul Russell."

"How do you do," said Raff briefly. Neither made any effort to shake hands.

"Come in," Paul said. "Any friend of Ellen's is no friend of mine—male friend that is. You know how these things are." A crooked grin appeared on his lips.

They followed him into the room.

In one corner on a desk stood a whiskey bottle half full. Beside it was a tumbler, also half full.

Ellen sniffed the air. "Smells like a distillery in here."

"Just trying to shake this cold," Paul said irritably.

"If it really is a cold, that stuff won't do it a bit of good," Raff said quietly.

"What do you mean 'if it really is a cold'? What do you think I'm filling this handkerchief with—tears of sorrow?"

Paul was in an ugly mood, Ellen could see at once.

She spoke up quickly, "Dr. Rafferty is an M.D."

Paul's eyes traveled slowly over Raff and finally came to rest on the small black bag he was carrying.

"Ah, yes. I can see his badge." His tone was derisive.

Raff ignored the comment. "How long have you had this cold?"

"Got it Wednesday night."

"What were you doing on Wednesday afternoon?"

"That's none of your business," snapped Paul.

"Okay, if you say so. I'd like to examine your throat and chest."

"Would you now? Well, supposing I tell you I'm bashful?"

"Supposing you sit down and behave yourself." There was unmistakable authority in Raff's voice. Paul's eyes opened wide in surprise.

"What's the matter, Doc? Business kind of slow lately?" he taunted him.

"Sit down and shut up. Nobody's going to hurt you."

Raff took hold of Paul's shoulder and gently but firmly pushed him into a chair. He reached into the black bag for some instruments. Paul watched him in silence as he put a stethoscope to his ears.

"Okay, breathe," said Raff.

"I've been breathing for years, Doc."

"Shut up and breathe deeply."

A minute later Raff put his stethoscope away, looking very thoughtful.

"What the blazes is this all about?" Paul demanded.

"Hold your mouth wide open and don't talk."

Paul started to protest, but Raff rammed a tongue depressor into his mouth. He looked down Paul's throat for a full minute without speaking.

When he finally released him Paul blurted out, "Where'd you get this guy anyway, Ellen. He even smells sterile."

"Okay, funny boy. Relax," Raff turned to Ellen. "It's just a common cold," he told her.

"Gee, he's smart, too," Paul said sarcastically.

"The best thing for you to do Russell," Raff said to him, "is to take a couple of aspirins and get into bed."

Raff closed the little black bag with a snap.

"Another thing — you might try washing your mouth with soap," he said.

"Just any old soap, Doc, or do you want to write out a prescription?"

"For Pete's sake, Paul," Ellen interrupted, "don't be such a smart Aleck. This is serious."

"Serious!" Paul laughed. "I'm in bed for two days with a rotten cold and suddenly you two come busting in here. The Doc here taps me on the chest and tells me I have a common cold. I say it's a rotten cold. He says it's a common cold. What's so serious? Personally I don't even think it's funny."

He turned his back on them and picked up the tumbler of whiskey.

"Paul," Ellen said, "Dr. Bray is dead."

"Yeah, I know. Committed suicide." He didn't seem very concerned.

"Who told you?" Raff asked quickly.

"Holy Smokes, what is this? A doctor's crisis? If it's so important to you, it was Eddie Worden. He and Bill stopped by this afternoon."

"It is important," said Raff slowly. "You see, Dr. Bray was murdered."

"Yes, he was murdered last night around midnight. I spotted the suicide as phony as soon as I saw it. The autopsy confirmed that he was struck in the back first with a hypo full of cyanide."

Paul looked from Raff to Ellen and back again to Raff.

Littlestown

Littlestown—A special offering for World Service was received in Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, on Sunday morning. Following the services, the Girls' Guild received contributions for the Holy Week and Easter flower fund, which money will be used to purchase flowers for the church and then distribute them to the sick and shut-in members following the Easter services. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Harry E. Bair, announced that the Sunday school class taught by Mervin L. Myers will be in charge of placing the electrically lighted cross in the channel for the Holy Week and Easter services. The pastor, the Rev. John C. Brumbach, announced that there will be choir practice Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock instead of the Men's Chorus as previously announced. The pastor also announced the following services for Holy Week and Easter: Palm Sunday, April 10, preparatory service, 10:30 a. m.; Wednesday April 13, adult baptism and confirmation; 6.

Thursday, April 14, dedication of a private communion set which will be presented to the church by the Girls' Guild; Good Friday, April 15, Holy Communion. The Holy Week services will be at 7:30 p. m. Easter Sunday, 10:30 a. m., Holy Communion, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the parsonage, East King street, the Rev. Mr. Brumbach baptized Nancy Christine Hilker, daughter of Walter Eugene and Delta G. (Good) Hilker. She was born in Union township April 20, 1947.

Holy Communion will be administered in St. Luke's Reformed church, White Hall, the Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor, Palm Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The monthly meeting of the missionary society will be held Sunday morning following Sunday school with Mrs. D. C. Shanbrook as the leader.

Flowers were placed on the altar of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday by Mrs. John R. Byers and family in memory of John R. Byers, who died seven years ago on April 10, 1942.

"Should I Be Religious?" was the topic for the Christian Endeavor society of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday evening. Ray and Louella Miller were the leaders. Virginia Plunkert read the scripture lesson. Next Sunday evening Gene Miller will be the leader.

Phyllis Markle was the leader of the Christian Endeavor society of Christ Reformed church on Sunday evening. Theodore Bair read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Irvin Markle offered prayer. The topic, "Long Range Strategy," was discussed by Lewis Bair. Business was in charge of the president, Mervin K. Myers. It was decided to take two additional subscriptions to the Christian Endeavor Quarterly. Mrs. LeRoy Berwanger will be the leader next Sunday evening when the topic will be, "I believe in Christ's Church." The meeting closed with prayer and the Christian Endeavor benediction.

A slight accident occurred Saturday evening about 9 o'clock at Center Square, when Paul Palmer, Littlestown, stopped for a light on South Queen street. John Shoemaker of Littlestown, who was following accidentally struck Palmer. There was no damage to the Palmer car, but Shoemaker's fog lights and grille was damaged. Chief of Police Gage investigated.

Mrs. David S. Kammer, West King street, and her son-in-law and daughter Mary Gail, of Cemetery street, spent the week-end in Philadelphia with Mrs. Kammer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Chambers.

Altar flowers in Rademacher Reformed church on Sunday morning were in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Marker. They were placed there by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bern. Bulletins for the month of April will be given by Mrs. George I. Bemiller in memory of her mother and sister, Charlotte. The pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds received Mrs. Bernard Wolf as a member at the morning service by letter of transfer from Trinity Reformed church, Hanover. The pastor announced that the Beginners' Department will reverse with the Primary and Junior departments on Thursday at 4:30 p. m. in preparation for the Easter program.

There will be a plant visitation on Tuesday by the Littlestown Rotary club. The meeting will be held at 6:15 p. m. in Schottle's banquet hall, with the program in charge of the vocational service committee consisting of George P. Smith, chairman, Arthur E. Bair, Lloyd L. Slately, Frank Krocak and Frank Baschear.

The April meeting of the Alpha Fire company No. 1 will be held in the fire hall, Tuesday at 8 p. m. Plans will be discussed for the reorganization of the uniform rank. A 25-minute sound film, in technicolor, "Fire and How to Fight It" will be shown under the auspices of the entertainment committee.

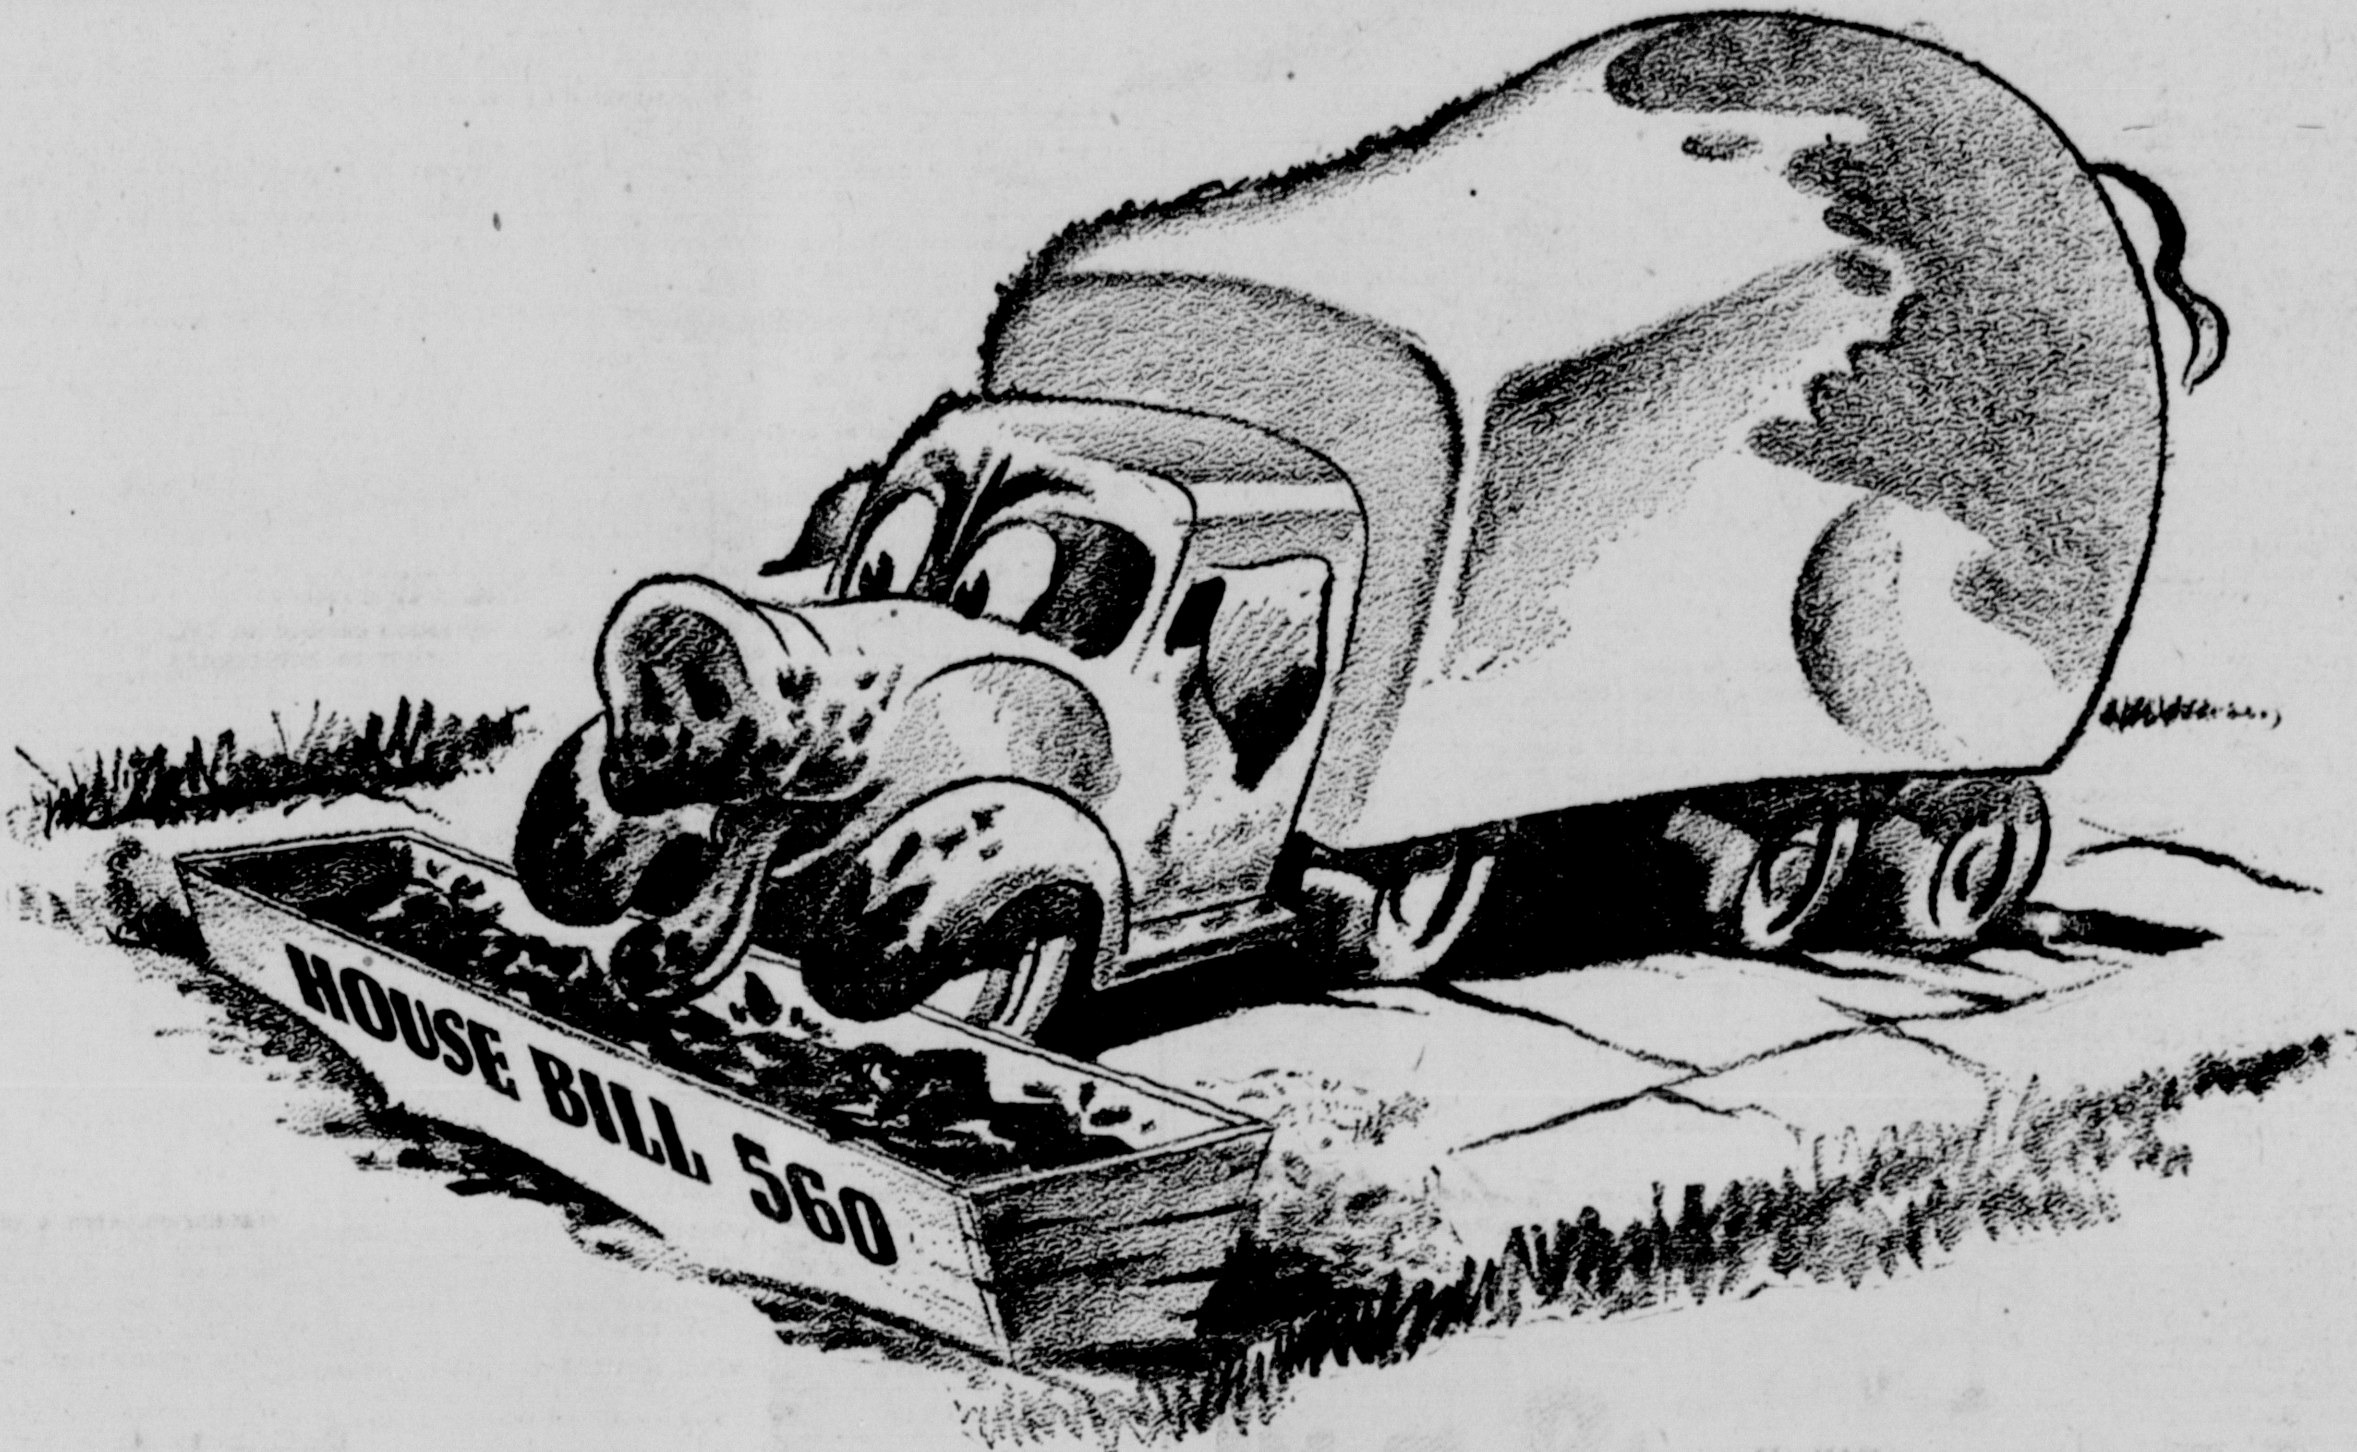

Robert Wareheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice C. Wareheim, Park avenue; David Rineman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Rineman, near town; Albert Zercher, son of Mrs.

Air Force Orders New Super-Bombers

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The Air Force has ordered 44 B-54 bombers, an experimental plane designed to operate at extra-high altitude. An Air Force spokesman said the Boeing bomber is a new, larger version of the B-50, which in turn is a more powerful model of the wartime B-29 Superfortress.

It already has been disclosed that a combination piston-jet engine will go into the B-54. The earlier announcement said the new engine will enable bombers to climb faster and reach altitudes "of nearly eight miles."

Lillian Zercher, "M" street; Donald Feeser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Feeser, Lumber street; and Edward Mehring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mehring, Lumber street, students at the York Junior college, resumed their studies today, following a spring vacation at their homes.

You Can't Satisfy a Road Hog!

BIG tractor-semi-trailer trucks are the hogs of the highways. They've been getting bigger and heavier year by year.

They'll be still heavier if House Bill 560, now before Pennsylvania's State Senate, becomes law.

BIG-truck operators behind this bill want to add another 7½ tons to the weight of these monster vehicles...the old story...a few more tons every year.

YOU are the victim.

YOU pay the taxes to fix the roads that are broken by these terrifying loads.

YOU pay for the thousands of bridges broken and weakened every year by BIG trucks.

YOU own the pleasure car and the reasonable-size commercial vehicle that is crowded off

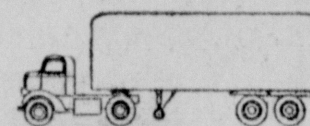

the roads. YOU have to drag along behind these iron curtains on hills.

Residents of Townships are now over-burdened with real estate taxes to repair bridges and highways. Increased BIG-truck weights will mean increased repair costs for YOU.

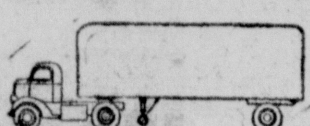

These are YOUR roads! YOUR bridges! And YOU CAN do something about it. YOU can let the State Senate know that YOU oppose the passage of House Bill 560. DO IT NOW.

IF HOUSE BILL 560 PASSES

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 24 tons.

N. A. THOMPSON, SECRETARY

CLEARED OF FRAUD

Philadelphia, April 4, (AP)—The head of the 105-year-old German-town fire insurance company has been cleared of a charge of acquiring more than $1,000,000 worth of the firm's stocks through "fraud and deceit." The Third Circuit Court of Appeals by a 2-1 vote, ruled yesterday the stockholders had failed to prove the charge against Arthur O. Rosenlund, chairman of the board.

On Murder's Skirts

By Terry Adler

Chapter 16

The landlady at Paul Russell's rooming house said she thought he was upstairs in his room. She called up, "Paul, company for you."

A door was opened somewhere upstairs and a bored voice said, "Yeah, who is it?"

As Ellen and Raff mounted the steps Ellen said, "It's Ellen, Ellen Carter."

"Well, hello, beautiful. I thought you'd come around now that Old Mother Hubbard's little boy has one bye-bye. But I didn't expect you this soon. There was a note of triumph in Russell's voice and he jerked him even before he saw him.

They reached the top of the stairs and Raff saw a dark, handsome boy with a cigarette dangling from a sullen mouth. He was almost as tall as Raff and he was wearing a dark robe over flamboyant pajamas.

"Who's this? A bodyguard?" Russell's voice was insolent.

"Hello, Paul. This is a friend of mine, Dr. Rafferty." Turning to Raff, "This is Paul Russell."

"How do you do," said Raff briefly. Neither made any effort to shake hands.

"Come in," Paul said. "Any friend of Ellen's is no friend of mine—male friend that is. You know how these things are." A crooked grin appeared on his lips.

They followed him into the room. In one corner on a desk stood a whiskey bottle half full. Beside it was a tumbler, also half full.

Ellen sniffed the air. "Smells like a distillery in here."

"Just trying to shake this cold," Paul said irritably.

"If it really is a cold, that stuff won't do it a bit of good," Raff said quietly.

"What do you mean if it really is a cold? What do you think I'm filling this handkerchief with—tears of sorrow?"

Paul was in an ugly mood. Ellen could see at once.

She spoke up quickly. "Dr. Rafferty is an M.D."

Paul's eyes traveled slowly over Raff and finally came to rest on the small black bag he was carrying.

"Ah, yes. I can see his badge." His tone was derisive.

Raff ignored the comment. "How long have you had this cold?"

"Got it Wednesday night."

"What were you doing on Wednesday afternoon?"

"That's none of your business," snapped Paul.

"Okay, if you say so. I'd like to examine your throat and chest."

"Would you now? Well, supposing I tell you I'm bashful?"

"Supposing you sit down and behave yourself." There was unmistakable authority in Raff's voice. Paul's eyes opened wide in surprise.

"What's the matter, Doc? Business kind of slow lately?" he taunted him.

"Sit down and shut up. Nobody's going to hurt you."

Raff took hold of Paul's shoulder and gently but firmly pushed him into a chair. He reached into the black bag for some instruments. Paul watched him in silence as he put a stethoscope to his chest.

"Okay, Breathe," said Raff.

"I've been breathing for years, Doc."

"Shut up and breathe deeply."

A minute later Raff put his stethoscope away, looking very thoughtful.

"What the blazes is this all about?" Paul demanded.

"Hold your mouth wide open and don't talk."

Paul started to protest, but Raff rammed a tongue depressor into his mouth. He looked down Paul's throat for a full minute without speaking.

When he finally released him Paul blurted out, "Where'd you get his guy anyway, Ellen. He even smells sterile."

"Okay, funny boy. Relax," Raff turned to Ellen. "It's just a common cold," he told her.

"Gee, he's smart, too," Paul said sarcastically.

"The best thing for you to do Russell," Raff said to him, "is to take a couple of aspirins and get into bed."

Raff closed the little black bag with a snap.

"Another thing — you might try washing your mouth with soap," he said.

"Just any old soap, Doc, or do you want to write out a prescription?"

"For Pete's sake, Paul," Ellen interrupted, "don't be such a smart Aleck. This is serious."

"Serious!" Paul laughed. "I'm in bed for two days with a rotten cold and suddenly you two come busting in here. The Doc here taps me on the chest and tells me I have a common cold. I say it's a rotten cold. He says it's a common cold. What's so serious? Personally I don't even think it's funny."

He turned his back on them and picked up the tumbler of whiskey.

"Paul," Ellen said, "Dr. Bray is dead."

"Yeah, I know. Committed suicide." He didn't seem very concerned.

"Who told you?" Raff asked quickly.

"Holy Smokes, what is this? A doctor's crals? If it's so important to you, it was Eddie Worden. He and Bill stopped by this afternoon."

"It is important," said Raff slowly. "You see, Dr. Bray was murdered."

"Yes. He was murdered last night around midnight. I spotted the suicide as phony as soon as I saw it. The autopsy confirmed that he was struck in the back first with a hypo full of cyanide."

Paul looked from Raff to Ellen and back again to Raff.

Littlestown

Littlestown—A special offering for World Service was received in Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, on Sunday morning. Following the services, the Girls' Guild received contributions for the Holy Week and Easter flower fund, which money will be used to purchase flowers for the church and then distribute them to the sick and shut-in members following the Easter services. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Harry E. Bair, announced that the Sunday school class taught by Mervin L. Myers will be in charge of placing the electrically lighted cross in the chancel for the Holy Week and Easter services. The pastor, the Rev. John C. Brumbach, announced that there will be choir practice Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock instead of the Men's Chorus as previously announced. The pastor also announced the following services for Holy Week and Easter: Palm Sunday, April 10, preparatory service, 10:30 a. m.; Wednesday April 13, who died seven years ago on April 10, 1942, at Littlestown, Pa. Thursday, April 14, dedication of a tomb for the Christian Endeavor society of St. Paul's Lutheran church on Sunday evening. Roy and Louella Miller were the readers. Virginia Plunkert read the scripture lesson. Next Sunday evening Gene Miller will be the leader.

Phyllis Markle was the leader of the Christian Endeavor society of Christ Reformed church on Sunday evening. Theodore Bair read the scripture lesson and Mrs. Irvin Markle offered prayer. The topic, "Long Range Strategy," was discussed by Lewis Bair. Business was in charge of the president, Mervin K. Myers. It was decided to take two additional subscriptions to the Christian Endeavor Quarterly. Mrs. LeRoy Berwanger will be the leader next Sunday evening when the topic will be, "I believe in Christ's Church." The meeting closed with prayer and the Christian Endeavor benediction.

A slight accident occurred Saturday evening about 9 o'clock at Center Square, when Paul Palmer, Littlestown, stopped for a light on South Queen street. John Shoemaker of Littlestown, who was following accidentally struck Palmer. There was no damage to the Palmer car, but Shoemaker's log lights and grille was damaged. Chief of Police Gage investigated.

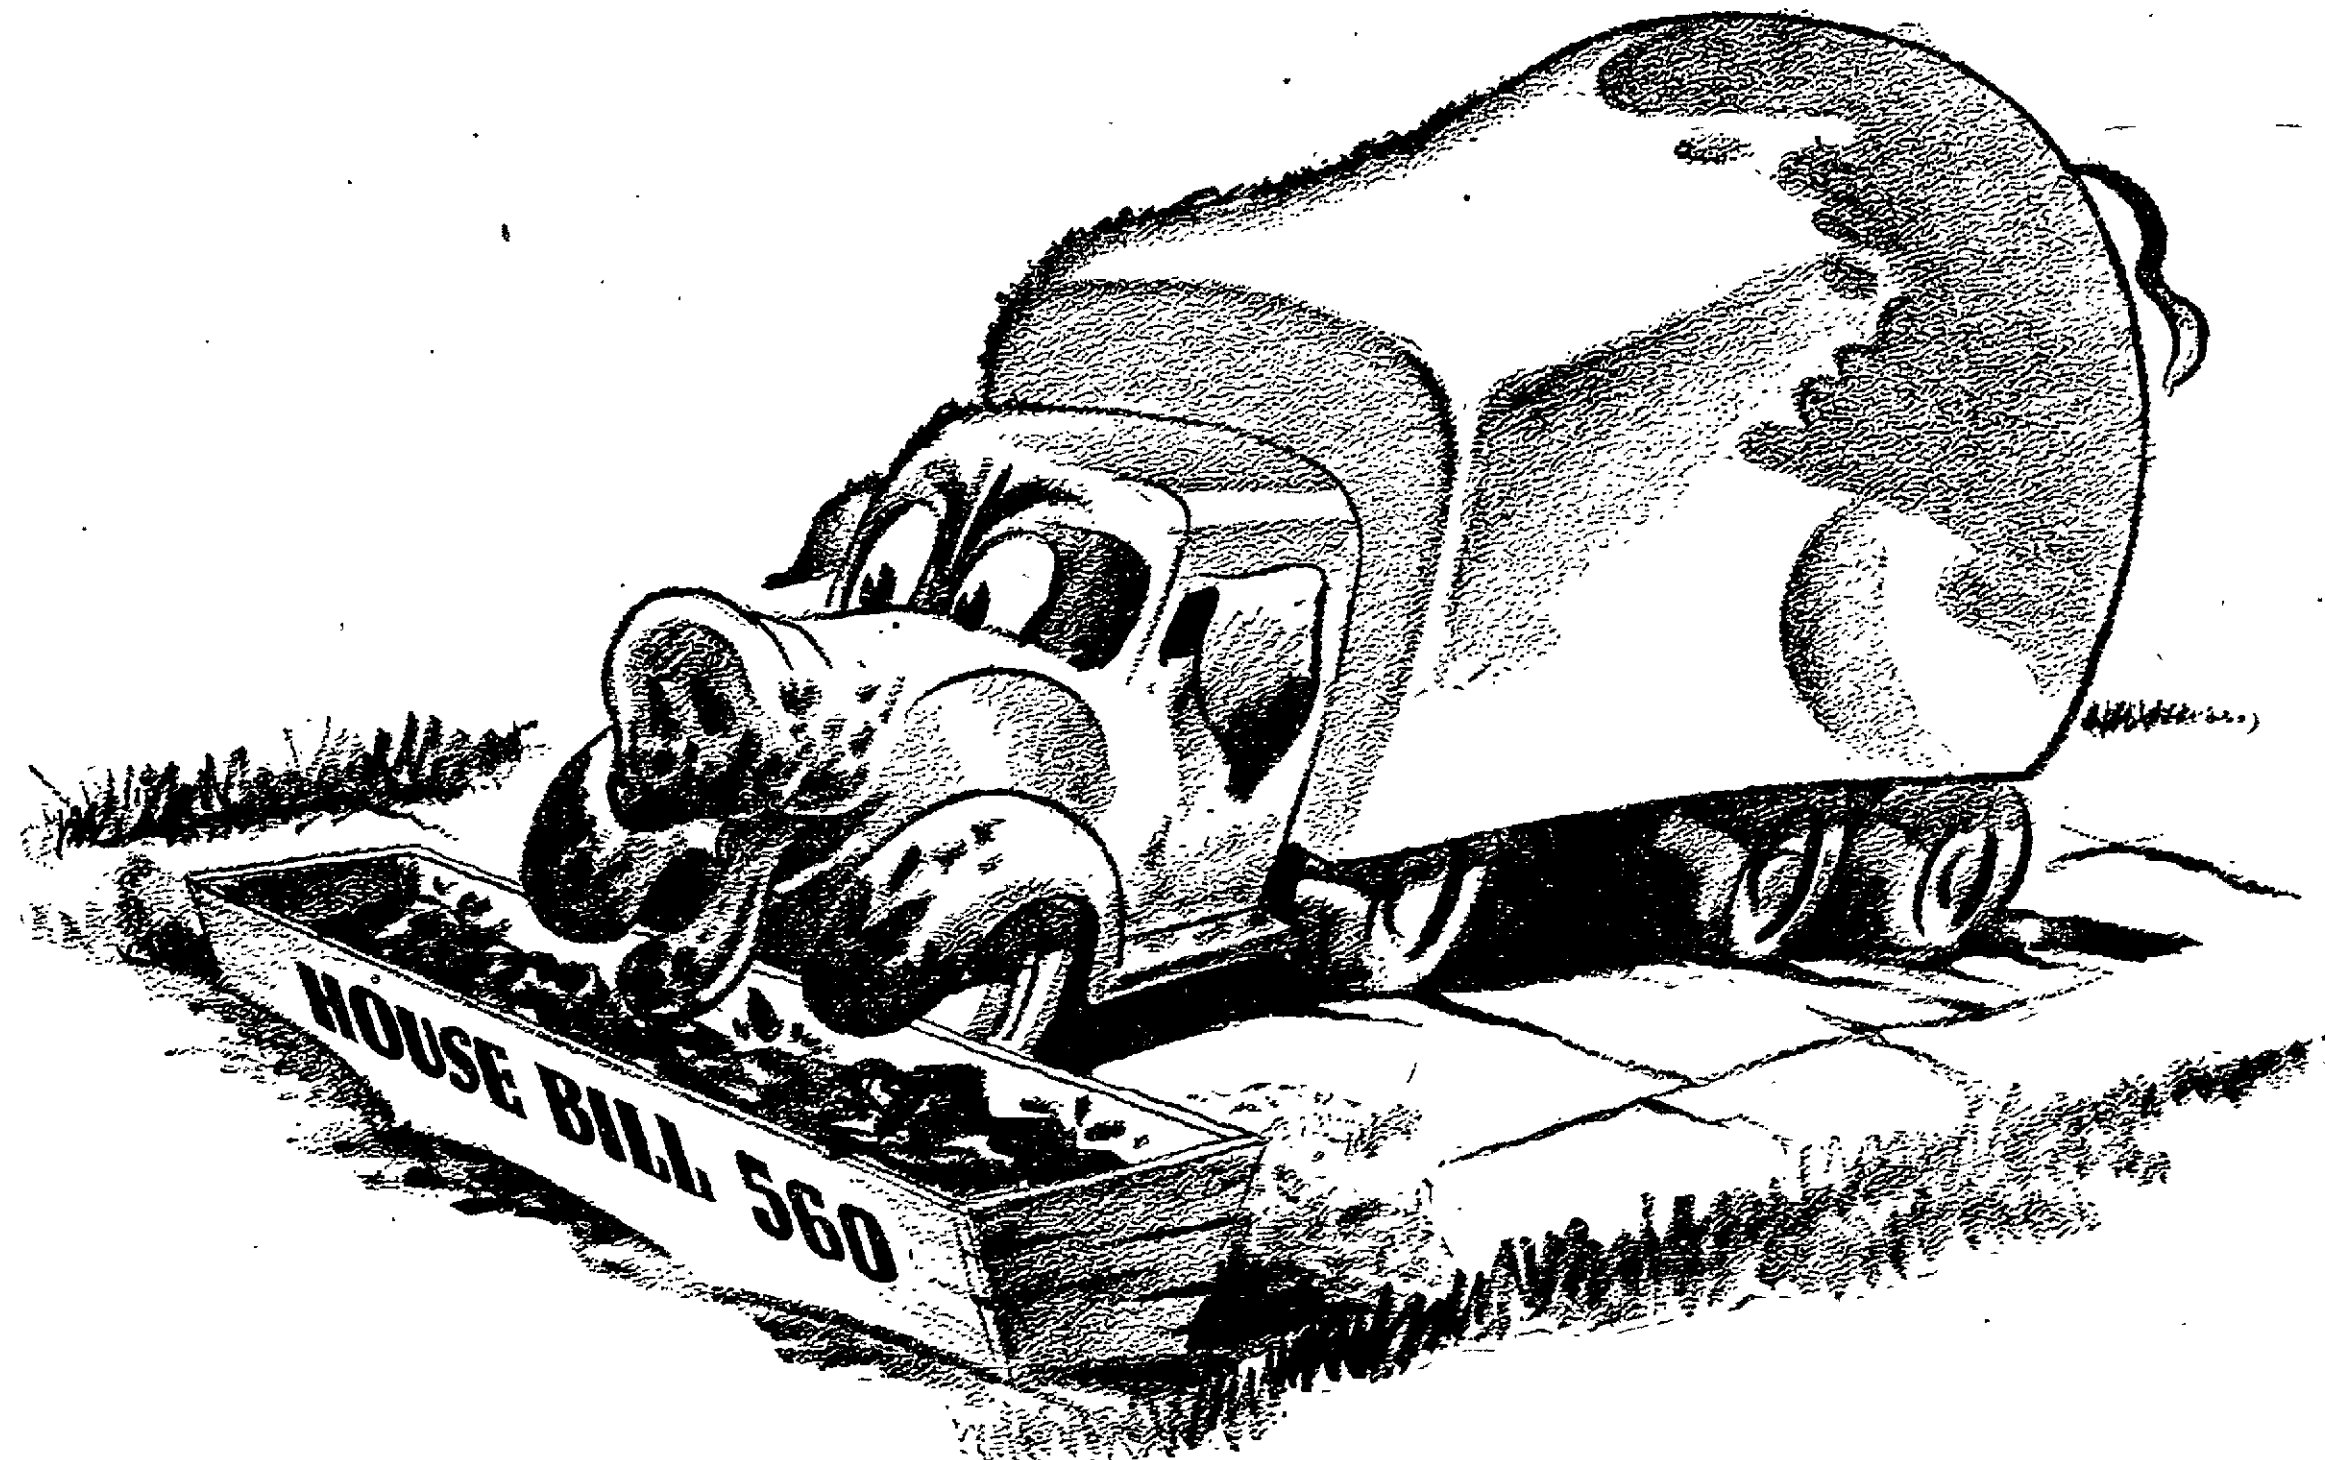

Mrs. David S. Kammer, West King street, and her son-in-law and daughter Mary Gail, of Cemetery street, spent the week-end in Philadelphia with Mrs. Kammer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Chambers. Altar flowers in Redeemer's Reformed church on Sunday morning were in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Marker. They were placed there by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Deim. Bulletins for the month of April will be given by Mrs. George I. Bemiller in memory of her mother and sister, Charlotte. The pastor, the Rev. Frank E. Reynolds received Mrs. Bernard Wolf as a member at the morning service by letter of transfer from Trinity Reformed church.

Air Force Orders New Super-Bombers

Washington, April 4 (AP)—The Air Force has ordered 44 B-54 bombers, an experimental plane designed to operate at extra-high altitude. An Air Force spokesman said the Boeing bomber is a new, larger version of the B-50, which in turn is a more powerful model of the wartime B-29 Superfortress.

It already has been disclosed that a combination piston-jet engine will go into the B-54. The earlier announcement said the new engine will enable bombers to climb faster and reach altitudes "of nearly eight miles."

Lillian Zercher, "M" street; Donald Feeser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Feeser, Lumber street; and Edward Mehrling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mehrling, Lumber street, students at the York Junior college, resumed their studies today, following a spring vacation at their homes.

You Can't Satisfy a Road Hog!

BIG tractor-semi-trailer trucks are the hogs of the highways. They've been getting bigger and heavier year by year.

They'll be still heavier if House Bill 560, now before Pennsylvania's State Senate, becomes law.

BIG-truck operators behind this bill want to add another 7½ tons to the weight of these monster vehicles...the old story...a few more tons every year.

YOU are the victim.

YOU pay the taxes to fix the roads that are broken by these terrifying loads.

YOU pay for the thousands of bridges broken and weakened every year by BIG trucks.

YOU own the pleasure car and the reasonable-size commercial vehicle that is crowded off the roads. YOU have to drag along behind these iron curtains on hills.

Residents of Townships are now over-burdened with real estate taxes to repair bridges and highways. Increased BIG-truck weights will mean increased repair costs for YOU.

These are YOUR roads! YOUR bridges! And YOU CAN do something about it. YOU can let the State Senate know that YOU oppose the passage of House Bill 560. DO IT NOW.

IF HOUSE BILL 560 PASSES

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 30 tons.

The weight of this vehicle and load would increase from 22½ to 24 tons.

CLEARED OF FRAUD

Philadelphia, April 4. — The head of the 195-year-old German-born life insurance company has been cleared of a charge of swindling more than $1,000,000 worth of the firm's stocks through fraud and deceit. The Third Circuit Court of Appeals in a 2-1 vote ruled yesterday the stockholders had failed to prove the charge against Arthur O. Rosenlund, chairman of the board.

The stock in the American Mutual Life Insurance Co. was more than $200

DONALD DUCK

PA. ACCIDENTS ARE FATAL TO 20 OVER WEEK-END

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty persons were killed in Pennsylvania in week-end accidents—nine of them as a result of highway crashes.

On the Bethlehem pike near Sellersville a car and a light pickup truck collided head-on, killing 60-year-old William H. Rohrbach of Hazleton and the truck driver, John Yorach, 36, Perkasie.

A 27-year-old Shippensburg woman was killed by a hit-run car near Chambersburg. She was struck while holding a flashlight for her escort, Charles Wetzel, Jr., Waynesboro, while he repaired a flat tire. Wetzel also was injured.

Don E. Davies, 33, of Franklin, was killed and two others hurt in a head-on collision on Route 322, near Conchran.

Other Traffic Victims

Henry S. Graver, 34, Bethlehem, and James A. Boyle, 21, Cleveland, Ohio, were killed in a crash at Leithsville, near Easton. Police said Graver, who was driving, lost control of his car and it crashed into a tree. Charles P. Harlor, 27, Bethlehem, was injured.

A collision between a jeep and a slag truck in West Milford, near McKeesport, killed Joseph R. McConnell, 23, a passenger in the jeep.

Two boys drowned when they tumbled from an improvised raft into a lake on the grounds of the Malvern preparatory school in the Philadelphia suburbs. The boys—Raymond Wilson, 13, and Charles Wallace, 9, both of Malvern, were fishing at the time of the accident.

John R. Bradley of Boothwyn will be killed when he was wedged under a freight car while working with a shifting crew in Pennsylvania railroad yards.

Fires Fatal To Six

Charles Pronishon, 32, former West Mahony City fire chief, and James Krupo, Jr., 11, died in a fire that destroyed a two-story frame house at Lost Creek, near Shenandoah.

Israel Drazen, 67, retired Philadelphia clothing worker, suffered fatal burns when he tried to put out a blaze in a dining room closet of his home.

Frank Gordon, 75, of Norrisville, Crawford county, died in a fire at his home. He was convalescing from a stroke when his bed caught fire.

PREDICTS CUT IN PRESIDENT'S HOUSING PLAN

Washington, April 4 (AP)—A Democratic senator predicted privately today that President Truman's program for construction of 1,050,000 public housing units in seven years faces a new cut in Congress.

The Senate Banking committee already approved a bill which whittles the program to 810,000 units to be built over a six-year period.

When the bill comes up soon for Senate debate there will be a drive to trim the figure to 600,000 units for construction over six years.

The Senate Democrat who predicted that drive will succeed asked that his name not be used because he is a sponsor of the bill providing for 810,000 units and expects to fight for it.

"I know for sure from a sampling of the opinion around here," the senator said, "that we haven't got a chance of getting the 810,000-unit bill through as it stands. That means the President's figure of 1,050,000 units is just out."

Seek Slum Clearance

On the other hand, Senator Ellender (D-La.), chief sponsor of the bill calling for 810,000 dwellings, told a reporter he believes the chances are better than five to one that a program of that size will clear both the Senate and the House.

The prospect now is that the bill will be called up for action in the Senate after it disposes of the European Aid bill, a supplemental appropriation measure and the reciprocal trade bill. There has been some talk, however, of putting housing ahead of reciprocal trade. In that case, the housing bill might come up next week.

Besides public housing, the bill provides for slum clearance, a housing research program designed to cut building costs and spur construction, and a four-year farm home program.

as exploding kerosene set fire to her kitchen.

Mrs. Anna McClurkin, 51, of Philadelphia, fell headlong down a flight of stairs at the home of her daughter, and died three hours later at Episcopal hospital. Mrs. Olga Swanson, 63, of Washington, Pa., died Sunday night of burns sustained when her clothing was ignited by an open gas stove last Sunday night.

Frances Laskowsky, 12, 61 R. D. 1 Ashville, Pa., was killed by an auto as she dismounted from a bus Sunday night. William Govier, 21, of Johnstown, Pa., was killed and a companion, Sammy Swope, 26, also of Johnstown, was critically injured Sunday when their automobile overturned and struck a utility pole near Johnstown.

Waynesboro Man Is Held In Hit-Run Case

Chambersburg, Pa., April 4 (AP)—A 31-year-old Waynesboro man today faced a hit-run charge in the auto death of Lorraine McManus, 27, of Shippensburg.

Henry D. Lyles, manager of a loan service office was committed to the Franklin county jail in default of $1,000 bail following an arraignment Saturday night before Justice of the Peace S. J. Zarger.

Miss McManus was run down, state police said, when she held a flashlight for her escort, Charles Wetzel, Jr., Waynesboro. The accident took place early Saturday on the Lincoln highway, a mile and a half east of Chambersburg. Wetzel was injured in the crash and is reported to be in a fair condition at the Chambersburg hospital.

MOTORISTS ROBBED

Philadelphia, April 4 (AP)—A bandit got away with $4,065 last night forcing his way at gunpoint into an automobile and making its operator drive more than six miles. Detective Joseph Foley reported, Foley said the money was taken from two passengers in the car, who said they were en route to Reading, Pa. Foley said Raymond Trainor lost $4,000 and the remainder was taken from Harry Silverstein.

on Feb. 12, shortly after Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary was sentenced to life imprisonment by a Hungarian court which convicted him of treason.

Informed prelates said the special mass of expiation was the first of its kind celebrated in the ancient basilica.

A few minutes earlier, the pope led a regular Passion Sunday mass. In saying it he celebrated the 50th anniversary of his priesthood, which was Saturday.

QUELL COSTA RICA REVOLT

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 4 (AP)—Costa Rica's second revolt in four months has been crushed by Jose Figueres, head of the military junta governing the tiny republic. The rebellion broke out late Saturday and was all over yesterday morning.

Figueres' war minister, Edgar Cardona, seized two army barracks and demanded the cancellation of laws nationalizing banks and imposing a 10 per cent tax on capital. He also demanded the resignation of the ministers of finance and labor.

Cardona surrendered the artillery barracks when his revolt was only a few hours old. The other rebel stronghold, the Bellavista barracks, were given up shortly after dawn Sunday when government mortars registered seven direct hits on the rebels.

Many killed and wounded were carried from Bellavista.

The Figueres group said the entire country was quiet and that the people had rallied to the support of Figueres and Otilio Ulate Blanco, the president-elect.

Pope Says Mass To Expiate Enemies' Sins

Vatican City, April 4 (AP)—Pope Pius XII yesterday celebrated a special mass at St. Peter's basilica "to expiate the crime of the enemies of God"—the Communists.

About 30,000 persons heard the mass, for which the pontiff called

Make Surveys To Fix U.S.-Red Zone

Berlin, April 4 (AP)—The Americans and Russians sent out surveying teams today to determine who controls what in divided Berlin. The action followed three boundary disputes last night and today.

Involved are slivers of land claimed by both the Americans and Russians. Surveyors were told to check the boundary between Soviet-occupied territory and the American sector.

The disputes stemmed from sharpened Russian efforts to tighten their blockade against western Berlin by such means as trenches, road blocks and border police patrols.

A couple of dozen German policemen, at least two Russian officers and several soldiers, some representatives of the American military government's public safety branch and a number of agitated German civilians got into the quarrels. No one was hurt.

such service, and part of the amount will go to the American Cancer society for its work on a national scale.

Plans to distribute 10,000 copies of a pamphlet listing the danger signals of cancer were being worked out by representatives of the county cancer group and Boy and Girl Scout leaders. The scout troops have agreed to distribute the folders to every home in the county during April.

"May Lengthen Your Life"

John A. Hauser, president of the county unit, pointed out that cancer will cause more than 200,000 deaths in this country during the coming year. "Some 18 million people now living will die of cancer if the present death rate continues. This figure indicates that half the homes in America will know the tragedy of a cancer death. No one can determine where or whom it will strike. As a result we should do all we can to support the drive to fight cancer. You may be contributing to a cause that will lengthen your own life; you certainly are contributing to a cause that will help many of your friends and loved ones."

The Adams Advertising agency has volunteered use of two outdoor signboards during April, President Hauser said, and large banners have been distributed and placed in prominent spots in nearly every town in the county in order to remind everyone of the need to support cancer research.

Coin boxes are being distributed to many stores and business establishments in the county.
